Election Eve Speeches Hit Communism, War Themes

GOP Win Seen Aiding Country; Democrats Decry 'Smear' Tactics

By The Associated Press

A Korea-and-communism controversy crackled across across the country yesterday as both political parties wound up their election campaigns with predictions of victory.

Taking the Republican lead yesterday, GOP National Chairman Guy George Gabrielson called for the election of a GOP Congress to insure two-party government in the event that Chinese Communist intervention in Korea leads to "a ghastly world war III."

For the Democrats, Mrs. India Edwards, national vice chairman, assailed what she called "smear and fear tactics of people who have nothing in their records to which they can point with pride."

"The false issues called 'communism' and 'socialism' are used to cover up the real issue: Whether the selfish lobbies can gain their ends at the expense of the American people."

Gabrielson, forecasting "significant" gains by his party, said "the people appear determined to register their protest against the policies of appeasement toward Communists in Asia, and the domestic program leading to socialism."

He added in a final preelection statement that the voters "know that if we are on the brink of a ghastly third world war, their best interests call for a Republican Congress that would constitute, with the Democrat President, a real, constitutional coalition government."

In another major Republican declaration, Senator Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio) charged the Democratic Administration with bringing about high prices and high taxes. And he added that President Truman "killed" the bipartisan foreign policy "from the date of his election in 1948."

Taft closed his broadcast with the statement that "this Administration has lost the peace after the American people won the war."

To many observers it looked like a close election despite Gabrielson's forecast of "significant" Republican gains and Mr. Truman's prediction that "the Democratic Party is on the way to victory again."

Democratic National Chairman William M. Boyle backed up the President with a prediction in St. Louis that his party would pick up 2 to 4 seats in the Senate and increase "our membership in the House of Representatives."

The Gallup Poll

51% Favor Democrats, 49% Support Republicans

By George Gallup
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 5.—This year's final Institute election survey points to continued Democratic control of the United States House of Representatives.

Interviewing of voters on the House races showed a national vote division, excluding undecided, of: Democratic 51 percent, Republican 49.

The survey ended November 3. A total of 5 percent had still not made up their minds at this late date.

Party percentages cannot be translated into House seats, but past elections may serve as a useful guide. Compared with the 1948 congressional elections, the survey figures show a shift of sentiment toward the GOP which would indicate moderate seat gains for the Republicans this year. They need to gain 46 seats to win a majority.

At the same time it should be pointed out that in the 1938 congressional election the Democrats polled 50.8 percent of the total vote—almost exactly today's figure. If the same relationship between percentages and seats exists in Tuesday's election, the Democrats would increase their present majority by a few seats.

A total of 14 percent undecided in the survey was reduced to 5 percent through use of a question to determine their present political "leaning." How the 5 percent still undecided will finally make up their minds cannot be ascertained accurately. If it is assumed that they will divide in approximately the same way as those who do state a preference, the party standings are as shown above—51 to 49 percent in favor of the Democrats.

In areas outside the South, where the Republicans have practically their only chance of registering gains, the GOP polls 51½ percent in the survey, the Democrats 48½. This compares with a vote of 50 percent Republican outside the South in the 1948 congressional races. The seats divided 263 Democratic, 171 Republican in that election.

Fairfax Senator Backs Executive Plan; Democrat Hits Charter Rule

By Richard Morris
Post Reporter

Politics in nearby Maryland and Virginia reached the do-or-die stage yesterday as voters and candidates pointed to Tuesday's elections with one eye on the turnout, the other on the outcome.

The Free State, with a bumper crop of two-party fights for Governor, Congress and local offices, looked for as many as half a million voters at the polls.

In the off-year election of 1946, the same two gubernatorial candidates now running—W. Preston Lane, jr., and Theodore R. McKeldin—attracted 487,000 voters. A record number of votes—928,000—has registered in Maryland this year.

Quiet South of Potomac

Across the Potomac River in Virginia, neither a senatorial nor gubernatorial contest is on tap. Coupled with the traditional weakness of the Old Dominion's GOP, this lack of a major fight has led vote-guessers and vote-getters to expect only about 100,000 at the polls.

A sizable chunk of this total will be represented in the nearby area, where the population is heavy and the issues lively.

Eleventh-hour campaigning upheld the conclusion that the bitterest battles are in Fairfax County, Va., and Montgomery County, Md.

Clarke Likes Executive Form

State Senator Andrew W. Clarke of Alexandria, who represents Fairfax in the General Assembly, reiterated his stand in favor of retaining the present county government until voters can get one "especially drafted for them" with a new charter.

Clarke put in a strong plea for the executive form, however, "if a change is desired by the people at this time."

He said this type does not "create one-man control" of government, "as would the other plan"—the county manager proposal.

C. B. Runyon, pro-county manager member of the Fairfax Board of Supervisors, advised against banking on a "tailor-made" proposal. "Do not be misled," he said, "that a special form for Fairfax can be put through the General Assembly."

"You were promised a special form in 1941," he added. "It was never delivered."

Reds Force British Back Four Miles

U. S. Convoy Reaches Trapped Marines; Lone Yank Bridge Over River Periled

SEOUL, Nov. 5 (AP).—United Nations forces jockeyed for position in frigid weather today against a threatened Communist thrust in the weaker central section of the northwest Korea battle front.

Minor advances and withdrawals, supported by Allied air power, took place as American and South Korean forces endeavored to tighten the line extending northeast and east across the peninsula from Sinanju to Tokchon and Kilchu.

A strong Communist attack was developing against the vital United Nations bridge position north of Anju on the Chong-Chon River, threatening the lone American bridge.

An Eighth Army spokesman at the front said a full enemy division has moved into the area south of Pakchon.

Anju is about 40 air miles northwest of Pyongyang and Pakchon is eight miles farther to the northwest.

One enemy attack at 5:15 a.m. today drove nearly one mile through the left flank of an American element defending the bridgehead, six miles north of Anju.

By 6:30 a.m., doughboys stopped and contained the attack, the spokesman said.

Another attack hit the American right flank at 5:30 a. m., on the road leading to Anju from the north. But this was blunted and beaten back without loss of ground.

The British commonwealth brigade withdrew about 4 miles to the east bank of the Taeryong River Sunday and was deployed with American elements and a supporting South Korean force in a compact defensive wedge. United Nations forces have prepared a strong defense in depth to hold the vital bridge.

On the south bank of the Chongchon River see-saw fighting continued throughout Sunday night for high-ground positions 2 miles north of Kunu. The heights were taken and lost several times by Communist forces and the South Koreans, but at last reports, the spokesman said, the Reds appeared to be holding the positions.

In northeast Korea, North Korean tanks and Chinese Communists have completely stalled the Marine assault toward Changjin Reservoir despite a record-breaking 94 sorties by supporting Marine planes.

A Tenth Corps spokesman said

China's Answer to MacArthur May Hold Key to World War

U. S. Warning to China Seen on Power Plants

By The Associated Press

The United States Government was reported last night to be considering telling Communist China that power plants on the North Korea-Manchuria border will be destroyed if more troops are sent against U. N. forces in Korea.

Reliable informants said the country has in mind telling Communist China, in effect, these things:

1. Agreements under which Communist China and Korea share the huge Suiho dam, on the Korean-Manchurian border, will be observed and maintained if China refrains from further intervention in the Korean conflict.

2. If Red China sends more troops against the United Nations forces in Korea, the Suiho power dam will be destroyed.

Presumably, this double-barreled assurance and warning will be delivered through the United Nations, if this Government decides

U. N. Retreats Forecast If Peiping Acts Boldly

TOKYO, (Monday), Nov. 6 (AP). Sources close to General Douglas MacArthur said today the start of World War III may well hinge on the Chinese reply to MacArthur's assertion that "alien Communists" have entered the war in Korea.

"Everything depends" on Chinese reaction to MacArthur's communique, these sources said.

They said they expected the answer would be delivered either in a formal statement—or by the dispatch of more divisions.

As far as Korea itself is concerned, as of now, headquarters was calm today and confident about the military position. The military potential of the Chinese armies in Manchuria is well known. So is the movement of the other forces in China proper.

Immediately available in Manchuria are about 300,000 trained

Says Allies Foiled Trap Set by Units From China

U. N. Chieftain Hits Intervention by 'Alien Communists' In Korean War

TOKYO, (Monday) Nov. 6 (AP)—General MacArthur said today that a fresh army of "alien Communist forces" has entered Korea from Manchuria. He branded this move "one of the most offensive acts of international lawlessness" in history.

Any large-scale move from the north to reinforce this new army would be "a matter of the gravest international significance," the United Nations commander declared in a signed United Nations communique.

MacArthur did not identify the new force as Chinese. But he did say its entry followed defeat of the North Korean Army so decisively as to make the Korean Reds alone incapable of continuing the war against U. N. might.

MacArthur said the stealthy move, "without any notice of belligerency," failed in its apparent intent to trap and destroy the U. N. Army. By timely detection and skilfull maneuvering, U. N. troops fell back and stabilized a new defense line in preparation for "destruction of those forces now arrayed against us in North Korea . . ."

(In Kansas City, Mo., Presidential Secretary Charles Ross said President Truman probably would not comment on the matter. It was familiar with the statement and the developments prompting it.

(At Lake Success, United Nations officials said they had received no direct report from MacArthur on movement of Red troops into Korea from Manchuria. Diplomats at the U. N. have been waiting for a direct charge by MacArthur that Chinese Communists have intervened in the Korean war. They predicted it would lead to a U. S. demand for Security Council action.

(In New York a United States spokesman said Warren R. Austin, United States delegate to the U. N., probably would inform the United Nations Monday of MacArthur's charges.

(Informed sources told the United Press the information will be disclosed by the United States delegation at 9 a. m. EST., then laid before the Security Council in the afternoon.

(The Council has a session scheduled for Monday afternoon when Austin can press MacArthur's

Truman Sure Of Victory For Democrats

President to Vote In Independence, To Return Same Day

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Reporter

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 5.—President Truman, back in the Missouri country where he got his start in politics, was described today as "extremely confident" of a Democratic victory on Tuesday.

Once again the Chief Executive is at odds with the "experts."

At a news conference in Washington 10 days ago, Mr. Truman told reporters that he expected a landslide victory for the Democrats when the American people elect a new House of Representatives and a third of the Senate this week.

In his lone campaign speech Saturday night at St. Louis, Mr. Truman recalled his accurate forecast of 1948 and said "the Democratic Party is on the way to victory again."

Most political writers in Washington, judging from available evidence, do not look for any great upheaval in Congress as a result of Tuesday's balloting. They expect that the Republicans will make some gains, but that the Democrats will retain control of both the Senate and House.

Hennings Given Edge

Here in Missouri the betting is 8 to 5 that Thomas C. Hennings, jr., Democrat, will defeat Senator Forrest C. Donnell, the Republican incumbent. There isn't much betting, however, and Kansas City and St. Louis political writers appear to be wary of forecasts.

Mr. Truman has received some encouraging reports on Illinois. Politicians who came over from that State yesterday assured him that Senator Scott Lucas, Democratic floor leader, would defeat his Republican challenger, Everett Dirksen.

The Chief Executive went out of his way to take a dig at Dirksen in his speech Saturday night. In referring to isolationist candidates who "have dragged our foreign policy into politics," he departed from his text to say that "one" of them was over in Illinois—an unmistakable reference to Dirksen.

Mr. Truman, after addressing the Democratic rally, spent the night at the Jefferson Hotel. He had breakfast there this morning with his sister, Miss Mary Jane Truman of Grandview.

The sun was out and the temperature was benign on this Sabbath day, but the President passed up his customary early-morning walk.

He took off in his airplane, the Independence, at 9:15 a.m. for the

'Rescue' Bid For Assassin False Alarm

Secret Service Flocks To Gallinger When Four Youths Get Lost

Four Virginia youths who lost their way in Gallinger Hospital last night and wandered near the room of Oscar Collazo, would-be assassin of President Truman, brought a flock of Secret Service agents running and created a general furor for a time.

First reports were that four "wild-eyed, foreign-looking" men had tried to storm the heavily guarded second-floor room, where Collazo is recovering from a superficial bullet wound.

The four were taken into custody by a Deputy U. S. Marshal and a uniformed policeman on guard in the corridor. Another Deputy U. S. Marshal is on guard in the room.

The Secret Service was notified and agents raced to the hospital to search and question the youths. The four finally explained satisfactorily that they had visited a relative in the hospital and had lost their way when it was time to leave. All four were released shortly before midnight.

Meanwhile, the body of Grisello Torresola, one of the would-be assassins of President Truman, was returned last night to Brooklyn, where funeral services will be held sometime Wednesday.

William E. Leahy, Washington lawyer appointed "officer of the court" last week to advise Collazo of his legal rights, will report back to District Court Judge Edward A. Tamm at 10 a. m. today.

Maj. Roy Barnes Of Andrews Dies In Mo. Car Crash

Maj. Roy I. Barnes, 32, chief pilot in the flight training branch of the Military Air Transport Service at Andrews Air Force Base, was killed in an automobile accident near Wellington, Mo., yesterday.

A companion, Richard Lee Lindsey, 38, of Kansas City, also died in the accident. A woman passenger, Lee Ibers, also of Kansas City, suffered undetermined injuries.

Major Barnes entered the Army Air Corps in 1941. In 1944-45, he flew with the Air Transport Command in the China, Burma, and India theater, and for three years afterward was stationed in Honolulu. He was assigned to MATS headquarters at Andrews in October, 1949.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Sally M. Barnes, 5306 P st. se.; their 1-year-old and 4-year-old boys, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Barnes, Hale, Mo.

Full Chinese Intervention Held Likely

MacArthur Believed Asking U. N. to Let Him Bomb Manchuria

By Russell Brines

HONOLULU, Nov. 5 (AP).—General MacArthur's communique on alien Communist entry into Korea was a sharp warning that Asia faces a widespread and unpredictable war.

It was issued only after careful investigation apparently convinced American military authorities that Chinese Communists are prepared for full intervention in Korea.

Less than a week ago when I last saw MacArthur, he still was not convinced that the Chinese Reds would take the fateful plunge.

MacArthur plainly asked United Nations authority to bomb Manchurian airfields, supply bases and communications as a necessary defensive measure to cut down enemy power at its source, instead of permitting it to hit in force.

The Chinese apparently have entered the campaign in strength as part of a careful plan to pin down United Nations forces through the winter and to cause the largest possible number of casualties.

Most American officers in Tokyo believed the Russians had decided against risking a general war when they avoided earlier, more favorable military opportunities for sending the Chinese into action.

Now it appears that the Kremlin has decided to take the risk.

Arms Program Allays Fears Of Recession

Marshall Drawing Up A Four-Year Blueprint For Military Production

SEA ISLAND, Ga., Nov. 5 (AP).—Secretary of Defense Marshall is drawing up a four-year program of military production, at a steady rate of build-up, to rearm the United States and its allies, it was learned today.

The blueprint, said to be about half finished, will try to schedule the flow of military orders evenly to prevent temporary shutdowns or layoffs in industry.

Marshall, here to address the Business Advisory Council of the Department of Commerce, was not ready to estimate how deeply the munitions effort will bite into civilion goods production.

But he gave assurance the volume of orders will be great enough in the months immediately ahead to take up any "slack" in civilian business caused by the Government's emergency controls.

This served to allay fears held by some of the 90 industrial leaders attending the three-day conference that civilian cutbacks might bring a temporary "recession" in early 1951, until military production hits its stride.

The Marshall speech was off the record, as were all council sessions, but reporters learned of these further developments:

1. Secretary of Commerce Sawyer, presiding, has asked the steel industry for an even greater expansion than the 9,500,000 tons of new capacity already promised by the end of 1952.

2. National Production Administrator William H. Harrison concurred in the need for expansion of both aluminum and steel. He reported that shortages of power and manganese, respectively, put a limit on the expansion plans.

3. Harrison gave assurance there is no plan to put specific limits on the output of consumer end-products, like autos or refrigerators. Instead, the supply of materials going into factories will be choked down.

The businessmen without dissent indorsed this policy. It will permit use of substitutes and design changes to keep total production at a high level even while conserving scarce materials.

4. A "bitter" debate on price and wage controls found most of the industrialists lined up against direct controls. But there was general agreement some curbs might be needed if military spending shoots above 30 billion dollars a year.

Some officials have estimated the defense budget for fiscal 1952, starting next July 1, may run as high as 55 billion dollars, but other guesses have ranged considerably lower.

Griffith Sees No All-Out Entry Of Chinese Now

By The Associated Press

Assistant Secretary of Defense Paul Griffith said yesterday it was his guess that "it will be impossible to plan to bring the boys back (from Korea) before Christmas."

Griffith, interviewed on the National Broadcasting Co.'s "Meet the Press" television show, also said he did not believe the present fighting in Korea represented an "all-out entry of Red Chinese into the war."

He said the Defense Department had known for some time that there were a number of Chinese Communist troops in Manchuria but that those engaged so far were "only in token number."

He said it was understood there were some 300,000 Chinese Communist troops in Manchuria, but that "no such numbers as that have participated yet."

NEW YORK, Nov. 5 (U.P.)—James A. Farley, former national Democratic chairman, today threw his support to Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri, who is running for election as mayor of New York against the regular Democratic nominee.

Farley said he is a Democrat and "have been one all my life," but that he believes that the leaders of the city Democratic Party "have not recognized or have wilfully disregarded the wishes and sentiments among the rank and file of the Democratic Party in this city."

Farley's indorsement of Impellitteri further widened the breach between the former postmaster and Edward J. Flynn, national Democratic committeeman

5000 Hear Cardinal Spellman In Catholic U. Charity Appeal

The Washington Post

AT CONFERENCE—The Most Rev. Patrick A. O'Boyle, Archbishop of Washington (left), shows Francis Cardinal Spellman, Archbishop of New York, the Assumption dogma medal he received on his recent Vatican trip

More than 5000 persons here last night heard Francis Cardinal Spellman urge all Catholics to rededicate themselves to principles of charity.

"Today," said Cardinal Spellman, "hundreds of thousands of people seek the services and help of Catholic Charities—hundreds of thousands of people in need of hospitalization, shelter or care.

"Their fate rests within the hands and hearts of us to whom God has given bountifully of His blessings."

Cardinal Spellman spoke at the 36th National Conference of Catholic Charities. The session in the gymnasium at Catholic University closed the general meeting of the conference. Business meetings will end today at the Statler Hotel.

"The very reason for the existence and the definition of Catholic Charities is the fervent practice of our faith evidenced by a religious life and daily deeds of charity," the Cardinal said.

"True charity means that we not only wish our neighbor well, but seek to do him good."

Cardinal Spellman declared:

"Times have changed—and not for the better. Men have failed each other because first they failed God. And as there are men

'Foot' Gets Back in Football:

Redskins Lose on Kick, 24-21; 3 Field Goals Beat Eagles, 9-7

The foot was put back in pro football yesterday and a lively scramble of the standings resulted.

It was a 40-yard field goal in the last four seconds by Ray Poole that enabled the New York Giants to edge the luckless Washington Redskins, 24-21, at the Polo Grounds.

That victory boosted the Giants into a tie for second place in the American Division of the National Football League. They're tied with the Philadelphia Eagles, who lost to Pittsburgh, 9-7, on three field goals by Joe Geri.

A three-pointer by Lou Groza gave the Cleveland Browns a 10-7 win over the Chicago Cardinals to regain first place from the Eagles.

Baltimore's heretofore winless Colts stirred up plenty of excitement by trouncing Green Bay 41-21. It was the first victory in 20 games for Baltimore.

In other games, the Chicago Bears rolled over Detroit, 35-21, and the Los Angeles Rams topped stubborn San Francisco, 28-21.

Cold War Heats Up in Balkans In Satellites' New Campaign

LONDON, Nov. 5 (U.P.).—The cold war is heating up in the Balkans again.

Russia's satellites in southeastern Europe have begun a new campaign against Titoite Yugoslavia as well as against their non-Communist neighbors, Greece, Italy and Turkey. Bulgaria and Albania have been chosen by Moscow to lead the campaign.

Moscow radio in the last 48 hours broadcast a protest of Albania to Rome against alleged frontier violations by Italian planes, charging the government with hostile aims toward Albania.

It also gave prominence to an Albanian protest against alleged Yugoslav violations and armed provocations on the northern frontier of Albania.

This completes a series of similar protests lodged by Cominform members throughout the week against countries this side of the Iron Curtain.

Latest Moscow official propaganda confirmed earlier indications that Albania—smallest of Russia's European satellites—is again enjoying full support from the Kremlin.

Cost of Living To Hit New High in Spring, CIO Says

By The Associated Press

A prediction that the cost of living will "probably break through" next spring to the highest point since the end of World War II was issued yesterday by the CIO Economic Outlook.

The labor publication declared that neither the wage demands of unions nor scare buying by United States housewives is to blame for rising prices. Instead, it said:

"The plain truth is that old-fashioned speculative buying, on the commodity exchanges and in other business places, has been the major cause of the price inflation since June 25 (when the Korean war broke out).

"The full force of soaring commodity prices has hardly been felt by American families—yet. Wholesale prices, which are up more than seven percent since the Korean war began, warn of what is going to happen at the corner store."

Londoners See Object Streak Across Skies

LONDON, Nov. 5 (AP).—Ground staff workers at London airport said they saw and heard an object streak over the airport skies tonight from the northeast and disappear in the southwest. Some said it trailed a bluish light and others a twin trail of purple light.

Control tower officials said they did not see the object. A spokesman for the Civil Aviation Ministry said the airport workers might have seen a jet aircraft.

Lama Still in Lhasa, India Agent Reports

NEW DELHI, India, Nov. 5 (AP). India's representative in Tibet informed his government by telegram today that the 16-year-old Dalai Lama, facing up to the Chinese Communist invasion of his country, still is in his capital at Lhasa. The boy ruler's government of Buddhist priests has been in continuous session since Red troops moved to "liberate" the land on the world's rooftop, he reported.

The Indian diplomat, Dr. S. Sinha, broke a week-long silence to report that, although considerable confusion prevailed in the isolated capital, the earthly and spiritual leader of three million Tibetans and his elderly regent, Takta Rimpoche, still were in control.

An Indian foreign office spokesman said Dr. Sinha made no mention of possible plans for the Dalai Lama to flee his monastery capital. This first official word contradicted persistent rumors attributed this week to Tibetan traders that the boy and his regent had fled in the face of the invading Communist Chinese columns driving through the Himalayan passes of the country.

Malaya Ups Export Tax On Rubber

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya, Nov. 5 (AP).—The government of Malaya today ordered a stiff hike in taxes on rubber exports, effective January 1, to drain off large profits and halt inflation.

The new duties will be effective for the first quarter of 1951 and will be changed every three months.

On an annual production of 650,000 tons of rubber, the duty is expected to produce 270 million Straits dollars against 90 million at the current rate. The Straits dollar is currently worth 32¾ cents in United States money.

The new tax scale provides a boost in the duty from 5 to 12 cents on rubber sold at one Straits dollar a pound; from 6 to 18 cents on sales at one Straits dollar and 20 cents, and from 7 to 25 cents on the price of one Straits dollar and 40 cents.

Further increases are provided up to a sale price of three Straits dollars, not yet reached. The levy on the recent average price of two Straits dollars a pound for spot loose rubber would total 52 cents.

MacArthur Warns Reds charges if the American Government decides that is the best policy.)

For more than a week, South Korean and American military officers in Korea have been reporting Chinese Communists in battle there. Estimates have ranged from three to six divisions.

MacArthur said the North Korean army was finished as a fighting force in October by the inflicting of 335,000 casualties. This included 135,000 Reds who were captured.

"In the face of this victory of United Nations arms," his communique said, "the Communists committed one of the most offensive acts of international lawlessness of historic record..."

This consisted of "moving, without any notice of belligerency, elements of alien Communist forces across the Yalu River into North Korea."

Additionally, he said, the alien Communists massed "a great concentration of possible reinforcing divisions with adequate supply behind the privileged sanctuary of the adjacent Manchurian border."

U. N. air force officers have said that pilots were briefed carefully to avoid the Manchurian side of the border. Red China's government has charged there have been several border violations, and the United States has admitted accidental bombings, offering compensation.

MacArthur said that opportune detection and the quick withdrawals, which amounted to as much as 50 miles, averted a "potential danger."

He gave this assessment of the present situation:

"While the North Korean forces with which we were initially engaged have been destroyed or rendered impotent for military action, a new and fresh army now faces us, backed up by a possibility of large alien reserves and adequate supply within easy reach to the enemy but beyond the limits of our present sphere of military action.

"Whether and to what extent these reserves will be moved forward to reinforce units now committed remains to be seen and is a matter of the gravest international significance.

"Our present mission is limited to the destruction of those forces now arrayed against us in North Korea, with a view to achieving the United Nations' objective to bring unity and peace

Major Red Acts Feared In Hongkong

HONGKONG, Nov. 5 (AP).—The impression grew here today that the Chinese Communists are preparing for a major step soon which might touch off international repercussions.

What that step might be is anybody's guess.

In this British colony, likely to be the first victim of any Far Eastern explosion, observers were put on edge by:

1. An unconfirmed report that Chinese Communists have placed Dairen, Port Arthur, Mukden and two other Manchurian cities under martial law.

2. The equally unconfirmed report that the vital rail line between Peiping and Mukden has been closed to all passenger traffic and reserved for military use. The line branches southeast to Antung on the Manchurian border—70 miles from the fighting front in North Korea.

3. A Chinese Communist announcement that shelters are being built and "air raid protection measures" taken in Mukden. Private reports said these precautions were being hastened because the Chinese Reds expect "something will happen" soon in the Mukden area.

4. Release by the Communist New China News agency of a six-page, saber-rattling article. It said the United States was threatening China's border; therefore Chinese support of the North Koreans "is not only a moral duty ... but is determined by the necessity of self-defense."

Chinese Nationalist intelligence sources on Formosa said the Chinese Communists have deployed about 320,000 Reds for action in Korea. These sources said the 320,000 form nine Red armies, with six already believed to be in Korea and three at the border.

(In Seoul, Maj. Gen. Chung Il Kwon, commander in chief of the South Korean army, said Sunday there were three reasons why Communist China had sent troops into Korea:

(1. Communist China made a mutual assistance military pact with North Korea at Mukden in March, 1948, and agreed to send aid whenever needed. Such a pact has been often rumored but never confirmed.

(2. China wants to protect the Suiho hydroelectric plant on the Yalu River, boundary for Manchuria and North Korea. Suiho supplies power to munition plants at Asan and Mukden.

(3. Pressure from behind. This pressure, Chung implied, could be explained only by desire of another power that the United States expend its military strength in a prolonged conflict in Korea.)

The most unsettling of all today's reports was the jingoistic, belligerent tone of the official news release distributed in Hongkong by the Communist News Agency.

The keynote was a Peiping dispatch quoting a "joint declaration" of nearly 5000 words by China's "various Democratic Parties."

The Truman home at Independence, 10 miles from the center of Kansas City, is closed for the time being. Consequently, the Chief Executive drove to the Muehlebach Hotel and took over a penthouse suite.

A number of old war comrades of Mr. Truman, who served with him in Battery D when he was a captain in France in 1918, called on him during the day.

They included Msgr. L. Curtis Tiernan, who was Catholic chaplain of the 129th Field Artillery Regiment, which included Battery D; Harry Joves, Gene Donnelly, Lavere (Puppy) Leigh and Frank Spina, who was the Battery barber.

Spina brought his scissors along and gave the President a haircut. He performed the same service for Charles G. Ross, White House press secretary, and James Rowley, chief of the White House Secret Service detail.

Others who called on the Chief Executive were The Rev. Welbern Bowman, pastor of the Grandview Baptist Church; Maj. Gen. Ralph Truman, cousin of the President, and Mrs. Truman; Federal District Judge Albert Ridge, another veteran of Battery D, and James C. King of the Kansas City Star.

Mr. Truman's luncheon guests at the Muehlebach today were Representative Richard Bolling (D., Mo.); Tom Evans, radio executive and gentleman farmer; Alexander Sachs, Kansas City postmaster; J. Vivian Truman, the President's brother and his son, J. C. Truman; Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, Army aide and White House secretaries Matthew J. Connelly and Ross.

Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, the President will motor to Independence to dedicate a liberty bell given to the town by the citizens of Annecy-le-Vieux, France. The mayor of Annecy, Georges Volland, arrived today, and was taken sight-seeing by Robert P. Weatherford, mayor of Kansas City.

Mr. Truman will cast his vote in Independence Tuesday morning. He will take off for Washington shortly thereafter, and plans to be back about 3 p. m.

France Firm On Germans, Schuman Says

ROME, Nov. 5 (U.P.).—French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman indicated today that his country would stand firm against full participation of Germans in the proposed unified European army.

Schuman told a press conference here that "there can be no possible solution without the accord of all countries on the point of Germans participating in the European army."

The French have insisted that German participation be limited to individual regiments. The United States, Britain and other pact countries want full German participation on the division level.

Schuman declined to comment on the Russian proposal for a Big Four meeting on the question of German rearmament.

Executive sessions of the Foreign Ministers Committee ended last night but side meetings of standing and working committees continued today with the participation of German and Saar delegates who are not yet members of the ministerial committee.

The ministerial committee also decided to propose to the Consultative Assembly, which convenes at Strasbourg November 17, to accept a declaration condemning "false propaganda for peace" but reaffirming that the Council of Europe "works always to nourish and maintain healthy conditions for peace."

Virginian Gives Up American Citizenship

MANILA, Nov. 5 (AP).—Francis Burton Harrison, 76, former United States Governor General of the Philippines, flew here Saturday to spend the rest of his days in the islands.

Harrison, a resident of Charlottesville, Va., recently surrendered his American citizenship to become a Filipino citizen. He joined the Roman Catholic Church.

troops—veterans of the Chinese civil war.

They are the Fifty-fifth, Fifty-sixth, Fifty-seventh, Sixty-sixth, Sixty-seventh and Fortieth Army Groups. In addition, there are two cavalry divisions, an artillery division and one army infantry

These are elite units.

In addition, another 300,000 men are available and are believed to be either in Manchuria or North China.

The whole force is under the command of General Lin Piao, one of the most successful commanders in the Communist victory over the Chinese Nationalists.

The Chinese Reds thus have the potentiality of vastly outnumbering present United Nations forces in Korea—if they intend to commit the entire force.

Militarily, the situation probably would become a greatly expanded version of the first days of the Korean war.

That is, there would be a slow, fighting U. N. retreat back down the peninsula, brought about mainly by flanking and encirclement made possible by numerically superior Communist forces.

Such action on the part of the Chinese Reds could touch off the big war.

This apparently is what MacArthur meant by the sentence "whether and to what extent these reserves will be moved forward to reinforce units now committed remains to be seen and is a matter of the gravest international significance."

group not yet identified.

Whether the Communist world is prepared to take this colossal step is a secret, most probably locked in the depths of the Kremlin.

that China should be so informed. No definite information was available, however, on this point.

The statement of policy concerning the Suiho dam would be based on the assumption that Chinese fears concerning the big power dam, in case United Nations forces reach it, may have been one of the main reasons for the sending of the Chinese forces now fighting in Korea.

The presence of "alien Communist forces" in the fighting against United Nations troops are noted in a special communique today from Gen. Douglas MacArthur, U. N. commander in the Far East.

He did not identify the alien forces as Chinese Communists but reports from the battlefield have. These battlefield reports have indicated that three to six divisions of such troops might be in the fighting.

Germ Warfare?

Infected Rats Uncovered in Pyongyang

PYONGYANG, Korea, Nov. 5 (U.P.).—Five thousand rats and mice inoculated with deadly plague and other germs were found today in a super-secret bacteriological laboratory operated here since 1947 under supervision of a Russian woman scientist.

It was believed the discovery would provide a clew to the type of germ warfare that Communist countries might be carrying out.

Only 380 of the plague carriers were alive when discovered. None was believed to have been turned loose or to have escaped from their their sealed cages, though fleas from the dead animals might spread disease.

A civilian doctor who worked on the project in an expensively equipped laboratory on the south side of Pyongyang, former Red capital, tipped off American authorities on existence of the project.

The doctor mentioned it while being interrogated by agents of Maj. George F. Gormlie, intelligence officer of the 187th Paratroop Regiment.

The North Korean said that more than 5000 rats and mice were inoculated with such diseases as bubonic plague, encephalitis and eurirrawaddy fever immediately after the United Nations landing at Inchon.

The animals were kept in cages in groups of from 2 to 20. They were well fed and their furs were sprayed with a chemical that encouraged the multiplication of fleas. The North Korean doctor said the fleas, deserting the animal when it died, would spread the deadly diseases faster than rats and mice.

When the U. N. troops swept toward Pyongyang the laboratory was destroyed and some of the equipment and cages of rats and mice were moved to a small settlement about 8 miles north of Pyongyang. Headquarters were set up at a church.

The Russian woman scientist who had organized and directed the project disappeared and it was believed she fled with North Korean and Russian officials who abandoned Pyongyang before it was captured.

The big rats were kept in the church. Cages of from two to five white mice were left at the homes of villagers. The people were not told the mice were diseased.

When paratroopers closed in on the settlement, they were prepared to kill the guards they were told were at the church. They had orders to destroy all the animals and thoroughly spray the entire area with chemicals that should destroy the fleas.

U. S. Cites Aid To Germans in Reply to Jibes

FRANKFURT, Germany, Nov. 5 (U.P.).—American aid to Germany since the end of the war exceeds American occupation costs by more than one billion and 800 million dollars, a U. S. High Commission report showed today.

The report coincided with German complaints that Americans and Allied nationals in Germany are outnumbered more than 4 to 1 by their cooks, chauffeurs, servants and other employes.

The Germans claim 455,000 are employed to serve 100,000 American and Allied members of the occupation organization at an annual cost of $309,522,800, charged against occupation costs and paid by the German taxpayer.

German newspapers and politicians for months have been criticizing what they call "luxurious living" by the Allies in Germany,

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Nov. 5 (U.P.).—The Chinese Communists have named a high-powered delegation to attend the United Nations Security Council debate on their charges that the United States committed aggression in sending the Seventh Fleet to protect Formosa, reliable sources revealed today.

Informants said the chief of the delegation is Gen. Shiu-chun Wu, former chief of staff to Gen. Lin Pao, who played the major role in conquering the Chinese mainland for the Communists. Wu is now listed as chief of the Soviet and East European Division of the Peiping Foreign Office.

Debate on the Formosa charges is due to begin in the Security Council on or soon after November 15. According to present plans, the Chinese Communists will fly here from Prague about that time.

The General Assembly, meanwhile, is expected to take up the whole delicate problem of Formosa's future some time this week. Both the Nationalists, who hold the island redoubt, and the Communists, who repeatedly have threatened invasion of the island to complete their conquest of China, insist that Formosa rightly belongs to China.

But the United States took the initiative in putting the questions of Formosa's future before the U. N.

It is taken for granted a proposal will be made to invite Chinese Communist envoys to participate in the General Assembly debate as well as that in the Council.

The decision to make the invitation to Peiping effective November 15 was taken, in the view of most observers here, because the Truman Administration was understandably reluctant to have them arrive before the elections Tuesday.

2 Jap Treaty Proposal Exceptions Reported

TAIPEI, Formosa, Nov. 5 (U.P.).—Authoritative sources said today that Nationalist China had accepted all of America's proposals for a Japanese peace treaty except those covering Formosa and the nearby Pescadores Islands.

They said that in turn the United States had pledged itself to recognize only Nationalist China in all negotiations.

The sources said that under the American proposals the fate of Formosa, the Pescadores and other Japanese areas taken over by surrender would be determined through an agreement by the United States, Britain, the Soviet Union and Nationalist China.

The Nationalists, however, said the sovereignty of Formosa and the Pescadores had been determined at the Cairo conference and affirmed at Potsdam, and that further talks were not necessary.

As a result of this difference, the whole issue may be taken to the United Nations for final settlement, it appeared.

The authoritative sources said American proposals included a meeting of the four nations before the end of next August and a stipulation that Japanese areas taken by force of arms and not now under strategic trusteeship to the United States be placed under United Nations trusteeship.

The United States also was said to have proposed that China drop all claims for reparations.

The Nationalists were reported to have replied that they would drop reparation claims only on the condition Japanese technicians and other technical aid be sent to China.

Chinese Warn U. S. On Use of A-Bomb

HONGKONG (Monday), Nov. 6 (U.P.)—A newspaper editorial broadcast by the Chinese Communist Peiping radio warned the United States today not to use the atomic bomb in fighting near the Korean-Manchurian frontier because American cities offered choice target for retaliation.

The editorial, published by the Peiping People's Daily News, followed publication of a declaration by the Chinese Communist Party

Court Arguments to Deal Mainly With Milk Quality

By Sam Zagoria
Post Reporter

(Second of a Series)

Milk, the essential food for infants, children, the aged or ill, is ironically a primary medium for the spread of bacteria.

Thus arguments over the quality of one supply of milk or another, before District Court Judge Alexander Holtzoff Wednesday are expected to deal essentially with comparative purity and safety.

The independents declare that if milk is good enough to receive the United States Public Health Service grade A label, it is safe enough for anyone to consume.

The District Health Department contends its regulations assure a milk supply equal to the finest in the Nation.

Both Viewpoints Contrasted

To help understand the differences, here are some basic facts about both viewpoints:

1. The District.

The Health Department feels its regulations are the minimum standards necessary and that any well-operated, clean farm can meet them. It denies the existence of any trick requirements, as has been charged, or favoritism to members of the Maryland-Virginia Milk Producers Association.

The department has seven field inspectors who check farms as far off as 300 miles. Their expenses are paid by the city government.

The inspections consist of a detailed check of stable and yard, milk house, utensils, water supply, milking and care of milk, attendants, toilet facilities and cattle. A score of 70 of a possible 100 is required to receive a permit. Inspectors check about four farms a day on the average.

The District places great emphasis on the farm inspections, arguing that laboratory tests cannot reveal infallibly the disease-breeding potential of milk or its pureness.

Has 3-Point Plan

2. The United States Public Health Service.

This agency has a three-point inspection plan:

1. Minimum standards which 32 States, 1500 municipalities and two territories have adopted as their own to bring some order out of conflicting regulations.

2. City and State health officials enforce these regulations and they have authority to yank permits from farms which break them.

3. USPHS sends inspectors to spot check on enforcement.

To receive a PHS grade A rating, a group of farms in one area —a milkshed—must score 90 out of possible 100 on such things as the milk house, health of animals, dairy barn, utensils, milking, personnel, accuracy grading, labeling and local enforcement of requirements. At least two farm inspections a year are required. The ratings are good for two years.

The national minimum requirements are subject to review only by a PHS advisory board consisting of Federal, State and municipal health men.

The USPHS philosophy is that communities have a right to know what kind of milk they are getting—and the PHS label answers that— and also that communities do not have the right to exclude milk that meets good public health standards.

Minimum Standards Listed

On the record, here are the minimum standards of the PHS, D. C., Maryland and Virginia milk regulations:

District—3.5 percent butterfat; 8 percent solids; bacterial plate count of 100,000 per cubic centimeter before pasteurization; 40,000 after.

Public Health — 3.25 percent butterfat; 8 percent solids; 200,000 before pasteurization; 30,000 after.

Maryland—3.5 percent butterfat; 8.5 percent solids; 200,000 before pasteurization and 30,000 after.

Virginia—3.25 percent butterfat; 8.5 percent solids; 100,000 before pasteurization and 30,000 after.

Publicly, PHS does not want to criticize D. C. regulations, and vice versa, but privately—that's another thing. Here is some of the debate:

PHS contends the District doesn't accept another State's certification of milk quality, but it does take their word on tuberculin testing of cows.

The District asks: How can we take another State's grade A as gospel when their inspections are made by employes hired and paid by the dairies involved?

PHS charges the District didn't score so well on its plant rating when its milkshed was inspected. The last complete survey by PHS was January 26, 1938, and D. C. scored 83 percent on retail raw milk; 91.4 percent on raw milk sold to plants; 75.4 percent on pasteurization plant operations and 83 percent on the total rating of pasteurized milk and no rating has been asked since.

The District answers that pasteurization plants have improved greatly since then. The PHS survey, the District answers, was inadequate. A District official said the inspection covered 25 farms in a day and "hardly looked at the cows."

PHS declares it relies on local enforcement agencies to maintain continuing inspections of the farms and "check" on their animal health records. Two inspections of a farm a year are required to retain the label, it says.

The District contends PHS inspection standards are below its own.

3-4 Million Jews Needed for Stable Israel, Silver Says

PORTSMOUTH, Va., Nov. 5 (AP).—A world Zionist leader said here today that "the young state of Israel will not be strong and secure until there are three to four million Jews there, firmly rooted the First Precinct Station, who ar-

"The State of Israel cannot by its own resources accomplish this any more than it could have achieved its political independence by its own efforts exclusively," declared Dr. Abba Hill Silver, of Cleveland, Ohio.

More than 500 delegates attended the session and unanimously elected Isadore S. Turover, industrialist and Zionist leader from Washington, D. C., to a second term as president of the region.

The final volumes of "F.D.R. His Personal Letters" will be published in The Washington Post for the first time. The first installment of this correspondence will appear on Sunday, November 12.

U. N. Retreat Followed by Sabotage

PYONGYANG, Korea, Nov. 5 (U.P.).—Reports of United Nations reverses on the battlefields to the north touched off a wave of sabotage in this former North Korean capital today.

Stringent security measures were invoked after flames started by a fire bomb thrown into a building where Russian propaganda was being collected razed a downtown block.

Tough battle-tested paratroopers of the 187th Regimental Combat Team rushed into the city and started a systematic search of every building and the tunnels which honeycomb the ground below Pyongyang.

Meanwhile, more mass graves were found, including eight with about 300 bodies each at the city's cemetery. It was not determined whether any Americans were among the dead.

Hanoi Flank Lines Crumble As Rebels Capture New Fort

SAIGON, Indo-China, Nov. 5 (U.P.). — The French have yielded another fortress and a 40-mile string of defense posts on either side of Hanoi to Viet Minh rebels, it was announced today.

Military headquarters here said the French had evacuated Hoa Binh, army stronghold on the Black River, 33 miles southwest of Hanoi. Only yesterday the French admitted relinquishing a 25-mile chain of forts stretching south of Hoa Binh along the western edge of the Red River delta.

Northeast of the metropolis, the high command spokesman disclosed, colonial and native troops had abandoned posts from Chu to the vicinity of Dinhlap, leaving a gaping hole in what was once a solid defense line. Chu is only 52 miles from Hanoi, capital of Tonkin Province and gateway to the fertile delta country.

The spokesman's reports indicated the French are girding for a momentary showdown with the victorious Communist army in an effort to prevent the ripening delta rice crop from falling into rebel hands.

The calculated withdrawal from Hoa Binh, together with the loss of the northern frontier forts, puts the front only 20 miles from Hanoi due north and south of the city.

The small-scale battle between French and rebel forces some 50 miles southeast of Hanoi, in the heart of the delta, apparently was still raging.

Marguerite Higgins Gets News Club Award

NEW YORK, Nov. 5 (AP).—War Correspondent Marguerite Higgins of the New York Herald Tribune has been named the outstanding woman reporter of the year by the New York Newspaper Women's Club.

The club said today that Miss Higgins would receive a special citation November 17 commending her for her reporting from the Korean front, "for her courage under fire and her bravery in administering blood plasma to the wounded."

Miss Higgins recently returned to this country from Korea.

Everything at Steak!

By Albert Parchey Mesirow

BY THIS TIME day-after-tomorrow, the Congressional elections of 1950 will be history. Arrangements will have been made to pay off bets that went wrong and except for a relative handful of families who will be moving from or to Washington, the country will be rapidly settling back down to the business of living and making a living. Newcomers to our town are frequently amazed at the apparent apathy of the native Washingtonian at election time. Some of this is, of course, due to the fact that we do not share with our fellow citizens, the duties and privileges of the ballot. But even beyond this, we who live so close to Government are in no fear that it will fail because this or that party is in or out of power. One hundred years have taught us that politicians come and go, but Washington stays on. In my own twenty years as a restaurateur, I have seen many a political big-wig roll noisily into Washington on the crest of a wave, and flow quietly out on its ebb. Quite a few of them have been patrons of this establishment whose cheery personalities I have genuinely missed. But I'm grateful that these departing Americans have invariably been succeeded by others equally American in their habits, manners, customs and preferences; men and women who derive their principal gustatory delight in . . .

Steaks! Steaks! Steaks!

You will notice on our menu, the return of an old, tried and true friend. This is the season of the year when our Vichyssoise comes into demand again. Most of our patrons prefer it cold, although I am told that it is memorable served steaming hot. Being a member of the Old School in the matter of Vichyssoise, I can't say, from personal experience, how it tastes hot. But I know that it is, properly prepared, potage of exquisite delicacy and flavor. Ours is made from finely chopped onions and leek sauteed lightly in chicken fat; to this is added chicken stock, a bit of the juices of garden-fresh vegetables, a pinch of salt, a bit of butter, white potatoes minced very fine and near the end, lots of rich table cream! It's a smooth, cool, completely delicious prelude to your Parchey meal, and I heartily recommend that you hurry to 19th and K Sts. N.W., and enjoy a cup or a bowl today; the former for a quarter, the latter for forty-five cents.

Steaks! Steaks! Steaks!

Just in case Indian summer has taken your thoughts off the plight of the Washington cabbie, here's a reminder that winter is coming, he has had no fare increase to compensate him for today's soaring prices, and he needs your generous tips.

"Twenty cents is no more than fair
"To tip the fellow who gets you there!"

Steaks! Steaks! Steaks!

It was not until a wag asked, "When are you going to install the mikes in your place?" that I realized that Parchey's has become, over the years, a regular eating place for many of Washington's brightest radio stars. If you want to see them relaxed and in person, drop in some day for lunch, and feast your eyes (while you're feasting your body) on the likes of such WWDC luminaries as Dennis Sartain, Jackson Lowe, Milton Q. Ford, Ray Morgan, Willis Connover, Felix Grant, Sherman Butler, Fred Fiske and, of course, Mr. Herman Paris.

Steaks! Steaks! Steaks!

I wish that I had the gift of poesy, for I can think of nothing that could inspire me to greater heights than our filet mignon! If I could versify, I could write an immortal sonnet about this tenderest, most delectable, most succulent of all comestibles. But not being a poet, I can only tell you, in my own drab way, that we prepare your filet mignon just as you order it, rare or well-done, with absolutely all the steps between. Before broiling, we dip an inch-plus-thick filet in a delicate searing sauce of fragrant herbs, spices and soy oil, and serve it to you blanketed under a sauce made with fresh white mushrooms sauteed in creamery butter and laced with fine wine. So tender is this meat that it cringes under the pressure of your fork, crumbles at the touch of your teeth and becomes one with its rich and savory juices in your mouth! For garnishment, we give you a heaping platter of crisp and crackly-hot French fried potatoes, all golden-brown; our famous roll basket with gobs of creamery butter and an icy head-of-lettuce salad, for which I recommend without reservation, Chef Wilbur Smith's incomparable Roquefort dressing! Will you favor us with your presence at 19th at K St. N.W.?

Reds Force British To Retreat 4 Miles

the Marines were still in the same position they occupied 32 hours earlier.

A United States First Marine Regiment spokesman said that road communication had been re-established with a Leatherneck battalion surrounded by by-passed Reds for three days at Majon, about 16 miles west of Wonsan.

He said a convoy broke through a Red roadblock and reached the isolated unit Saturday. Marine aircraft supplied the battalion during its isolation. It never was under Red fire.

A spokesman for U. S. Marine Air Group 12 said Corsair pilots "raised havoc" with Chinese Communist troops just south of the Changjin Reservoir in North-Central Korea Monday morning.

He said the pilots reported destruction of eight trucks, one warehouse filled with oil and gasoline, five other warehouses, 11 supply carts, two 30-foot boats on the Changjin Reservoir, two staff cars, two troop-filled barracks and an unknown number of Red soldiers.

Generators Dismantled

The Corsairs reported killing 800 Chinese Red troops at Kato, south of the reservoir.

The Marine Seventh Regiment also reported killing 800 Chinese Communists below the reservoir Sunday.

The North Korean Communist radio at Sinuiju said Monday that Korean Red army troops had dismantled and carried away power generators below the Changjin Reservoir. The Red troops had "the cooperation of neighboring inhabitants," the radio said.

A United States Marine air spokesman announced that Leatherneck fighter pilots began using Yonpo airport outside Hamhung Saturday. Yonpo, 110 miles south of the Korean-Manchurian border, is the Marine's northernmost air base in Korea.

Field reports placed U. N. forces in this array, from Sinanju eastward:

The United States Twenty-Fourth Division met a thrust by Chinese and North Korean Reds against a soft spot in the line southwest of Yongbyon. The enemy made a "slight penetration," not considered serious.

The Twenty-Fourth Division's Nineteenth Regiment repulsed a small-arms attack by enemy forces 6 miles east of Pakchon. Pakchon is 8 miles north of Sinanju. Yongbyon is 15 miles northeast.

American Second Division elements newly in the line threw a roadblock across the north-south highway at Pukchang, in the mountains 25 miles southeast of Kunu. One South Korean regiment pushed north from the roadblock to a point about 6 miles south of Tokchon.

In the northeast, the United States Seventh Division's Seventeenth Regimental Combat Team was 30 miles south of the Manchurian border, the nearest Allied approach.

The Seventeenth trudged ahead north of Pungsan in temperatures as low as 3 degrees (F.) above zero.

Maj. Gen. E. M. Almond, Tenth Corps commander, visited that force Sunday as it advanced several miles over snowbanked roads against no opposition. Thursday and Friday it had been forced to fight its way against Reds in snowy mountain passes.

The South Korean Capital Division, in the far northeast near the Sea of Japan, captured the flaming town of Kilchu after a hard fight. Kilchu is 120 miles southwest of the Soviet Siberian border. The city was defended by the reinforced 507th North Korean Brigade.

A field dispatch reported a later advance by South Koreans 12 miles north of Kilchu to within 118 miles of the Soviet Siberian border.

B-29 bombers spread incendiaries on Kanggye, Communist command and supply center in the mountainous Yalu River triangle of north-central Korea. No enemy planes or gunfire were encountered. Results of the raid were called excellent.

It was the first reported incendiary raid of the war.

All along the front Allied bombers and fighters flew support missions. Particularly in the Kunu-Pakchon area north and east of Sinanju, where the Reds were exerting heaviest pressure. Sonchon, 35 miles west of Pakchon, was among the points hit.

United States Fifth Air Force headquarters reported 1000 Red casualties and nine tanks destroyed. Four Russian-made Yak fighters unsuccessfully attacked B-26 light bombers north of Sonchon.

Temperatures as low as 25 degrees below zero are expectable, he said, hampering Allied air support. The country is rugged, an advantage for the Reds in winter.

Frozen River Will Aid Reds

The Tokyo spokesman noted that the Yalu River, boundary of Korea and Manchuria, freezes so thick in winter that military traffic can cross it, giving the Reds a supply advantage.

Without reference to the Chinese, the North Koreans themselves have reorganized several cut-up divisions and thrown them back into the line, the spokesman noted.

Associated Press Correspondent Tom Lambert, on the northwest front, said some withdrawals there had been due to pressure of Red forces but others were made to tighten overextended sections of the Allied lines. Battle maps, once a clutter of long arrows extending towards the Manchurian frontier, now have taken on a tidier appearance, he noted.

The Reds, he pointed out, have not made any major attacks like the major one of Thursday against South Korea's Sixth Division and the United States First Cavalry.

The Chinese suffered losses in those engagements, and one American officer speculated that they may be regrouping for an assault farther east, in the weaker center of Allied lines.

It was these Chinese forces which last week halted the U.N. march toward the Manchurian border and forced withdrawals of as much as 50 miles.

United States Twenty-fourth Division artillery fire in the Yongbyon area of the Chongyon River line was credited with breaking up the enemy's Sunday attack, which had achieved "slight penetration." American reinforcing elements were dispatched to plug the gap eight miles southwest of Yongbyon.

In the Red Pakchon thrust against the Twenty-fourth Division's Nineteenth Regiment, elements of the United States Twenty-first Regiment were committed to counter the enemy force estimated at 200 men.

American artillery units were assaulted three miles south of Pakchon, but unconfirmed reports indicated a threatened Allied infantry attack caused the enemy to withdraw.

Henri Bonnet to Speak

French Ambassador Henri Bonnet will discuss "The French Contribution to the Building of a United Europe" Wednesday at 8:15 p.m. in Lisner Auditorium, 21st and H sts. nw. Sponsor of the speech is Delta Phi Epsilon, foreign service professional fraternity.

AFTER WITHDRAWAL—Black arrows locate Allied activity yesterday against Communist thrusts (open arrows). Forced back last week from positions (broken line) near the Manchurian border, U. N. forces in the Pakchon-Yongbyon area (A) and north of Pukchang (B) were endeavoring to tighten their line. United States Marines ran into pressure south of the Changjin Reservoir (C) but in the northeast (D) an American unit was north of Pungsan, 30 miles from the border, and South Koreans captured Kilchu. Gaps in Sheriff's Wealth Story Found

By the United Press

The Senate crime investigators charged yesterday that the recently indicated sheriff of Miami and Miami Beach, Fla., failed to tell them the full story of his personal wealth.

They said Sheriff Jimmie A. Sullivan of Dade County did not mention $25,500 in Maryland real estate and cash when he testified before the Senate Crime Committee last summer. They did not indicate what action, if any, they might take against the suspended official.

The investigators made the charge in releasing testimony taken last September 26 from Sullivan's in-laws in Maryland.

Sullivan first came under Senate fire last summer when the committee looked into Florida gambling and racketeering. They charged Sullivan had protected the racketeers. The sheriff later was indicted on charges of condoning gambling and corruption.

The Florida hearings disclosed that Sullivan became sheriff on January 1, 1945, owning "some property" and with $2500 in the bank. His 1948 income tax return showed he owned then $75,000 in cash and property. His salary during the period totaled about $50,000.

The closed-door testimony released yesterday allegedly showed that Sullivan's wife, Ethel, sent $25,500 to her parents and sister in Maryland to buy houses and land. Mrs. Sullivan sent the sister, Mrs. Richard Neu, about $18,000 to build a new home at Aberdeen, Md., Mrs. Neu testified.

Mrs. Neu added that $10,000 of this was to be repaid but that the rest was a "gift." She said she got the $10,000 to make the repayment by selling the house she and her husband had been living in.

Mrs. Sullivan also bought the mortgage on her parents' home in nearby Perryman, Md., and took a new, non-interest-bearing mortgage for $7500 on the property, according to a statement submitted by the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tredick Ford.

"Sheriff Sullivan failed to disclose the existence of this mortgage when questioned as to his assets," the committee said in releasing the testimony.

Mrs. Neu said she turned the $10,000 over to her parents to give it, in turn, to her sister. Mr. and Mrs. Ford said Mrs. Sullivan told them that she would pick up the money "when necessary."

"She has not called for the money and we still retain it at the farm," they said. "We have no information regarding the source of the money."

Mrs. Neu said she did not know why the transaction was made in cash and not by check.

5000 Hear Spellman

who would deny God, so there are men who would not give a starving child a crust of bread . . .

"Ask yourself," the Cardinal said, "if with warm and tender spirit you have unflaggingly sought out God's sick and afflicted, offering to help heal their ills and share their burdens?

"Judge your neighbor and his needs as you would judge yourself . . .

"Yours is a higher and even more sublime mission than was the call to the crusaders of the medieval world . . . You must yourself forever wear the armor of grace and practice the charity of Christ, for never more truly than in our day has it been necessary that they who believe and preach a doctrine should live by it."

Cardinal Spellman, who returned Saturday from a trip to Rome, delivered a Papal benediction. He said he brought from Pope Pius XII a message of gratitude for the aid American people have given to Europe and Asia.

At a press conference earlier in the day, Cardinal Spellman exhibited the first gold medal struck off by the Vatican to commemorate the dogma of the Assumption of the Virgin Mary. Cardinal Spellman attended the ceremonies.

He said the Pope is "in good health."

"But how he can go through all this I don't know. One ceremony"—Cardinal Spellman counted up—"lasted six hours.

"To see everybody—and everybody wants to see him—is quite an ordeal."

The Most Rev. Patrick A. O'Boyle, Archbishop of Washington, praised Cardinal Spellman for coming to speak at the meeting after an exhausting, 18-hour plane trip from Rome. The cardinal, he said, set an example for the clergy.

Other speakers at the closing general session of the National Conference of Catholic Charities and the annual meeting of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul were Judge Robert J. Dunne of the Juvenile Court of Cook County (Chicago), Ill., and Caesar L. Aiello, president of the board of directors of the Catholic Charties of the District.

400 Paintings To Be Sold At Hecht's

A collection of 400 original oil paintings—priced at $19.95 to $200—will go on sale Wednesday at Hecht's downtown and Silver Spring stores, it was announced yesterday.

Readily admitting the group contains no Rembrandts, a store official, in announcing the new line said:

"We are answering a demand for original oil paintings at prices the average man can afford to pay."

The collection, which includes works by American, French, and Dutch artists, was acquired for Hecht's by Zachary Cogon, art agent and former painter. Some of the paintings are done by professionals, others by young art students. The subjects range from Dutch canal scenes, seascapes, florals, and landscapes, to still lifes, murals, and portraits. All are sold in carved, barbizon, or gold-leaf frames.

Future collections will include contemporary works if a demand is indicated, a store spokesman said.

Rome Police Rout 1000 Neo-Fascist Marchers

ROME, Nov. 5 (U.P.)—Club-swinging police riot squads broke up a demonstration by 1000 neo-Fascists tonight in the heart of Rome.

The demonstrators had marched into the central Piazza Colonna singing Fascist songs when 20 jeeploads of police rushed in and dispersed them. Eye witnesses said at least 30 persons were carried away by the police.

The neo-Fascists, members of the MSI party, were protesting the government's refusal to let them stage a political rally in Bari.

The incident climaxed a day of other disturbances. Police turned on water hoses to disperse a similar group earlier. Several demonstrators were slightly injured.

The MSI party, legally recognized and with representatives in Parliament, was refused permission to stage the Bari rally for "reasons of public order."

At a meeting this morning, 1000 party members protested what they called the government's "unconstitutional act." Afterward they tried to assemble in several squares, but riot guns dispersed them.

Tonight party members attempted to rally at the Montecitorio Palace, where delegates to the Council of Europe sessions were attending a reception. Police had blocked off streets leading to the palace.

School Costs Spark Arlington Dispute

By Elsie Carper
Post Reporter

Expensive experiments or efficient educational laboratories? Modern schools have been called both.

The question currently is burning hot in Arlington County where residents will vote Tuesday on whether to borrow $7,450,000 to improve their school system.

The principal reason for the bond issue—schools to house Arlington's growing child population—nearly has been forgotten in the crossfire of arguments on the costs and value of buildings already constructed.

Much of the criticism has been leveled at the type of school Arlington is building.

Some critics would like to see the county build four-square red brick classroom schools.

Tailored Schools

Instead, the school board is building bright, modern schools tailored to the needs of the child and the teacher.

Admittedly, these new schools that provide auditorium, recreation and hot lunch facilities are more expensive than the old schools, but parents have come to expect and demand these extras.

The school board sees an enrollment in five years of more than 23,000 students, 7000 more than in the schools today. Fifteen hundred new students are expected next fall.

Opponents of the bond issue say that if the county school board had been more cautious in spending $6,526,000 from two previous bond issues, it would have funds to construct the classrooms it needs today.

The school board says that from the bond money it has built or has under contract six new elementary schools and a new junior high school. Additions have been made to five other elementary schools. Annexes containing expensive gymnasiums, laboratories and workshops have been authorized for two high schools. Extensive repairs have been made to other buildings.

"Mausoleums?"

John Locke Green, Arlington County treasurer and foe of school board spending, because of the expense of the schools, has likened them to "cathedrals, colosseums and mausoleums."

To this reporter they come close to lookling like European schools. Though not as mounmental, they are of the same general design as schools in Scandinavia, where architects pioneered in imaginative use of glass and color.

Arlington's schools are one-story sprawling buildings. Classrooms are square rather than retcangular.

Educators say the new shape better suits the mobile use to which classrooms are put. Children no longer are expected to sit at long rows of fixed desks. Instead they—and the furniture—move about the classroom adjusting to the teaching situation.

According to modern methods of instruction, children learn more quickly by performance than by memorization, just as one learns to drive a car by practice rather than by reading a book.

New Rooms Square

The old classroom was rectangular to bring available light over the child's left shoulder.

The square classroom has been made possible by new methods of lighting. One side of the room is glass. Windows have been brought down to the eye level of students. The wall above is of glass brick.

Prisms in the brick direct light evenly over the classroom without glare, eliminating dark corners. A peculiar drop in the roof provides light from the other side of the room through a strip of glass block just under the ceiling.

Green glass chalk boards replace the old blackboards, cutting down glare.

Interior walls of cinder block have been painted in bright greens, oranges and reds.

Each classroom has built-in shelves, closets and drawers for the numerous supplies and visual aids used in modern teaching.

Estimates Vary

Since the new schools lack basements, radiant heating from the floors has been used. This is considered desirable in primary rooms, where children spend a good deal of time on the floor.

The school board has been criticized for authorizing large multi-purpose rooms when classrooms are needed. Members say the rooms are essential and economical, since they can be put to so many uses.

Estimates on classrooms costs in Arlington range from the $61,711 of County Treasurer Green to the $37,753 of Mrs. Elizabeth P. Campbell, County School Board Chairman.

A third set of figures, that of a committee of the Arlington Ridge Civic Association, uses a different standard. It sets the cost of each building on a per pupil basis. Multiplying this group's average per pupil eost of $1112 by 30, the average elementary school classroom cost would be $34,472.

Both Mrs. Campbell and the Arlington Ridge committee have compared their cost figures with those of newly constructed schools in other Washington area communities.

Mrs. Campbell's figures show the cost's about the same. The Arlington Ridge group finds the comparison unfavorable to Arlington.

Builders and architects say that in the Washington area, in general, comparable buildings with comparable facilities cost about the same.

Make sure you read the final volumes of the personal letters of F.D.R. covering the years 1928-1945, and appearing for the first time in The Washington Post. The first installment will appear Sunday, November 12.

STAGE AND SCREEN STAR
"I know how mild a cigarette can be! My 30-Day Camel Mildness Test gave me the proof I needed. The test was fun and it was sensible! I didn't have to make a snap decision on just one puff or one sniff . . . one inhale or one exhale. I had plenty of time to appreciate how good tasting Camels really are! And I learned for sure how welcome Camel mildness is to my throat!"
NOTED THROAT SPECIALISTS REPORT ON 30-DAY TEST OF CAMEL SMOKERS...
Not one single case of throat irritation due to smoking CAMELS!
Yes, these were the findings of noted throat specialists after a total of 2,470 weekly examinations of the throats of hundreds of men and women who smoked Camels—and only Camels—for 30 consecutive days.

TALENTED Anne Jeffreys started out modeling to pay for her music studies. In rapid succession came personal appearances . . . radio and television roles . . . stardom in more than 30 movies. The name Anne Jeffreys has sparkled on many a Broadway marquee.

Impressive Choral Numbers Presented at Bach Festival

By Paul Hume

Choral music entered Washington Cathedral's Bach Festival yesterday afternoon.

This impressive facet of Bach's genius was represented in performances of the motets, Singet dem Herren, and Jesu, meine Freunde. From the mighty list of cantatas, the Cathedral Choir sang Cantata No. 106, God's Time Is Best. The motets were sung by the Washington Chamber Choral Group, with the entire program under the direction of Paul Callaway.

For the motets, the smaller group was placed in the north gallery. They were accompanied only by two cellos, in accordance with the custom of Bach's time. The afternoon's singing was all in German. It was a great satisfaction to hear his music given the inflections that the proper language alone can give.

The second motet achieved a more successful sound in the Cathedral. The difference in the two lies in the style of writing, with Singet dem Herren demanding far more open polyphonic singing. In such buildings as the Cathedral, the greater use of solid block chords, as in the second motet, assures greater clarity for the listener.

The choir, assisted by first chair men from the National Symphony, handled the cantata with ease. Special praise goes to the two flutes, Mann and Krell, for their superb playing throughout. Raymond Toense's tenor was excellent and easily heard. Donn Crane warmed to his second solo, supported by the perfectly proportioned singing by the trebles.

The afternoon was in the finest Bach vein, thanks to the authority joined with sympathy in Callaway's conducting.

Lamb Gives Evening Solo

Norman Lamb, having played Bach in the afternoon, gave a solo recital last night in the National Gallery.

His concert was one of those happy affairs where brevity left everyone wishing for another hour or so of the same kind of fine playing.

Three sonatas comprised the entire evening: one in G minor by Handel, the E flat of Brahms, and the early Opus 11, No. 4, of Hindemith.

Lamb's viola was accompanied with far more than customary style and virtuosity by Nancy Leach Friant, pianist. Except for a moment in the first movement of the Brahms, Miss Friant supplied distinguished piano playing in a program where the piano was of equal stature with the stringed instrument.

Her tone and bigness of musicianship were a complete joy. They must have been as much a pleasure to Lamb as to the audience.

Lamb is first viola of the National Symphony. His knowledge of music and technique are familiar to all. It was a renewed occasion for rejoicing that we are so fortunate in still another of the musicians brought here by the orchestra to hear such a master of every phase of his art.

In the rapid movements of Handel, and in the lyrical phrases of both Brahms and Hindemith he showed rare understanding and ability. It was an outstanding recital in every way.

Kipnis Recital Tuesday Dropped Due to Illness

The recital by Alexander Kipnis, bass, scheduled for Lisner Auditorium on Tuesday evening, Novmeber 7, has been cancelled, due to the illness of the artist.

The announcement was made yesterday afternoon by Albert Fuller, new concert manager in Washington, who is presenting a series of Three Great Song Recitals in Lisner Auditorium this winter. Fuller announces that refunds on Kipnis tickets, and pro rata refunds to holders of series tickets will be given at the Snow Concert Bureau, 1108 G st. nw.

Fuller cancelled the engagement after attempting to secure other prominent singers including Marjorie Lawrence, Maggie Teyte, Jan Peerce, Kirsten Flagstad, and, Ljuba Welitch, all of whom are engaged elsewhere.

$1 Million Cache Of Dope Is Seized In New York Raid

NEW YORK, Nov. 5 (U.P.).—Federal agents, striking suddenly in a series of raids, seized a one-million-dollar cache of narcotics today and one woman and nine men, one of whom was shot and wounded resisting arrest.

Fifteen agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and three members of the Customs Service climaxed a three-month investigation of narcotics smuggled from Europe into United States ports by raiding a garage in uptown New York.

They seized one million dollars' worth of marijuana, heroin and cocaine in the garage and found Elias Grazo, who struggled with FBI agents and was wounded in the right wrist. Those seized were ordered held on bond ranging from $5000 to $50,000 for a hearing November 14.

Soviet Workers Begin 3-Day Revolution Fete

MOSCOW, Nov. 5 (AP).—Soviet workers embarked on a three-day holiday tonight in celebration of the 33d anniversary on Tuesday of the Russian revolution.

Russians throughout the Soviet Union worked today in order to have holidays on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Moscow is gaily decorated. Portraits of the Soviet leaders hang on many buildings, there is red bunting all over town and massive illuminated displays on the biggest buildings honor Prime Minister Stalin and the anniversary of the revolution.

Turkish Bill Provides Death for Aid to Reds

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Nov. 5 (AP).—Legislation providing the death penalty for Communists and even for those who support them indirectly will be introduced in Turkey's parliament.

More than 100 signatures of deputies already have been placed on the bill. The newspaper Cumhuriyet said the bill provides that if support to the Communist cause is given "by the press, either by writing or by caricature, whether it be political, literary or humorous, the author will be condemned to death.

Vote Slackers

For decades politicians, editors and political scientists have been telling the American people that their voting record does no credit to a free country. With an important election scheduled for tomorrow, it is time to repeat that criticism with greater emphasis. In the last midterm election, that of 1946, only one person in three of voting age went to the polls. Some, of course, were unavoidably detained by sickness or absence from home, but when due allowance is made for all such causes the record still discloses a shameful degree of indifference.

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch recently printed a table showing the number of persons of voting age, the total vote, and the percentage of voters State by State. Montana heads the list with 64 percent of her vote-age population going to the polls. Illinois followed with 63 percent and Delaware with 60 percent. It was especially the Deep South that pulled the average down. The record shows 8 percent voting in Texas and Georgia, 7 percent in Louisiana, 4 percent in Mississippi and 3 percent in South Carolina. Of course, this showing looks worse than it actually is, because the real contests in the South are in the primaries. Considering that there is little or nothing to decide on election day, voters do not go to the polls. What is needed to improve the South's voting record is revival of the two-party system and removal of the barriers that now deny a large portion of the people the right to vote.

Suggestions have again been heard that voting be made compulsory, but such emulation of totalitarian countries scarcely commends itself to free peoples. There is little more to be gained from herding to the polls people who are indifferent to the outcome than from forcing people to vote for one slate of candidates. The multiplication of blind guesses is not democracy. Actually, our poor voting record in the country as a whole is a reflection of disinterest in, or ignorance of, public affairs. The remedy will have to go much deeper than simply getting out the vote, however important that may be as election day rolls around.

Federal Reserve

Rumors persist that the Federal Reserve Board is about to give another twist to the credit screw by raising member bank requirements to the limit permitted by existing law. Since such an increase would compel the banks to acquire an additional 2.5 billion dollars of reserves, advocates of the policy argue that it would have a highly restrictive effect on loans. However, that purpose might be frustrated. The banks already hold huge amounts of Government securities and can build up their reserves by selling them to the Federal Reserve Banks. And as the system is committed to maintaining orderly conditions in the Government securities market, it cannot refuse to buy such offerings. Consequently an increase in reserve requirements would result in additions to bank reserves that would largely offset the restrictive effect of the increase.

Another reason for objecting to changes in reserve requirements is that they are a crude and discriminatory method of credit control, forcing some banks to curtail loans severely, while having little effect on the lending policies of other banks. Moreover, in the not distant future the Treasury may have to borrow large sums of money to meet budget deficits. In that event, the Reserve Banks might be called upon to buy large amounts of Government securities to support the bond market and they would be powerless to offset the inflationary effect of such buying if reserve requirements were to be raised now to the legally permissible limit.

Steps have already been taken to restrict installment lending and real estate financing —the two fields in which credit expansion has been excessive. Until the efficacy of these selective credit controls has been tested, it would be rash to impose further controls that might prove to be excessive. It is easier to go forward than to retreat. Furthermore, in the credit field considerable damage is usually done before the necessity of retreat is apparent.

In our opinion, selective credit controls are a much more effective anti-inflationary device under existing conditions than overall quantitative controls, because selective controls directly restrict credit in the specific areas where over-expansion has occurred and restrictions are needed to divert labor and scarce materials to defense production. Then, too, the commitment of the Federal Reserve System to support the United States bond market limits its freedom of action in the use of general control instrumentalities, such as increases in the discount rate (which has been slightly raised in defiance of the Treasury), open market operations and changes in reserve requirements. As a result, little use has or can be made, even of discount and open market operations, which are the approved methods of influencing the cost and availability of credit. We conclude, therefore, that it would be most unwise to raise reserve requirements at this time because it is an indiscriminate, inadequate method of curbing credit expansion that would have a disturbing and unequal effect on individual banks.

Truman On The Stump

President Truman's slashing political attack on the Republicans running for Congress came as a surprise largely because of its contrast with the speeches he has been making recently. After the war broke out in Korea he seemed to drop politics. He stood as a symbol of national unity, as the President should in time of emergency. In that role, he had the support of a vast number of people in both parties who are wholly sympathetic with the courageous part his Administration has played in mobilizing free-world resistance to the aggression in Korea. On Saturday night, however, the President stepped completely out of this role and addressed the Nation in the language of demagogy.

The success of Mr. Truman's vigorous whistle-stops campaign in 1948 doubtless explains the strategy he employed. Probably he was also goaded into extravagant charges by the nature of the smear campaign that has been waged against his Administration by Senator McCarthy and others. The President's denunciation of the "campaign of lies" is both convincing and effective. The difficulty is that Senator McCarthy is not a candidate in the election tomorrow, and the generalized nature of Mr. Truman's attack places him in the position of emulating the McCarthy technique.

One of his most extravagant charges, for example, was that unnamed "Republican politicians" have been "willing to destroy the United Nations." Undoubtedly there are Republican politicians who fall into that category, but to use this charge as a part of his general attack on the Republicans running for Congress, in the face of the wholehearted support that majorities in both parties have given to the United Nations policy in Korea, is a distortion that no President of the United States should stoop to. In another sweeping generalization, the President declared that "the Republicans have fought every great progressive measure that has been adopted for the good of the people in the last 17 years." Since the European recovery program was approved by the Republican-controlled Eightieth Congress and the recent extension of the Social Security Act had the support of all Republicans voting in the Senate except two and all the Republicans voting in the House except one, it is rather difficult to understand what the President means by "great progressive measures."

The two campaign issues which Mr. Truman singled out for special emphasis were isolationism and the Fair Deal. Both seem to us to be straw men. Here and there isolationists are seeking election to Congress. But the great majority representing both the major parties are committed to support of the United Nations, solidarity with the free world, and a defense establishment large enough to give assurance that American leadership in putting down aggression will be effective. Mr. Truman's attempt to make isolationism a wedge between the two parties at this late date is on a par with Mr. Stassen's attempt to make a campaign issue of the carnage in Korea.

The renewed appeal for the Brannan Plan for agriculture and the Ewing health plan was embarrassing to many of the candidates the President was seeking to help. For Democratic nominees in many parts of the country are spending much of their time disavowing these items in the Fair Deal program. Whether their political judgment is right or wrong, it seems especially perilous for the President to assume that the country can go ahead with expanded Federal spending for social services at a time when a vast increase in military outlays has become necessary to our national security. There was no word in his speech about the increased taxes that will be imperative even without additional spending for social welfare programs. Realists know that the country must tighten its belt if this burden is to be carried without disastrous inflation. Yet the President managed to convey the impression that there will be larger benefits for farmers and less restraint upon labor unions in enforcing their demands, while at the same time denouncing "special interests" and "selfish politicians." Whether or not it impressed the voters, the speech was an irresponsible performance that will make it more difficult for the Administration to face the critical problems looming up ahead.

Reapportionment

A glance at the official figures of the 1950 census shows that Congress has become a rather sadly unrepresentative body. Pennsylvania, for example, has three more seats in the House than it is entitled to with the present distribution of population. Conversely, the State of California has only 23 seats and under the 1950 census is entitled to 30. Missouri, New York and Oklahoma will also lose two seats apiece under the new apportionment, and several other States will lose one Representative each. While California is the foremost beneficiary, six other States, including Maryland and Virginia, have gained enough population in the last decade to assure them of an additional seat in the House.

Fortunately, Congress will not have to act to redistribute House seats in line with the census figures. The revolt against reapportionment in the twenties taught Congress a lesson. After nine years had gone by without a reshuffling of seats in accord with the 1920 census, Congress passed a law making the reapportionment largely automatic after the census figures are in. Under this law, as amended, congressional elections of 1952 will follow the new apportionment. Of course, Congress could upset that act or decide to increase the membership of the House to prevent any State from losing seats. But in view of the general agreement that the House is now large enough (or too large), such an upset is highly improbable.

The States gaining seats will also wield a proportionately larger influence in the election of the President. But this change will not be reflected in the 1952 presidential election. While the reapportioned House will be elected in 1952, the members chosen in that year will not take their seats until January, 1953 — too late to affect the presidential election of the previous November. This is an unfortunate lag in the equating of political strength with population, but there appears to be no way of changing it without amendment of the Constitution.

Consolidating Schools

It would be presumptuous to question the intent of the constitutional amendment, to be presented to Virginia voters tomorrow, which would empower the General Assembly to consolidate school districts. Ostensibly this amendment is designed to provide better schools through the amalgamation of school administrations in areas where counties or cities are too small or impoverished to support good schools individually. There is every reason to work toward this end; already Virginia has embarked upon a policy of regionalism in such fields as public health. The amendment is merely an enabling act. Legislation by the General Assembly would be required to put consolidations into effect.

At the same time, the amendment neglects to provide for local referendums to ascertain popular wishes. Theoretically it would be possible for the Legislature to consolidate, say, Falls Church schools with Fairfax County schools, with no reference to the people. As a practical matter, whether this would be done is extremely doubtful. But the possibility would be there. And Falls Church residents, who supported an elected school board in their charter, and Alexandria residents, who voted for nonpartisan city elections, will remember how the Legislature ignored their wishes at its last session. The State-wide refusal to accept the poll-tax amendment last year showed the popular suspicion of allowing the Legislature to set its own standards.

Thus voters are confronted with a dilemma. The goal is desirable, but the means are defective. A more precisely worded constitutional amendment would take four more years to accomplish, because it would have to be passed by two sessions of the Legislature before it could be presented to the people. Despite the delay, however, we think that voters would be well advised to wait. Popular control of schools is one of the essentials of democratic government, and anything that might frustrate that control, however remote the possibility, is something to be feared.

Telephone Ruling

The preliminary FCC ruling upholding the right of a telephone company to discontinue service to subscribers suspected of using their telephones for gambling or other illegal purposes reaffirms a decision of the District Public Utilities Commission in the Katz case. It does not, however, settle the legal issue raised by Mr. Katz's complaint that he was threatened with loss of service without "adequate notice or hearing" at the request of United States Attorney Fay. While the public interest demands denial of the use of telephones for illegal purposes, the individual telephone user is also entitled to protection against removal of his telephone without prior proof of violations of the law. The decision as to the adequacy of the proof should not be left to the telephone company or a public prosecutor. The suspect should be given a hearing before an accredited public regulatory agency, such as the FCC or the PUC before any action is taken. As The Washington Post stated in an editorial of May 11, 1949, the present system "is wide open to abuse, it violates that fundamental concept of fair play which says that a man must be given a hearing before action adversely affecting his interests can be taken."

The FCC ruling that the request of a law-enforcement officer "must be considered an incident in the prevention of crime and maintenance of law and order," unless or until the courts decide otherwise, would justify penalization of an individual on mere suspicion. The fact that the suspect may appeal the decision does not afford him adequate protection against arbitrary deprivation of his right to use the services of a public utility. Although we heartily approve the efforts of Mr. Fay to prevent illegal use of telephones, we conclude that the remedy for the evil should be sought by changes in the laws authorizing and requiring regulatory public agencies to hold hearings on charges before action is taken. The rights of law-abiding citizens will then be protected while the war against crime can be waged without resort to unfair and dubious methods.

Maryland Constitution

On November 7, Maryland citizens will have an opportunity to vote on the question of whether or not they want a constitutional convention in order to make their State constitution fit their present-day needs.

The last constitutional convention was held in 1867 although our present constitution provides that a referendum for a convention shall be presented to the people every 20 years.

How many voters know that the present constitution is a patchwork quilt of amendments, that it has three times as many amendments as the Federal Constitution; that it does not guarantee the voter a secret ballot; that it takes a page and a half to describe the boundaries of Wicomico County; that the State Legislature takes valuable time for settling trivial local matters such as appointing janitors?

These are just a few of the outmoded provisions in the present constitution. Every voter interested in a modern up-to-date constitution should go to the polls prepared to vote on this important question. Failure to vote for it is the same as voting against it.

Color Television

Mr. J. F. Finch, in his letter of October 27, registers his objections to the CBS color television system by pointing out that the system (1) is incompatible and (2) is mechanical and therefore not adaptable to television screens larger than 12¼ inches. He also points out that the RCA and CTI color systems, while compatible and all-electronic, do not give good color reproduction at present.

I think it should be pointed out that RCA color telecasts cannot be received in color after being transmitted over the present coaxial cable system. This is because the cable system can transmit a band width of not more than 2.7 megacycles and RCA color uses more of the allowable 4 megacycle band width than this to transmit its color synchronization pulses. RCA colorcasts, therefore, can be received in color only within the transmitter range (up to 50 miles) of the originating station (these broadcasts are received as black and white images elsewhere). The CBS system does not have this drawback.

Although the picture size for CBS color is limited to a 12½-inch width, the implication the system cannot be used with larger picture tubes is not correct. Television sets with picture tubes larger than 12¼ inches can be adjusted so that they show a CBS color picture 12½ inches wide and still display the larger black and white images.

"Dewey And Luciano"

Your editorial of October 26 condemning Governor Dewey for "taking the recommendation of the parole board that Luciano be freed and deported" because such deportation "is to turn hardened criminals loose on the world," recalls the numerous instances since 1945 in which, either by presidential pardon or failure to prosecute, such criminals have been turned loose on the United States.

When next your editorial writer feels in a condemning mood he will find a fertile field in the unsavory record of Harry S. Truman:

(1) Frank H. Banning, with a long record for bank robbery, hijacking and armed robbery, sentenced to serve 20 years in 1941. After appeals were denied by the Circuit Court of Appeals and United States Supreme Court, the President decided that he did not receive a fair trial and granted full pardon in 1947. Less than a year later Banning shot down a veteran Detroit policeman.

(2) Old Jim Curley, whose sentence was commuted in 1947 and delivered the Boston Democratic vote to Mr. Truman in 1948.

(3) Four Capone mobsters set free after serving two years of a 10-year sentence.

Failure In Germany

I hope Mrs. Meyer's articles on the moral weakness and ideological vacuum in Germany will serve to focus attention upon the unfinished business we have there. No one dares to feel secure, much less satisfied, so long as Germany is in the state of being anti-Communist for virtually the same reason she is non-democratic, from an unwillingness to be individually involved in the life of others.

Germany poses the perfect laboratory for the United States to prove the value of its concepts and their applicability to other than American nationals. I rather suspect that the Voice of America is drowned out less by the interference of Russian station blocking than by the evidence of our failures in Western Germany. The Iron Curtain is unfortunately not solid enough to obscure these failures from Russian eyes.

Taxes For Schools

I have just finished reading, with great interest, the October 25 letter by an Arlington gentleman, Mr. Gammon, who has the courage of his convictions in stating that the real estate taxes in Arlington County are too low, due to the fact that many homes are underassessed.

The Yankee inhabitants of our Northeast States are usually thought of as being penny pinchers and thrifty. Can any of your readers tell me then, why such money-conscious people would consistently tax themselves as much as possible for the express purpose of maintaining an excellent system of secondary schools? Prior to my coming here to live, I had never known that public school children, anywhere, in our country had to buy their own paper, pencils, books, etc. In my naive ignorance, I had assumed that any American child was entitled to a public school education free of any cost whatsoever.

Those New Englanders years ago knew one indisputable fact, and that is that money put into educational institutions will be repaid a hundredfold in better citizens, less bigotry, a higher standard of living and a much higher paid and generally higher qualified group of teachers than in those sections where short sighted citizens attempt to get by with a lower standard of education.

Knowledge Of Russia In Schools

I wish to comment upon your October 15 editorial, "Pedagogic Follies," which spoke with lightheartedness and insouciance about the commentaries of Mr. Philip Wylie upon the bigotry of educators concerning lack of freedom of expression and the excision of certain blocks of knowledge from the schools.

If it is the duty of the schools to see that every student has access to the totality of knowledge, and I think it is, then I shall have to go along with Mr. Wylie. We do not have in the Washington public schools a freedom of expression unfettered and unshackled. I have been a teacher in the Woodrow Wilson High School for the past nine years, and I see evidence of this in two distinct ways.

First, when a teacher wishes to have an outside speaker talk before a class, a club, or an assembly, the speaker has to be approved by the principal of the school. Then the name of the speaker has to be sent to the superintendent, and he or one of his assistants must approve or reject the speaker. Secondly, in Woodrow Wilson High School there is not one book in the library about Russia.

Who is to blame for this state of facts? Not the principals of the schools, nor the superintendent. They have no alternative to executing the regulations of the Board of Education. Nor is the fault with the board; it goes deeper than that. The fault is in society itself; it is in the fear of communism.

I think this fear is in society and not merely in the Board of Education for we see the abridgment of our freedoms in such various manifestations. For example, in congressional investigations the victim is not allowed to face and question his accusers, or force calling of witnesses in his favor, or sue an accusing Congressman for slander. Wire-tapping is publicly condoned by officials, such as Attorney General McGrath, who are vested with the protection of our freedoms.

When a large segment of our population not only condones but desires such actions in our country, is there any wonder that the Board of Education falls in line with these practices and passes regulations abridging freedom of expression? Supposedly, there is not the wish for students to see the advancement made by Russia in the last 25 years in industry, in agriculture, in education, and the like. Consequently, we are to play the ostrich trick of hiding our heads in the sand.

When this rationale is analyzed to the core we see that it can proceed only upon one or the other of these hypotheses: that if we fail to recognize the vital forces at play in Russia today then they will cease to exist; or that ignorance serves us better than knowledge and light. The reason given when one inquires about these strict regulations is the fear that students will be favorably influenced to the doctrine of communism, that they are too young as yet to hear the whole truth. In other words, the consequences of freedom of speech are feared.

Apart from the legal side, let us look at this whittling away of our liberties from the psychological angle. We should take the psychological offensive to prevent the spread of communism, to capture the minds of men. Knowledge is the long-rang weapon with which we can do this. As Mrs. Roosevelt has so well said: "The big truth of democracy is greater than the big lie of communism." This silence about communism is in reality an indifference in the struggle for freedom because the Communists are fanatical and disciplined and dynamic.

If we are to keep the freedoms alive we must keep the truth alive. But without information the school cannot give that body of "knowable truth" so essential to an understanding of a subject. Just as history and literature of one's own country are among the strongest influences that bind the citizens of a nation together, so the knowledge of the history and literature of a foreign people are a powerful force to teach appreciation and understanding of that people.

Is there any good reason why students should not understand the theories in "Das Kapital" the same as he understands those in "The Wealth of Nations"? And along with Shakespeare and Dickens, Hardy and Galsworthy, should he not also read such writers as Tolstoy and Turgeniev, Lenin and Gorky, Sholokhov and Fadeyev? Give me one reason!

Matter Of Fact

By Stewart Alsop

Melancholy Republicans

THE KEYNOTE of the Republican campaign all over the Middle West this year may be summed up in two words—gloom and doom. The world, through Middle-Western Republican eyes, is a pretty nightmarish place.

Here at home, the American Government is honeycombed with treachery. According to Indiana's Senator Homer Capehart, for example, the Government has been dominated for years, first by Alger Hiss and then by a whole series of shadowy figures, all engaged in "an international conspiracy to liquidate this Nation." The domestic consequences are already visible—the draft, taxes, controls and the "Truman radicals getting the noose around our necks," the noose being an American version of British socialism.

Abroad, the result of treachery has been "26,000 American boys, casualties in Korea," and the ultimate consequence will probably be world war, for "the Democratic Party is the war party." Bar a war, the Truman Administration's "bungling and appeasement," will hand the rest of the world over to "good old Joe" Stalin on a platter.

What is most striking about this campaign line is its intensely melancholy tone. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, Republican candidate for the Senate, struck the correct note when he warned an awed audience that the United States was "headed down the dismal road to disaster."

ALL THIS gloom has a simple meaning. The men who dominate the Republican Party in the Middle West are clearly convinced that the voters are angry about the perilous situation in which this country finds itself five years after its greatest military victory. They are further convinced that, properly exploited, this anger provides a supreme opportunity for their brand of right-wing "nationalism"—which means isolationism. The way to exploit the voters' resentment of taxes, the draft, Korean casualties and the rest of it is to paint a dark picture of treachery and defeat.

Is gloom smart politics? November 7 will provide the answer. But here certain impressions may be worth recording.

The first is no more than a sort of instinct that most of the Republicans in the Middle West have misjudged the mood of the voters. Certainly there are reasons for gloom, and certainly doom may be in the offing. But somehow the sign you see displayed occasionally by the roadside—"Boost, Don't Knock"—seems more in keeping with the mood of the prosperous, bustling Middle West of 1950 than Republican melancholy. The Democratic promise of "peace and prosperity," specious though it is, seems a more appropriate campaign device than warnings of "dismal disaster."

The second impression is that the voters this year favor moderates in both political camps. The more radical aspects of Harry Truman's Fair Deal—notably the Brannan and Ewing plans—have been resounding flops. They have been depudiated with rather comical haste by virtually every Democratic candidat through the Middle West. Yet if political prognostication means anything at all these days, it is also surely significant that the Republican "me-tooers"—men like Duff of Pennsylvania and Warren of California, who accept the basic premises of American social and foreign policy—are apparently running more strongly than other Republicans.

Two Middle Western Republicans—Senator Robert A. Taft and Senator Arthur Vandenburg—have provided the basis for an effective middle-of-the-road Republican policy. Taft's health, education, and housing policies, and even his revised labor policy, are really more appropriate in a time of great national prosperity than the Fair Deal's lavish bids for the support of large voting groups. And Vandenberg's contribution to American foreign policy has been as great as that of any living American's.

Yet the men who run the Republican Party in the Middle West have in effect disowned the middle-of-road Taft-Vandenberg policies. This reporter frequently heard Vandenberg praised by Democrats, but never once heard his name mentioned by a Republican. As for Taft's version of a moderate conservative social policy, Taft himself seems to be softpedalling it, preferring instead to base his campaign on the charge that the Truman Administration has displayed a "strange sympathy for communism." Other Republican candidates in the Middle West are much too busy uncovering Communist plots to have anything to say about health or education or housing.

IN SHORT, the Middle Western Republicans, embittered by Thomas Dewey's defeat in 1948, and attributing this catastrophe to "me-tooism," are having a fling at "anti-me-tooism," which really means right-wing isolationism. If the "anti-me-too" candidates win universally and by large majorities, they will dominate the Republican Party for the foreseeable future. It is difficult to see how the Republican Party can then ever become a majority party, simply because it in inconceivable that the country should return to the extremely conservative, wholly business-dominated Government of pre-Roosevelt days, and even more inconceivable that the country should return to isolationism. Thus this election may test whether a functioning two-party system is to survive. There are some signs, however, that this might be very nearly the right-wing isolationists' last fling.

A Communication

Arlington School Bond Controversy

By Mrs. Kathryn H. Stone

Vice President, Arlington Ridge Civic Association

The release to the public during this week of the Arlington Ridge Civic Association report on school construction costs is a perfect example of how not to do things—civically speaking. Copies of this long and involved report (24 single-spaced typewritten sheets) were never furnished the responsible officers of the civic association for study. Some of them heard it read aloud at an executive committee meeting which was called unexpectedly, and on 24 hours' notice, for a weekend night.

Copies of the report were released to the press before the membership heard a thing about it. Officers unavoidably absent from the executive committee meeting were not informed either. The membership, a few days later, voted to postpone consideration of the report until after the election. But the fat was already in the fire. The report had become a factor in the school bond issue to be voted upon on election day.

A report of this magnitude, containing the serious charge that Arlington's recent school construction program could have been carried out for two million dollars less, should never have been released without the knowledge and vote of approval of the association. Some few members of the association were apparently willing to take any tactic to influence the preelection campaign on the school bond issue to their way of thinking.

The whole process seems to have involved a not unfamiliar combination of civic naivete and political shrewdness on the part of the participants. It was clearly understood by the membership that the association had taken no position on the school bond issue.

I am in favor of the school bonds and I deplore the possible effect of this psuedo-objective report, which is tantamount to opposition to the bond issue. Even more, I am disturbed by the methods which have been used by some members of the association. Maintaining the integrity and effectiveness of voluntary citizen efforts is vital to our form of government. This kind of tactic disparages citizen action and sets back the civic clock.

The type of survey which was attempted — that of comparative costs of school construction — is recognized by everyone with a shred of professional research experience in government as the most treacherous ground in that field. Also, experience has shown that certain important rules must be followed for the effective use of citizen surveys.

1. The responsible officers of the civic association should discuss the project with the survey committee in its initial stages and help to make the over-all plan.

2. All interviews with public officials, made in the name of the association should be clearly authorized, and those seeking information on behalf of the association clearly identified.

3. Findings should be discussed in the preliminary or tentative stage with the executive committee or board of the association at a meeting or meetings called with due notice and at a convenient time.

4. The findings of the survey should be discussed with the public officials concerned. If possible, a preliminary copy of the report should be given such officials for study. This procedure is not only a courtesy to those who give their time and energy to public office, it is necessary to protect the surveyor from unwittingly using erroneous or incomplete data and making undefendable charges.

5. Copies of the tentative draft should be furnished to the responsible officers, studied by them, and then discussed together around a table.

6. Copies of the tentative report, or careful summaries, should be furnished the membership of the association, preferably before a meeting to consider the report.

7. The report should be carefully considered at a meeting of the members before action of any kind is taken.

8. Only after the report is understood and officially approved by the membership should it be released to public officials and later to the public.

Only if civic organizations will follow this careful procedure will their report be brick-bat proof, and effective. Any lesser action lacks sportsmanship and is without the intergrity upon which healthy democracy must depend.

One thing is clear from the week's events—that we have public officials responsive to citizen concern. The School Board, within a day, created an opportunity for citizens to hear most of the key people who had worked professionally on the construction of Arlington school buildings in the last year or so. None of the signers of the Arlington Ridge report bothered toattend this important meeting where they would have had a full opportunity to ask questions.

Architects from five architectural firms spoke. They were men with a wealth of experience over a period of years in school construction. They were the men, as it happened, who have had charge of the construction upon which the comparison of costs was attempted, those in nearby Maryland counties as well as in Arlington. These men were in agreement upon two things: (1) on the hazards of making comparisons of cost; and (2) that the costs of school construction in Arlington County are not out of line with costs in nearby counties and cities, nor with comparable communities in other metropolitan areas.

It is hard to believe that the intelligent electorate of Arlington will be swayed much by what a few members of one small neighborhood civic association have charged, especially in the light of the methods used. The members of the civic association have now passed a motion that the association "wishes to make clear that its objective in undertaking the study on comparative school costs is to contribute constructively to more effective use of Arlington's limited school building funds, and not in any way to influence public consideration of the bond issue."

Buildings which are built are built. Any constructive contributions to lower costs must be made in terms of future construction. I hope that the Arlington Ridge Civic Association has not lost its power to do this, but it has most certainly impaired its prestige and the likelihood of its future effectiveness in this field. May it serve as a civic lesson to all who have had the painful experience of witnessing what happened during this week.

Clarke Backs Executive Plan; Democrat Assails Charter Rule

Government, champions of county manager government, urged voters to remember that any change is "only the first step" toward better government.

"It is our sincere conviction," its statement said, "that the executive form, with district elections continued, provides insufficient improvements; the manager form, with county-wide voting, provides the framework that will make good government possible."

A group of Fairfax citizens favoring the executive form, including members of the commission that studied the Fairfax problem at the behest of the board of supervisors, distributed red and white handbills calling for votes "for representative government and against a county dictatorship."

Held 'Truly Representative'

The executive form is "truly representative government" because of its provision for election of supervisors by districts rather than by the county at large, their statement said. The county manager, it added, "has virtually the powers of a county dictator."

On the other side of the District in Montgomery County, James W. Gill, a member of the county Democratic Victory Committee, said in a prepared radio address that the residents of Montgomery "haven't had good government for the last four years of Republican rule."

The county, "in the hands of impractical theorists," has increased its bonded indebtedness from $12,890,000 to "well over 22 million dollars" since 1946, he declared.

On the Republican side, State Senator Roy Tasco Davis directed a talk, prepared for radio delivevry last night, at Montgomery voters and the Republican candidates for "State and national office."

"Beware of Brooke Lee"

He asked county voters "not to be naive," but "to remember that a vote for Governor W. Preston Lane, jr., is a vote for Brooke Lee," Democratic leader in Montgomery.

In Prince Georges County, the League of Women Voters announced that Mrs. John H. Shepherd, jr., UNion 7772, will offer assistance to any voter who is "sure he has registered, but is not listed on the books at his particular precinct."

"Often this is due to a clerical oversight," the statement said, adding that Maryland voting laws provide for the aid proposed by the league.

No Fascism in Austria, Vishinsky Is Advised

VIENNA, Nov. 5 (AP).—Austria's vice-chancellor last night invited Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky to come to Austria and see for himself that "Fascism has completely disappeared in Austria."

Speaking at the annual Congress of the Austrian Socialist party at Graz, Vice-Chancellor Dr. Adolf Schaerf referred to Vishinsky's statements to the United Nations that Fascism in Austria hinders conclusion of a peace treaty.

Poll Shows Democrats Favored

party ticket, strong Republican gubernatorial and senatorial candidates heading the ticket in a number of key States may help GOP House candidates. This is a factor which cannot be fully reflected in the survey.

Today's report is confined solely to House races. Since senatorial elections are being held in only 32 States, the House contests form the only over-all measure of party strength in the Nation in off-year elections.

In the previous seven tests, the Institute picked the winning side six times and was on the wrong side once—in 1948.

Part of the 1948 error stemmed from the fact that most of the interviewing ended approximately 10 to 12 days before election. To interview as late as possible and still allow time to tabulate and analyze the findings, arrangements were made this year to continue questioning voters through last Friday evening, with the interviewers telegraphing results. The possible source of error due to voters changing their minds in the closing days of the campaign is thereby reduced.

On the basis of New York City registrations and three State elections in the past year, the Institute estimates a total voter turnout on Tuesday of 39,500,000 out of a total adult population of 97,000,000 adults.

If everyone were required to vote, as in Australia, Holland and some other countries, the Democrats would win elections with ease. This is because many more people in the population today consider themselves Democrats than Republicans.

In fact, 45 percent in a recent Institute survey classified themselves as Democrats, as compared to 33 percent who classified themselves as Republicans, 21 percent as Independents and 1 percent other.

The low turnout of voters in off-year elections is a marked handicap to the Democrats, and an advantage to the Republicans—which is one reason why the Democrats have worked so hard this year to get out the vote.

The turnout factor constitutes a major problem for pre-election surveys. With approximately 97,000,000 of voting age in the United States, analysts can quickly recognize the difficulty of picking out those who will vote from those who will not, in order to apply survey data to the ones most likely to get to the polls on election day.

'Desperate Deal'

McKeldin Sees Politics In Session Call

BALTIMORE, Nov. 5 (AP).—Governor Lane's call for a special session of the Maryland General Assembly next Friday brought a sharp retort today from Theodore R. McKeldin, his Republican opponent.

This "will fool no one," McKeldin declared, "nor will the crumb of sales tax relief he now reluctantly proposes satisfy an angry electorate."

Lane announced yesterday he has called the Legislature into special session to remove the sales tax from restaurant meals and exempt all purchases up to 50 cents.

McKeldin said Republican legislators would use the session to introduce the GOP "full sales tax relief, which has already been announced."

"They will likewise submit legislation to provide relief from the present unfair, unequal and excessive State real estate assessments," he added.

"All of the members of the Legislature," McKeldin said, "I am sure, favor this program and will likewise want to know from the Governor where the State budget is and why he has kept it hidden."

Lane said because McKeldin had accused him of bargaining with the voters on the legislative call, he said "I will assume the responsibility of doing it—win, lose or draw."

McKeldin, however, said the call was further evidence "he (Lane) continues his policy of somersaults and desperation deals in a last-minute effort to attract votes."

Then the Republican candidate added:

"The people will not forget that at one legislative session after another Mr. Lane refused sales tax relief which obviously could have been granted."

Russian Embassy Splattered By Red Ink Thrown in Night

A bottle of red ink was tossed against the second-floor front of the Soviet Embassy early yesterday.

Red splashed against the column of a balcony, dripped down the grillwork and splattered the driveway of the mansion on 16th st. It missed a window by a foot.

Police investigated, but weren't worried enough to carry a report. Newspapermen — not embassy aides—called police.

Not First Secretary of the Embassy Lev S. Tolokonnikov.

"He is absent today," said a voice over the telephone.

Nor Second Secretary Fedor Federenko.

"Today he is off," said the voice.

"I am not really in position to say anything. Today is a day off."

A guard behind a glass peephole of the front door said the bottle was tossed about 4 a. m. That's about all he would say.

"It does not matter," he shrugged.

By afternoon the stain on the column and balcony was the shade of pink stucco. What had been done to clean the wall?

"It does not matter," the guard said.

Batt Arrives in England

SOUTHAMPTON, England, Nov. 5 (AP).—William L. Batt arrived tonight to take up his job as head of the Economic Cooperation Administration in Great Britain.

The Readinjack

THE MOST ORIGINAL, handy lounging jacket . . . for men at home, in the barracks, at school, or traveling . . . and particularly for men of the armed forces who are in hospitals and who need every comfort and convenience while convalescing. OF BOOKS AND BRENTANO'S

There's nothing giddy about the Government, thank heaven! At least not according to a release from the Dept. of Agriculture concerning ideal bridal gifts. Not pearls, not perfume, not orchids, says Uncle Sam—just give the little dear a tool kit. Recommended: a hammer, two screwdrivers, pliers and a 6-inch wrench. Included are such vital directions as: turn screw to tighten. Presumably this is meant to help the little woman hold together the American home. The least we at Brentano's can do is pitch in with a few appropriate titles . . . To warm up, try HOW TO KEEP HOUSE ($3.50), a different kind of housekeeping book. Written by Mary Davis Gillies, decorating editor of McCall's and happily illustrated by Cobean, it tells how to acquire and move into a house, describes efficient, modern methods of cleaning, dishwashing and laundering. A pleasant blend of new-fashioned techniques and old-fashioned good taste. . . . More applicable for wives with new and alarming tool kits is THE HOME MECHANICS HANDBOOK ($6.95), an amazingly complete exposition of home repairs and how to do them yourself—carpentry, electrical work, plumbing and heaven knows what all! Detailed drawings clarify each step. Wisest step of all would be to give the book and the tool kit to that handy husband. . . . While you're at it, give him THE HOME MECHANICS OUTDOOR HANDBOOK ($5.95). Like a swimming pool? A new driveway? A playhouse? Follow the simple directions and step back to admire. . . . FIRST AID FOR THE AILING HOUSE ($2.75) is the home-owners answer to the ravages of time and grubby little hands. . . . For aficionados, THE COMPLETE BOOK OF FURNITURE REPAIR AND REFINISHING ($3.50) is invaluable. Tells how to fix priceless antiques, or make bargain basement unpainted look like Louis the Umpteenth.

New Jefferson Papers Book Out Today; Covers 1777-1779

"The Papers of Thomas Jefferson," volume two in the monumental 52-volume work of Princeton University Press, covering the 1777-to-1779 period, appears today.

On the publication of the papers of the 1750-to-1776 period last May, this whole enterprise was hailed as one of the greatest editorial research and publishing projects in American history.

The newest book of the series in every way confirms and sustains that description of the tremendous work that is going forward at Princeton under the editorship of Julian P. Boyd.

Those who have studied assiduously the best Jefferson collections hitherto available will find these volumes a revelation. This is the result not only of the success of the compilers in locating Jefferson documents themselves. Even more notable is the contribution to understanding made by the elaborate notes and by the letters written to Thomas Jefferson.

The remarkable research of Volume One on the Declaration of Independence is matched by the equally diligent examination of the Revisal of the Laws of Virginia, less known but equally significant product of Jefferson's genius. The second volume deals with the years following Jefferson's retirement from Congress and preceding his term as the second Governor of the State of Virginia.

A full review of this volume will appear on The Washington Post book page next Sunday.

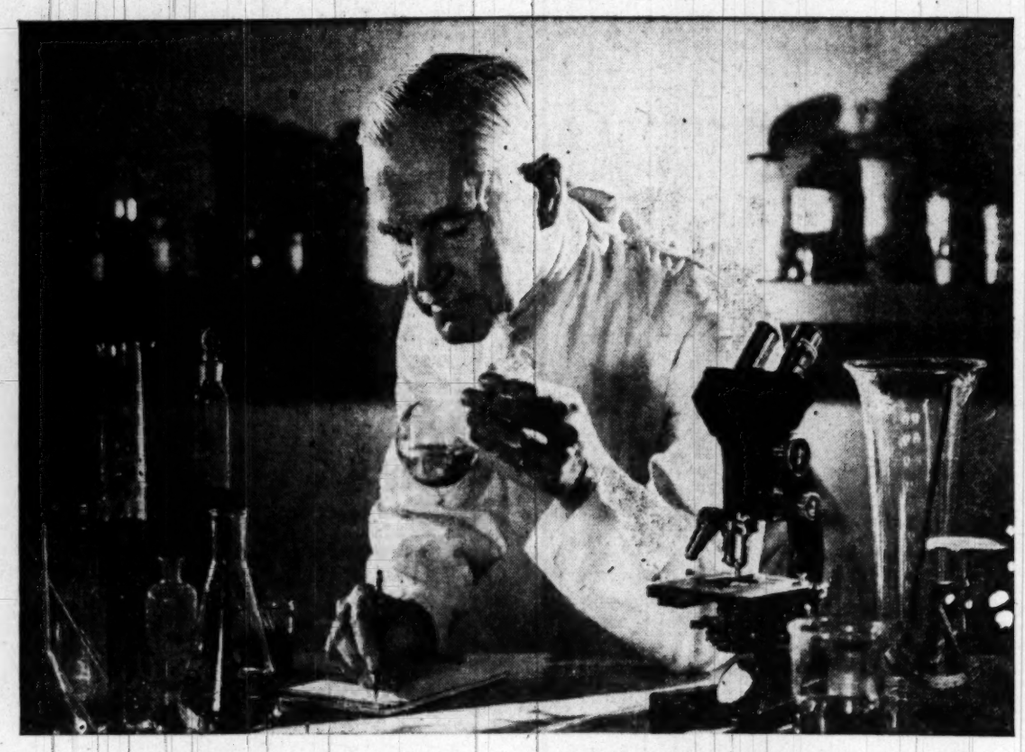
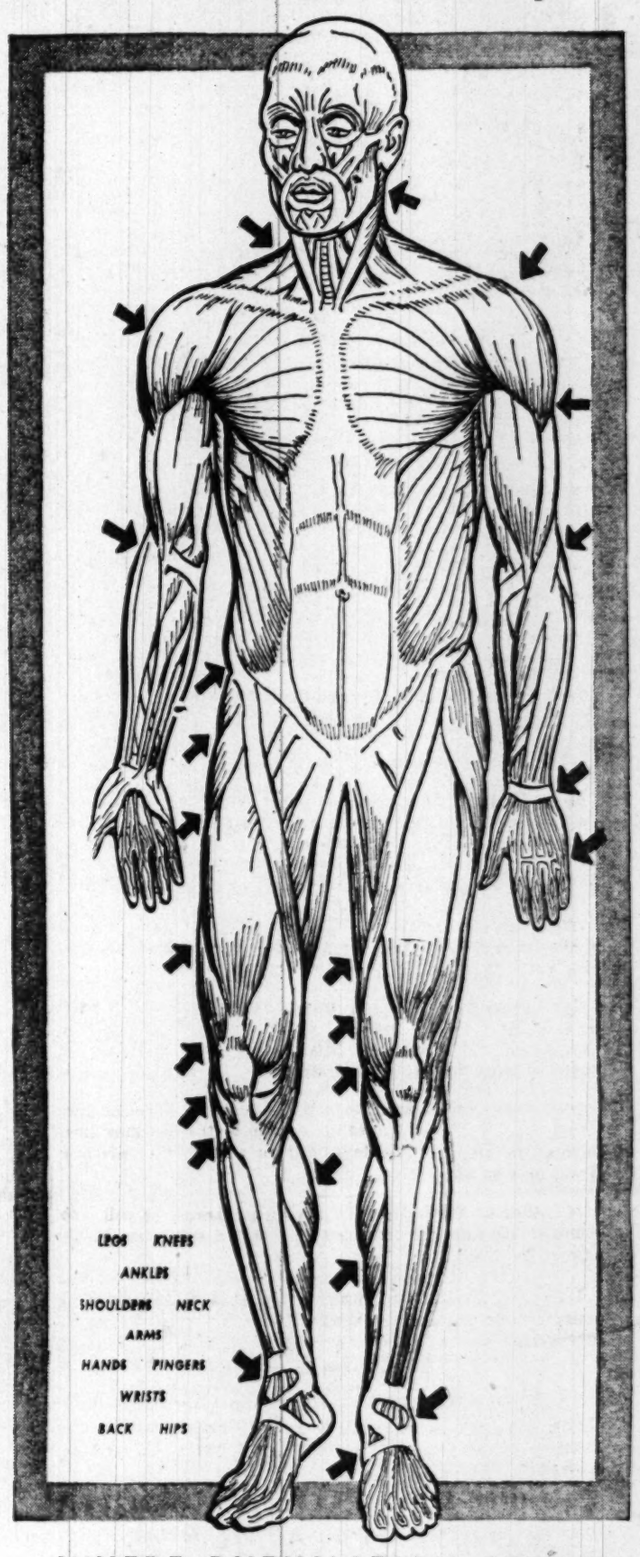
AMAZING NEW DISCOVERY FOR RHEUMATISM, ARTHRITIS

NO FASTER ARTHRITIC PAIN RELIEF KNOWN... SAFE

CLINIC TESTED Stops Swelling of Painful Joints . . . Contains Sensational New Research Discovery





NEW, SAFE, SCIENTIFIC TABLET

Not a Narcotic . . . Not Habit Forming . . .

AT LAST THE STORY CAN BE TOLD! Medical science developed the amazing wonder-working drugs Sulfa and Penicillin . . . then turned attention to relieving the agonizing pains caused by rheumatism and arthritis. The result of extensive research is a wonder working ingredient which is now combined with other pharmaceuticals into a remarkable preparation called IMDRIN. Longtime sufferers from rheumatism, arthritis, neuritis, and gout may find IMDRIN gives glorious relief so sensationally fast it's really amazing! There's nothing faster available to the public today. Contains no dope or harmful drugs. Only after years of clinical work and testing was this fast, safe pain-killer developed, but today it is REALITY. If you suffer rheumatic pain ask for IMDRIN at drug stores.

DEVELOPED AFTER YEARS OF EXTENSIVE CLINICAL TESTS

IMDRIN has been a closely guarded experimental secret before release for public use. Yes, medical men, after years of extensive clinical tests, have proved conclusively that IMDRIN works internally toward amazing reduction of pain, heat, redness and swelling in the joints. Patients undergoing IMDRIN therapy in these clinics often were able to start comfortable living completely after other remedies had failed. Every victim of rheumatism, arthritis, neuritis, sciatica, gout, neuralgia, etc., should investigate this new development of modern medicine. Ask for IMDRIN at drug stores. Truly IMDRIN is today's big proprietary success.

Relieves Pain and Suffering After Years of Torture!

"I call IMDRIN a boon and you can understand why when I tell you that the pain which had tortured and crippled me, and for which there seemed no relief, was gone after I had taken IMDRIN. Now, for the first time in years, I can move about without pain. Surely the thousands of unfortunates like me who are seeking relief from the pains of arthritis should be happy to learn about the blessed, fast-acting ingredient which IMDRIN contains. It surely goes to work fast and gets results."

Gratefully yours,
A. C.
Chicago, Illinois

"I had arthritis and rheumatism so bad I could hardly get around. Well, I had about given up hope when I saw your ad in the paper and bought a bottle of IMDRIN. I really think it's splendid. I feel better with every dose I take. It seems like a dream to be free of so much pain."

MRS. A. R. W.
Amarillo, Texas

"I am not getting paid for these words, but I want everyone to know what I know about IMDRIN. I had rheumatism and arthritis pains in my left shoulder and arm so bad I could hardly use it. Everytime I moved my arm it hurt just like sticking a knife into it. I was like a one-armed person. Then I tried IMDRIN. Now since I have IMDRIN, I suffer no more pain! No one can realize the fast relief it gives a person that suffered, like I did. IMDRIN is worth hundreds of dollars to me."

A. C. S.
Wheaton, Illinois

"About 25 years ago, arthritis forced me to quit my office as Mayor and walk with crutches. Finally, I tried IMDRIN. Today, nearly all soreness is gone, and my agony is over."

O. H. H.
Bayard, New Mexico

WHERE RHEUMATISM STRIKES ...AND HOW TO DETECT IT!

Rheumatic and arthritic pain and inflammation can strike the joints in any of the indicated affected areas. (See arrows in chart above.) But these diseases have many forms and each form has varying symptoms. Rheumatoid arthritis is an infection of the joints which fill with fluid; the skin around them may be red, the joints themselves swollen and painful. Still another form is specific infectious arthritis.

All these various forms of arthritis and rheumatism are accompanied by pain; very often swelling and loss of function of the joints. Clinical test patients undergoing IMDRIN therapy, some of whom had suffered hopelessly for years, were able to begin happy, comfortable living once the pain subsided and their confidence grew. In cases where the joints were swollen, IMDRIN, working internally, reduced swelling and eased pain rapidly. These patients, many of whom had given up hope, were able to begin comfortable living. It is true that response to IMDRIN varied occasionally and your own experience may or may not coincide with that of patients tested. But IMDRIN today is your greatest hope. IMDRIN, with the new wonder-working ingredient, may give you the same blessed successful results. Get IMDRIN today!

Redskins Lose Sixth on Last-Second Goal, 24-21

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

POLO GROUNDS, NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—The contest today presents Steve Owen's Giants versus the Redskins, and at least 30,000 persons aren't here, it is noted from the empty seats. But 23,909 are present, not including all the New York mayorality candidates.

The Giants have gained themselves a 1950 reputation by beating the Cleveland Browns twice this season. However, the Redskins are not without a distinction of their own, despite their five straight defeats. They are gaining a reputation as the most kicked-off-to team in their division.

Povich

After receiving the opening kickoff, the Redskins have the ball, and the Giants are glad of it. Bill Dudley was just smeared for a 6-yard loss at right end, and Charley Justice lost 4 more on another handoff and the Giants could wind up with 2 points if they stay on defense.

When they got the ball, the Giants stormed all the way to the Redskins' 10 before giving it up on fourth down. Dudley smeared Clay on an end run, and the first 8 minutes passes without a score. The two teams could have achieved the same result without using a ball.

SOMEBODY MUST HAVE substituted a lively ball. Anyway Joe Bartos fumbled and the bounces it took became very un-funny to the Redskins when Baker dropped on the thing for the Giants on the Redskins' 36.

7-0, Giants. Bucky Harris had a hand in it, no kidding. You see, last spring in Florida a tall lad from Texas reported to him as a pitcher and dropped the information he had also received some pro football offers. "I like your football future best," said Harris, so that's how come Bob McChesney just took a pass from Tidwell on the Redskins' 10 and went all the way.

The Giants have the ball again, and who said crime doesn't pay? Clay of the Giants, fumbled and Hall Haynes recovered for the Redskins, except Forrest Griffith stole it from him and the Giants wound up with a 5-yard gain.

Sammy Baugh is doing the finest pitching in the Polo Grounds since Sal Maglie hurled those four shut-outs in a row last summer. Baugh has just connected with five straight passes and the Redskins are on the Giants' 9. With 47 seconds of the half to go, they could score if the officials don't get trigger-happy.

TOUCHDOWN, REDSKINS. Baugh got those last 9 yards with a pitch to Justice in the coffin corner. Justice's neatest trick wasn't catching the ball—it was staying in bounds.

Tom Landry punts for the Giants to Eddie Saenz who is playing safety man for the Redskins. With four big Giants bearing down on him, Eddie Saenzibly calls for a fair catch. He had his choice of being discreet or vivisected.

The Giants gain 7 yards on a play Halfback Joe Scott just thought up. Scott was stopped for no gain by the Redskins' line, fumbled the ball, and then dove on it for a nice 7-yard advance. It was pure ad lib.

14-7, Giants. Travis Tidwell fakes a pass, keeps the ball, and romps around right end untouched on a 10-yard scenic tour highly enjoyed by Coach Steve Owen.

Tie game. The Redskins just made it 14-14 with a whopping assist from Ed Berrang who blocked Landry's punt at the cost of a bellyache. Goode bumped the ball over from the Giants' 4-yard line, and Dudley kicked the tying point.

HEY, THE REDSKINS are getting serious about this thing. Dudley took a hand-off from Baugh and went 23 yards to the Giants' 7 before they bumped him out of bounds. He gets up, acting as if he were furious with himself.

21-14, Redskins. They score on what practically amounts to a trick play. It's a straight shot through right guard for 8 yards by Chuck Drazenovich, the guy the Giants had tabbed as least likely to carry the ball, what with Justice and Dudley available.

Quirk recovers a fumble for the Redskins on the Giants' 12, and they are touchdown-minded again, but the field suddenly gets too long for 'em. Drazenovich, under suspicion now, is stopped by the Giants for no gain on fourth down, and they take over on their own 4.

Chuck Conerly is pitching the Giants up field, and the Redskins are as bewildered as a squad of chickens hatched in an egg-beater.

TIE GAME. It was Conerly-to-Swiacki for 35 yards and a touchdown. The tall former Columbia end was down on the 12-yard line, but finding himself unmolested, got up in sections and scrambled the rest of the way. Poole place-kicked the Giants' twenty-first point with 2 minutes to play.

The Redskins lose the ball again on a play that needs some telling. Baugh flipped a pass to Taylor who lateraled to Justice, who wasn't content with a first down and tried to lateral to the nearest Redskin, who was Witucki. Nearer than Witucki, though, was Landry, who grabbed the thing for the Giants on the Redskins' 41.

The clock shows 4 seconds to play, and the Giants are asking Ray Poole to kick them a 40-yard field goal. You'd be surprised how many things you can get in this world simply by asking. From Nice Guy Poole they get 3 points and get the ball game.

Pettit Hurls 3-Hitter For Bob Lemon's Stars

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 5 (AP).—Paul Pettit, Pittsburgh's $100,000 bonus baby, pitched himself a three hit, 4-0 shutout today as Bob Lemon's All Stars took both ends of an exhibition double-header from the Kansas City Royals.

Lemon bested Brooklyn's Don Newcombe in the nine-inning opener, 8-3. Newcombe fanned 10 in the eight innings he worked, but he yielded home runs to Lemon and Eddie Bockman.

Eagles Bow To Steelers, 9-7, on Geri's 3 Field Goals

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 5 (AP).—Little Joe Geri put the "foot" to the Philadelphia Eagles today as he booted three field goals to give the Pittsburgh Steelers a surprising 9-7 victory in a brilliant battle of two bruising lines.

A crowd of 24,629 saw the National Football League game.

The victory snapped a five-game winning streak for the Eagles, two-time NFL champions, who hadn't been beaten since dropping their season opener to the Cleveland Browns.

Geri, the former Georgia University ace who went south from Phoenixville, Pa., tied an NFL record with his three place kicks. Only six players in the 31-year history of the league have been able to turn the trick with Dick Poillon of the Washington Redskins the last man to place a trio of three pointers between the uprights.

Geri Whole Show

Paddy Driscoll of the Chicago Cardinals booted four field goals in a single game in 1925 but his success was engineered through the lost art of dropkicking. Driscoll also twice dropkicked three field goals in one game, in 1922 and 1923.

Geri was the whole show for the Steelers in their third victory in eight American Conference starts. He gained 113 yards on 25 running plays and made Coach John Michelson's single wing attack function in faultless fashion. It was only the first time the Eagles fell before their intra-State rivals since early in the 1947 season.

The defeat dropped the Eagles into second place in the NFL's American Conference, a half-game behind the Browns. Cleveland has won six and lost two, the Eagles have five and two.

Today's defeat marked the first Philadelphia loss at Shibe Park in four seasons. The loss to Cleveland came at Municipal Stadium.

Pittsburgh started the day's scoring late in the first quarter when End Bob Davies dropped on a fumble by Frank Ziegler on the Eagle 20. Lynn Chandnois, Geri and Fran Rogel pounded to a first down on the 10, but the tough Eagle line stiffened and on fourth down, Gerio booted a field goal from the 11.

Eagles Score on 41-Yard Drive

Early in the second period, Quarterback Tommy Thompson directed the Eagles to their only score of the game on a nine-play, 41-yard movement into the end zone. Steve Van Buren smashed the final yard and Cliff Patton converted his forty-fourth straight extra point over a two-season period.

After another Geri field goal attempt failed from the 55, Frank Sinkovitz pulled a Thompson pass out of the air for a Steeler interception that set the eventual winners up in business on their own 48.

With 44 seconds remaining on the clock, Geri place-kicked one from the 36 that hit the crossbar and bounced over for three points. That made it 7 to 6, Eagles.

After a spectacular goal line stand halted the Steelers, who had a first down on the Eagles' 2, Geri place-kicked the deciding field goal from the 13.

Justice's Boner Sets It Up

Ray Poole's Kick Wins for Giants

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—In one of the most exciting windups to any Polo Grounds contest since Fred Merkle forgot to touch second base 42 years ago, the New York football Giants today outpointed the Washington Redskins, 24-21, on Ray Poole's 40-yard field goal in the last four seconds of the game.

Poole's three-pointer completed the whirlwind Giants' comeback which saw them score 10 points in the last two minutes and four seconds of the thriller to leave 23,909 New York partisans shrieking with joy and send the happless Redskins to their dressing quarters burdened by still another loss, their sixth in a row.

Had Charlie Justice, the heralded halfback from North Carolina, not been in the Redskins' lineup at the time, the Giants tonight probably wouldn't be able to boast of their dramatic victory.

With only 55 seconds to play and the game tied, 21-21, Choo-Choo pulled a boner which must have reminded veteran Polo Grounders of Merkle's famous skull of another day in this same park.

Rookie Justice took a lateral from Hugh Taylor, who had just caught a Sammy Baugh pass, on the Redskins' 35-yard line. Justice ran 5 yards and then lateralled the ball himself, intending it for Guard Casimir Witucki. Instead, it wound up in the arms of Tom Landry of the Giants, who was brought down by Witucki's on the Redskins' 41-yard line.

There were 37 seconds left to play now, time for about three plays. After Hall Haynes had narrowly missed intercepting his first pass, Giants Quarterback Chuck Conerly completed an 8-yarder to Randall Clay. On third down, Chuck Drazenovich who earlier had barreled over for the touchdown which had given the Redskins a 21-14 lead, latched on to Conerly's pass but couldn't hold it.

Now there were only four seconds left and into the game trotted Poole to attempt what the fans were yelling for—a field goal. Conerly held the ball on the 40-yard line, and Poole's kick, made from a slight angle and favored by a stiff tail wind, sailed through the bars for the dramatic margin of victory.

One play after the kickoff, the gun sounded and what practically everybody in the park believed was a sure Redskins' victory only a few moments ago was now a bitter Redskins' defeat.

The Giants came from the outlying precincts to snatch this one out of the fire to post their fifth triumph of the season and their second straight over the Redskins.

Four minutes before the game was over, they were on their own 11-yard line, trailing 21-14, and as far as many of the spectators were concerned, a beaten ball club.

In two minutes they had passed and ran to the tieing touchdown with Conerly completing a fourth-down pass to Bill Swiacki for a touchdown which should have never happened.

The Giants drove to the Redskins' 26-yard line where it was fourth down and 15 to go. Conerly hit Swiacki on the Redskins' 12, 1 yard short of a first down, and Swiacki was promptly hit by Drazenovich and Harry Dowda. He got up, however, and ran the 12 yards to tie the game as Drazenovich and Dowda looked on, each thinking, perhaps, the other would smear him. Neither did.

Of all the six straight Redskins losses this season—the first time in history it's happened to the local pros—today's was indeed a heartbreaker.

Browns Top Cards, 10-7; Take Lead

By Jerry Liska

CHICAGO, Nov. 5 (AP).—Cleveland's Browns today moved into first place in the American Division of the National Football League on a 10-7 victory over the Chicago Cardinals, clinched by Lou Groza's 17-yard field goal in the first period.

A Comiskey Park throng of 38,456 saw the hard-fought scrap in which all scores were made in the first half.

The game actually was settled within the first 10 minutes, during which Cleveland's Dub Jones romped 35 yards for a touchdown and Groza place-kicked both the extra point and the decisive field goal.

It was Cleveland's sixth league win against two defeats and moved the Browns into the American top spot ahead of the New York Giants and the Philadelphia Eagles, tied for second with 5-2 records. The Eagles lost to the Pittsburgh Steelers today, 9-7, while the Giants nipped the Washington Redskins, 24-21.

The Browns, favored by 12 points, scored their touchdown with the game only 1:44 old. It came on a 33-yard cruise around the Cardinals' left end by Jones on the next play after Tony Adamle recovered Ventan Yablonski's fumble on Chicago's 33.

The game-deciding field goal by Groza late in the first period was tried after a Cleveland 63-yard march bogged down on Chicago's 10. With the ball held by Tommy James on the Card 17, Groza whistled the three-pointer through the uprights.

After Groza missed on two field goal tries from 40 and 41 yards in the second period, the Cardinals struck 80 yards in five plays for their only touchdown. Frank Tripucka's scoring quarterback sneak from the one-foot line came after he had worked pass plays of 64 and 13 yards with big Bob Shaw. Yablonski added the extra point to leave the Cards behind, 10-7.

That's the way the score stood the rest of the way. The Cards failed to get beyond Cleveland's 44 in the second half, while the Browns had a 64-yard march in the closing minutes collapse on the Cardinal two.

The Browns had a lot of wasted motion, out-rushing the Cards, 237 to 71. In the air, the Cards had a 194 to 114 edge. All of Cleveland's aerial yardage came on 10 completions in 21 attempts by Otto Graham. For the Cards, Tripucka connected on 8 of 17 tries and Jim Hardy hit on 5 out of 8.

Tri-City Wins Over Knicks In Overtime

MOLINE, Ill., Nov. 5 (AP).—The Tri-City Blackhawks pulled out a 98-95 overtime National Basketball Association victory over the New York Knickerbockers today, despite Vince Boryla's 35 points for New York.

The Hawks' Warren Perkins sent the game into the overtime period with a basket in the last 30 seconds of the regulation game tieing it up at 84-all. Tri-City connected for six field goals in the extra period while the Knicks could get only three.

Snead, Mangrum Win Best Ball in Leo Diegel Benefit

INGLEWOOD, Calif., Nov. 5 (AP).—Slammin' Sammy Snead tied the Inglewood Country Club course record of 65 as he teamed with Lloyd Mangrum to cop a 2-up victory over Ben Hogan and Fay Coleman in an 18-hole, best-ball exhibition.

More than 2500 fans turned out for the show, honoring former National PGA Titlist Leo Diegel. They paid in some $4000 to help the old-time great who is gravely ill with cancer.

Coleman checked in with a 71, Hogan a 72 and Mangrum a 73. Bantam Ben was hot on the front nine, firing a 4-under-par 33. But he faded to 39 coming in.

Bears Defeat Lions; Rams Win, 28-21

Lujack Scores Twice in 35-21 Chicago Victory

DETROIT, Nov. 5 (AP).—The Chicago Bears ground out huge chunks of yardage with a multi-pronged attack as they whipped the Detroit Lions 35-21 today for the Lions' fourth straight loss in the National Football League.

Veteran Quarterback Johnny Lujack was the big man in the Bears' attack as he slammed over a pair of touchdowns and added five conversions to run his season's scoring total to 81 points—highest in the NFL.

He entered the game tied with Detroit's Doak Walker at 64 points in their struggle for individual scoring honors. Lujack wasted no time in letting Walker know who was boss man as he gave a dazzling display while leading the Bears' offensive.

Lujack accounted for the Bears' first two touchdowns within six minutes midway in the opening period as he dived over from the 2 on a quarterback sneak and tossed a 39-yard scoring pass to John Hoffman to put the Chicagoans out front, 14-0.

The Bears dominated play the rest of the way though they eased up a little in the fourth period in which Detroit got two of its three touchdowns, both on 15-yard runs by Bobby Layne.

The loss raised some question about the future of Lions' Coach Alvin (Bo) McMillin, former football coach at Indiana University. He has been under fire and the directors of the Detroit Football Co., operators of the Lions, have scheduled a meeting for Monday to discuss McMillin's status.

Lions' President Edwin Anderson said before today's game, "I don't think it would be good business to change coaches in the middle of a season. It wouldn't help the situation and there are several problems connected with the naming of a new coach."

McMillin's contract still has two years to run.

Big Leon Hart, former Notre Dame star whose pro football career has been far from sensational this season, gave McMillin a helping hand today with his best performance since he joined the play-for-pay boys. He contributed Detroit's first score with a 66-yard run on a pass from Doak Walker, dragging three Bear tacklers for the final 15 yards.

It was a dull ball game until the final period which saw the Bears leading 21-7.

49ers Scare L. A. But Wilt Under 21-Point 3d Period

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 5 (AP).—The San Francisco '49ers threw a scare into the favored Rams today, but they wilted under a crushing counter attack and the Rams won the National Football League contest, 28 to 21. A throng of 33,234 fans saw the affair in Memorial Coliseum.

The Rams went in front for the first time in the third quarter, scoring 21 points for what proved the winning margin.

A spectacular 72-yard scoring pass play from Veteran Bob Waterfield to his rookie end, Bob Boyd, gave the worried Rams a 7 to 7 tie 10 seconds before the first half ended.

Frankie Albert and his 49ers scored first in the second quarter on Halfback Jim Cason's 24 yard dash. The touchdown came on the first play after a San Francisco guard, Visco Grgich, intercepted a Norn Van Brocklin pass and ran it back 33 yards to the Ram 24.

San Francisco went into a 14-7 lead in the third quarter when Howard Livingston snatched another Van Brocklin aerial and then scored on a 35 yard caper.

Los Angeles finally got down to business shortly thereafter and again tied the score at 14-all. Paul Barry and Dick Hoerner ripped off huge gains in a 61 yard drive. Only two short passes were thrown in the sequence, and

Colts Go Crazy in 4th Period for First Win in 20 Games, 41-21

Little All-America Hopeful

Bucky Ennis of C. U. Player of the Week

Left Halfback Bill (Bucky) Ennis, mainstay of Catholic University's football team for the past four seasons and a leading candidate for Little All-America honors, is The Washington Post and Touchdown Club college player of the week.

BUCKY ENNIS

Against Gallaudet Saturday, Bucky carried the ball only four times on offense before a badly bruised ankle forced him from the contest. But what carries they were! In three tries from scrimmage he gained 103 yards. One of the three was an 89-yard touchdown jaunt around right end.

Bucky also racked up a 76-yard touchdown on a punt return. When he left the game, his team led, 20-0, and the contest was for all practical purposes, over. It was Ennis' last game at Brookland Stadium.

Bucky made the varsity his freshman year at Catholic U. Both Athletic Director Eddie La Fond and Coach Jan Jankowski say that he is the best CU player in at least a decade.

Ennis is small for a football player, only 5 feet 7 inches tall. He weighs 156 pounds. But Bucky runs the 100 in just a fraction over 10 seconds and has power and deceptiveness to match his speed.

Ennis is an outstanding boxer as well as the pride of the Cardinal football team. Last spring he was middleweight semi-finalist in the NCAA tournament at Penn State. The CU coaching staff to a man praises him as a great competitor who gives his utmost even when his team is too far behind to possibly win.

An interesting sidelight to Ennis' athletic career is the fact that he takes as difficult a course as the university offers—physics. He's specializing in nuclear physics and has been in the upper half of his class throughout his scholastic career.

27-Point Rally Buries Green Bay

By George Bowen

BALTIMORE, Nov. 5 (AP).—A hungry Baltimore Colt team banged over 27 points in a fourth-period outburst to overwhelm the Green Bay Packers, 41-21, and take their first National Football League victory today.

A crowd of 12,971 went wild in Memorial Stadium as they saw the Colts win at home for the first time since 1948. Baltimore had lost 19 straight games, including seven exhibitions this season and their first six contests in the National League.

The long-suffering fans came out of the stands to the sidelines during the last minute when the Colts scored two of their last period touchdowns.

Baltimore seemed headed for defeat again as they went into the final 15 minutes of play. They were behind 21-14 and had their backs to the wall. The the dikes opened wide.

Fullback Jim Spavital exploded for a 96-yard touchdown run, his third excursion over the goal. But Rex Grossman was slow kicking the extra point and it was blocked, leaving Green Bay ahead 21-20.

The Colts, playing like animals at the sight of blood, intercepted three passes by Paul Christman and Tobin Rote and ran them back for touchdowns. End Jim Owens went 20 yards with the all-important one that put the Colts ahead and then in the last 30 seconds Halfback Frank Spaniel returned another 35 yards and Halback Herb Rich followed with a 50-yard runback.

Spaniel and Rich were mobbed by fans upon reaching the end zone.

Spavital, who last week had a bothersome corn on his foot removed, ran like a new man to give the Colts a tremendous lift. He scored twice in the second quarter on 45-yard plays, one a jaunt around end and the other on a pass from quarterback Y. A. Tittle.

Green Bay matched those touchdowns for a 14-14 halftime standoff on a one-yard dive by Billy Grimes in the first period and a 16-yard pass from Christman to Larry Coutre in the second.

Christman's 30-yard pass to End Al Baldwin, who ran the last 10 yards, put the Packers ahead early in the third period.

Richmond Routs Erie

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 5 (AP).—The Richmond Rebels roared from behind a 6-0 halftime deficit to wallop the Erie (Pa.) Vets, 28-6, in an American Football League game here today before 4500 chilled fans.

It was the first victory in five starts this season for the defending AFL champions and the second defeat for the Vets. The loss dropped the Vets to second place in the loop, behind the Jersey City Giants.

The Vets took the lead with only 73 seconds left in the first half when Tom O'Malley completed a 34-yard pass to Joe Zuravleff on the Rebel four-yard line. Fullback Jack Woodland bucked over two plays later.

Erie was handicapped throughout the game due to the absence of ace quarterback Ed Songin, who saw only limited service in the last period because of injuries.

Alexander Will Be Given Military Rites

ST. PAUL, Nebr., Nov. 5 (AP).—A military funeral will be held at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow for Grover Cleveland Alexander, one of baseball's immortals.

Alexander, a fabulous major league pitcher in his day, died yesterday at the age of 63 in the rented room he occupied in a private home here. He died of a heart ailment.

The American Legion, which Alexander joined after World War I, will be in charge of the services tentatively scheduled for the McIntyre funeral home here.

However, because a large crowd is expected and the funeral home has seating capacity for only 160, the services may be moved to the American Legion hall.

Hoyas Rate Terps Better Than Miami

By Jack Walsh
Post Reporter

Just how good is this unbeaten University of Miami football team?

That's still a hard question to answer, despite its six triumphs in a row.

Of course, Miamians have a ready reply—terrific is the only way they can describe Coach Andy Gustafson's Hurricanes. The loyal homefolk are straining, too, to see that Miami gets the national recognition they feel the team deserves.

As the ranking Southern independent, Miami is the victim of a bit of a freeze from Southeastern Conference centers. SEC people are reluctant to admit that the club really has arrived.

Despite the 42-7 drubbing they took last Friday night most of the Georgetown players said they thought Maryland, only a 25-14 victor over them, has a better team.

Weather " Secret Weapon"

Hoya Coach Bob Margarita said he'd give the defensive edge to Miami but he believed Maryland has a stronger, more varied offense. Intimating that he thought the teams fairly even, Margarita said, "If they played, it would be a game well worth seeing."

The Georgetown players refused to cry about the heat licking them in a brutal fourth period in which Miami scored 26 points. However, there's a strong suspicion that the humid weather is Miami's "secret weapon" against visiting clubs.

Few teams have folded the way the Hoyas did at the end after playing respectably for three periods in a 16-7 ball game. And they didn't quit, they were just pooped.

With the humidity at 91, the officials were changing footballs and wiping them about as frequently as they do in the rain.

Hackett's Loss May Be Costly

Georgetown, perhaps, doesn't provide a real test. The Hoyas just aren't deep enough anyway to compete with Miami. Too, Miami can point out that it's a strong second half club. The Hurricanes upset Purdue, 20-14, scoring all its points after intermission, at Lafayette, Ind. And, at Pittsburgh, 21 of its 28 points were tallied in the second half.

There's no question, though, that Miami is better acclimated at home. Then, on the road, it's Miami that gets a shot in the arm if the weather's crisp and not humid. It's not the handicap that Miami weather is to visiting clubs.

It's going to be interesting to see if Miami can go all the way. Things will be especially tough against Florida, Iowa and Missouri without its great little quarterback, Jack Hackett, who fractured his shoulder in the Georgetown game.

Redskins Lose 6th, 24-21

Poole's Field Goal In Last 4 Seconds Wins for Giants

7-0 lead on rookie Travis Tidwell's 36-yard touchdown pass to end Bob McChesney in the first quarter, the Redskins tied it 16 seconds before half-time as Sammy Baugh completed six out of 10 passes on a 60-yard excursion, connecting with the ill-fated Justice for the final 8 yards.

The Giants bounced out of their dressing rooms for the third quarter and promptly bounced into a 14-7 lead as their irrepressible Poole reclaimed a Bob Goode fumble for New York on the Redskins' 45-yard line.

It took 10 plays to score, and rookie Tidwell, former Auburn star, skirted Ed Berrang's end on a neat quarterback keeper play for the touchdown.

Three minutes later, Berrange redeemed himself by blocking a fourth-down Landry punt on the Giants' 6-yard line. On second down, Goode crashed over and Dudley followed with the first of his three extra points to tie the game again, 14-14.

Less than two minutes later, it was another touchdown for the Redskins, this one a 44-yard push. Bill Dudley, who caught a 15-yard pass from Baugh in the waning minutes of the second quarter to set up the first Redskins' touchdown, paved the way for the third one also. He turned his own left end for 23 yards to the Giants' 7.

Washington Loses 21-14 Lead in Hectic Finish

Pete Stout lost one yard on the next play, but rookie Drazenovich came in to bull his way 8 yards for a touchdown on second down and the Redskins moved in front, 21-14.

On the second play of the fourth quarter, the Redskins muffed a chance to add to their margin by recovering a fumble on the Giants' 12-yard line, but this time Drazenich failed a fourth-down plunge and the Giants took over.

Several minutes later, they began their 89-yard touchdown march to tie the score, and seconds later. Poole's field goal sailed through the chilly afternoon to pull the game out of the fire and into the deep freeze.

Coach Bones McKinney Adds New Player Named McKinney

By Bill Ahlberg
Post Reporter

The Washington Caps yesterday added a new player—a stringbean from North Carolina named Bones McKinney.

It took Bones just six games—three exhibitions, and three league contests—to find out he wasn't content to be a bench coach.

His decision to return as a player, however, poses an additional problem of what to do about the Caps' already overstaffed roster.

The Caps, not including Coach Bones, are carrying 13 players, two over the league limit. Up to this week Bones has been content to carry the two extra players even though it meant that two of the squad could not suit up for the games.

But this arrangement hasn't worked out and suddenly now being three over the limit McKinney is faced with making a cut.

"We will have to do it," he said yesterday, "I don't know when exactly but in the next 10 days I'll have to make up my mind who goes and who stays."

Bones said he plans to start getting in shape this week and will probably play in Saturday night's game here against Red Auerbach's Boston Celtics.

His move also was dictated in part by necessity. McKinney pointed out. "Right now we don't know what the draft will do to us and if I get in shape maybe I'll be a little insurance if we are hit hard later.

"I also think we can use my experience in sports," he went on, "for instance we could have used another experienced player against Minneapolis last Saturday with both Chuck Gilmur and Johnny Norlander out of the lineup. That's when I sort of decided I'd try my hand again."

As things now stand the Caps are in danger of losing two of their most prized rookies to the draft. Both Earl Lloyd, 6-foot-6 inch forward from West Virginia State, and Dick Schnittker, all-American from Ohio State, have taken pre-induction physicals.

Links Champ Loses in Anacostia Play

Bill Swan Upsets Lukat

By Dave Heller
Post Reporter

District Public Links golf champion Freddie Lukat was upset yesterday, one up in 19 holes, by Bill Swan in second round play in Anacostia golf course's club championship tournament.

Swan birdied the par four, 340-yard nineteenth with a 20-foot putt to close out the match after the pair had carded par 67s for the first 18 holes.

In other matches, Eddie Lightbrown ousted defending champion Dr. R. A. Cole, one up in 23 holes, Lenny Bridgett beat Tom Manning, 5 and 4, and Courtney Litz ousted Herman Brown, 6 and 4.

BETHESDA: Tony Popolaski was medalist in the qualifying round of the "midget" turkey tournament with an even par 72. (Pro Harry Griesmer says that the word midget does not refer to the size of the turkey, but to the fact that match play will be limited to nine holes.) Dick Melvin was second low with 74. Tom Manning and Herb Rudd had 76s.

FORT DUPONT: Weltha Bowers won the "Bingle-Bangle-Bungle" tournament in which a point was awarded for one-putting a green, being first to reach the green, and first in the cup. Her total was 11 points. Rachel Yap and Catherine Nealis tied for second with nine each. Myrtle Quarles was fourth with eight.

EAST POTOMAC: Frank Mailley won the club championship, defeating Earl Marcy, 2 and 1. Mailley had a medal score of 74, two over par, for the long, slow course. Al Dunay upset Bob Martino, one up, to win the B flight championship. John Kirby won the C flight title, eliminating Frank Bevacqua, two up.

Hole-in-One

Ed Tiernan scored a hole-in-one yesterday at Rock Creek public golf course on the 152 yard seventeenth hole. Tiernan used a six iron for his ace. He was playing with Ray Miers and Leo Covaleski.

PRINCE GEORGES: Bob Chandler won low gross with 37, 39—76 in the turkey tournament. H. J. Crager, 93, 24—69, and Buddy Smith, 81, 12—69, tied for first low net. Hal Hellikson too kthird with a net 72. All won turkeys.

CHEVY CHASE: Paul Marshall and Mrs. Cecil Burnside won the best-ball tournament with 72. Dr. and Mrs. C. D. Moffet were second with 74, and Mr. and Mrs. L. E. May were third with 79.

BELLE HAVEN: Bliss Sargeant, 79—14—65, won the sweepstakes tournament. Frank Mann was second with 79—8—71 and Frank Woolley took low gross with a 73.

Saturday's breakfast foursome ended in a tie between Frank Heyer, Frank Yourey, Ralph and Walt Densmore and Frank Mann, Neil Carothers, Bill Dickerson and R. Trier. Both had 62s.

ARMY-NAVY: Captain L. P. Davis, 88-11-77, and J. P. Wade, 87-10-77, won the blind bogey.

KENWOOD: Mr. and Mrs. Bill Foley won low gross in the mixed Scotch foursome turkey tournament with 81. Mr. and Mrs. Nick Hollander, 83-13-70, took low net. Mrs. E. R. Ferguson and Bob Cook, Mrs. J. P. Trouchaud and Jim Somes, Mrs. J. H. Bullock and Milo Christiansen and Mrs. Thelma Harvey and W. T. Allen tied for second with net 71s.

ROCK CREEK: Tom Emmons beat Denny Bolster, one up, in their second round match in the turkey tournament. In other matches, George Graham beat Jack Sinclair, 6 and 5; Eddie Frost won over Jim Duffy, 5 and 4, and Del Todd defeated Johnny Powers, 3 and 2.

WASHINGTON: Chick Featherstone, 79—10—69; D. R. Monsees, 80—11—69, and M. M. Stephens, 84—15—69, all won turkeys in the sweepstakes tournament, tying for first place.

E. C. Mason, G. W. McMahon and O. M. Hines tied for fourth with net 70s. They will either match for the fourth turkey or sit down to a turkey dinner together to divide their prize.

Army, Oklahoma, Ohio State Scramble for No. 1 Ranking

Bill Bennings

Dear Folks:

Joe Casquarella, former Washington pitcher, probably will be the general manager of the Laurel track. He is the son-in-law of Morris Shapiro, recent purchaser of controlling stock in the Baltimore blvd. oval. The other day, Bill (Baltimore Sun) Boniface called Willie Postal. The press box jack-of-all trades, handed him a bill and shouted, "run downstairs and get me No. 5 to win." Willie flew out of the door. The race was off. Willie, breathless, returned and handed the tickets to Boniface just as No. 5 quit and was beaten on the wire. The scribe turned and scowled at Willie who said, "What's the matter? I made it, didn't I? Boniface replied, "that the trouble. Why don't you get shutout once in a while?"—BILL.

SMU's Fall Leaves Only 8 Unbeaten

By Will Grimsley
Post Reporter

NEW YORK, Nov. 5 (AP).—This is election day again for the college football experts and they're having to stop and think awhile before naming their No. 1 team.

Mighty Southern Methodist has fallen. The team that led the parade for the past two weeks tumbled before Texas' crunching line yesterday, 23-20.

Army and Oklahoma, the other two members of the gridiron's "big three," added new stitches to their long unbeaten strings. But comparatively mild schedules detract from their records.

Ohio State is thundering back from a first-game loss to SMU and is shaping up as one of the most powerful machines in the country. The Buckeyes mauled Northwestern, 32-0, for their fifth straight.

Kentucky, Cal Still Rolling

Kentucky, down in Dixie, and California, on the Pacific Coast, seem to be growing in strength with each passing week-end.

Bear Bryant's Wildcats won their eighth game in a row by smothering a good Florida team, 40-6. California's Golden Bears subdued a favored Washington, 14-7, to keep their record clean.

Princeton's single-wing specialists established themselves as a threat to Army for Eastern honors by smashing Colgate, 45-7.

This was the picture of the wild scramble for national honors as the season moved into the final November lap. These were other significant developments:

1. With the fall of SMU, eight major teams were left unbeaten and untied. They are Army, Oklahoma, Kentucky, California, Miami (Fla.), Princeton, Wyoming and Loyola (Calif.).

2. Illinois and California assumed favorite roles for the Rose Bowl game in Pasadent, January 1.

3. Texas took the inside track for the host spot in the Cotton Bowl and Southwesterners began clamoring for a return go at Oklahoma. The Sooners squeaked out a 14-13 decision over Texas, October 14.

4. Kentucky, SMU, Miami (Fla.), Tennessee and Clemson became outstanding candidates for other major bowl assignments.

Of the top-ranking teams, California No. 5, appears in for the roughest time next Saturday, meeting Red Sanders' stout UCLA single wing team at Berkeley. The ington and Illinois, won their fifth Uclans, who have lost to Washgame by beating Oregon State, 20-13.

If the Golden Bears can overcome this hurdle, they should be a cinch to go into the Rose Bowl for the third straight time.

Illinois qualified as the best bet for the Big Ten representative by licking Michigan in an Ann Arbor snowstorm, 7-0. The tenth-ranked Illini play Wisconsin next.

Army will enjoy a breather against little New Mexico at West Point. Oklahoma will face one of the tougher tests on its remaining scheuule by meeting twice-beaten Kansas.

Sooners Set Record

The Sooners established a new modern winning record by repulsing Colorado, 27-18, f or their twenty-seventh victory in a row. Cornell racked up 26 in the early twenties.

Army defeated Pennsylvania, 28-13, at Philadelphia, for the Cadets' twenty-sixth game without a defeat.

DANNY VAUGHT
McKinley Tech

DANNY VAUGHT

IN FOUR MINUTES Friday, Guard Danny Vaught gave McKinley Tech a 25-0 triumph over Roosevelt, and earned for himself The Washington Post and Touchdown Club High School Player of the Week award.

Held scoreless in the first half by the underdog Rough Riders, Coach Ed Solomon's boys had an old-fashioned confab at intermission and, judging by what Vaught did early in the third quarter, Danny must have been appointed commander-in-chief of the outfit.

On the kickoff that opened the third period, Roosevelt's Bobby Smithers dropped the ball, and Vaught set up the Trainers first touchdown by recovering on the Riders' 30-yard line. Tech scored five players later, and when Tony Grimaldi muffed the ensuing kickoff, the 165-pound Vaught recovered on the Roosevelt 30.

Tech couldn't get started, and Roosevelt took over—for one play. Going through the middle of the line, Grimaldi again lost the ball, and Vaught, a senior playing this third year of ball, found it on the 31, giving him three recoveries in less than 4 minutes.

Two plays later, Tech had its second touchdown.

The 17-year-old Vaught is also a good man to have going for you on offense. He's a fine blocker, too.—BILL GILBERT.

GARY JAWISH
Devitt Prep

GARY JAWISH

BECAUSE HE "JUST ripped 'em apart" Friday, Fullback Gary Jawish of Devitt Prep is The Washington Post and Touchdown Club Prep School Player of the Week. The "just ripped 'em apart" phrase is the way Gary's coach, Bob Killen, summed up Jawish's work in leading Devitt to a 19-7 victory over St. Albans.

Jawish, a 230-pound senior playing his third year of varsity ball, sparked Devitt to its fifth consecutive victory by scoring one touchdown and passing to another. He ran 32 yards for a touchdown, scoring after every man on the St. Albans team had a chance to stop him, and passed 35 yards to George Renaird for another six points.

But that doesn't tell the whole story—not by a long shot. Gary completed 3 of 5 passes for 75 yards, and Killen estimates he rolled up at least 150 yards on the ground. That's at least 225 yards by one man, and that's a pretty fair average in any man's league.

Just to show he's versatile, Jawish also intercepted a pass, and threw the key block that set up Devitt's second touchdown. He uses his weight to good advantage on defense, too. Killen employs him as a guard when the opposition has the ball, and Jawish's unusual amount of speed often enables him to spill the ball carrier before he has a chance to get started.

Eastern High's Leaders Face Western in Saturday Twinbill

An interhigh double-header Saturday at Eastern High should clear up the tight race for the Group I Interhigh League championship. Western meets Eastern in the opening game at 12:30 p. m., and Anacostia plays Wilson in the nightcap.

The Group I winner will meet McKinley Tech, Group II champ, in the championship game, sponsored by The Washington Post and Touchdown Club in conjunction with the District Board of Education, November 24 at Griffith Stadium.

Eastern's Ramblers are in the lead with four victories and a tie, one half game ahead of Anacostia's Indians (3-0-1). Western's Red Raiders are in the running with two wins and a loss.

An Eastern victory Saturday, coupled with an Anacostia loss, would give the Ramblers the title, but the Indians will rule favorites in their game with Wilson. Wins by Anacostia and Eastern would knock Western out of contention.

The weekend schedule:

TUESDAY
Greenbelt vs. Hyattsville, College Park.
Phelps vs. Dunbar, Brooks Stadium.

FRIDAY
Bell at McKinley Tech.
Sherwood at Laurel.
Bates vs. Armstrong, Brooks Stadium.
Cardozo at Bordentown, N. J.
Baltimore Douglass at Phelps.
DeMatha at Chamberlain.
St. Albans at Landon.
Gaithersburg at Stuyvesant.
Gonzaga vs. Georgetown Prep, Georgetown University.
Sidwell Friends at Baltimore Friends.
Rockville at Bethesda.
Fairfax at Culpeper, night.
Mount Vernon at Washington-Lee, night.
Maryland Park at Frederick, night.
Armstrong at Parker-Gray, night.
Falls Church at Osbourne (Manassas), night.

SATURDAY
Randolph-Macon at Charlotte Hall.
Western at Eastern (12:30 p. m.).
Anacostia vs. Wilson (at Eastern, 2:30 p. m.).
Mount Vernon at Washington-Lee.
Coolidge at Montgomery Blair.
Fork Union at Bullis.
Occoquan at Herndon.
Virginia Episcopal at Episcopal of Alexandria.
Mount Rainier at Hyattsville, College Park, night.

SUNDAY
Devitt at St. John's.

Meeting Held
Bowie Purses Will Be Same As Last Year

PIMLICO, Nov. 5.—The management of the Bowie race-track, horsemen and the Maryland Racing Commission held a meeting in the old club house before the first race Saturday to iron out the purse distribution for the coming Bowie meeting, November 18 to December 2.

Bowie had wanted to reduce its purses to make up for a deficit which occurred during the first fall meeting this year.

Naturally the horsemen were against such a plan and the racing commission entered the controversy to act in the way of an arbitrator.

The commission did not favor lowering the purse and in the end all agreed that the track would start its meeting with a daily distribution of $17,800, independent of stakes, the same as last year.

The $17,800 daily distribution will be put on a trial basis for the first three days of the meeting. If there is a $725,000 daily average for the first three days the $17,800 daily distribution will stand. If the handle falls below that figure the horsemen and track management will get together again.

Irish, U. S. Win Horse Show Honors

NEW YORK, Nov. 5 (AP).—The Irish Army team won the third and final event of the three-day international low score competition today at the National Horse Show, but the United States took the trophy on best over-all performance.

The Irish three-man team, riding one after the other over 10 jumps, completed the course at Madison Square Garden without a knockdown.

The United States team, which entered the final day with only one fault scored against it, had four faults when Reno Kirk, ridden by Mrs. Carol Durand of Kansas City, knocked down the last fence.

W. H. White of the British equestrian team, which was second to the United States in faults with eight going into the final round, took the wrong course and his team was eliminated.

The three-day total showed the U. S. first with five faults, Ireland and Mexico tied for second with 17 faults, Canada and England tied for third with 43 faults, and Chile fourth, with 74 faults.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Haggin Perry of Cobham, Va. cleaned up in the Pony hunter championships, taking first and second. The champion is David, a 7-year-old chestnut gelding. Reserve Champion is Watch Me, winner of the title last year.

David had 10 points, and Watch Me, nine. Penny, owned by Margaret McGinn, Norristown, Pa., also had nine points total, but lost Watch Me in a further judging to break the tie.

Surprise, last year's reserve champion, owned by Martha Sterback of Fallston, Md., had seven points.

Touchdowners Honor Three Area Players of Week

The area players of the week selected by the Touchdown Club and The Washington Post will be feted at the club's weekly luncheon today.

They are Catholic University's Halfback Bucky Ennis, McKinley Tech's Guard Danny Vaught and Devitt Prep's Fullback Gary Jawish.

An interesting speaking program has been arranged for the affair starting at 12:30 p. m. Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan will deliver the main talk. Eddie LaFond, C. U. athletic director, will review the European tour he made for the Defense Department.

Harbert Jacobi, Vice National Commander of the American Legion, will discuss the Presidential Cup football game to be sponsored by the Legionnaires at Byrd Stadium, December 9.

Boxer Petro Is Accused Of Robbery And Assault

$210 Taken From Him After Beating On Street in SE, Clerk Tells Police

Danny Petro, 27, a professional boxer, of 210 6th st. se., was arrested yesterday on a charge of assaulting a hotel desk clerk.

The clerk, Hayden O. Evans, 32, of 915 Butternut st. nw., employed at the Chastleton Hotel, told police he was walking in the 600 block Pennsylvania ave. se. early yesterday when when Petro and a companion robbed him of $210 in cash after hitting him on the head with something Evans believed was an iron pipe.

Petro

Petro, who was arrested later on the street in the Southeast section, admitted giving Evans a "left and a right" during an argument over $2 Evans owed him, but denied taking any money, police said. He will be arraigned today in Municipal Court on a charge of robbery (force and violence).

Police still are looking for the second man, although Petro has denied anyone was with him when he saw Evans on Pennsylvania ave.

He insists, police said, that there was an argument over the $2 loan which Evans refused to repay, and that Evans fell down, striking his head on the pavement, after Petro hit him. Evans had six stitches taken in his scalp at Gallinger Hospital.

Petro, at one time one of the leading featherweight boxers in the District, told police yesterday: "The only fighting I do now is in the streets."

Last August, Petro and a companion were convicted of disorderly conduct following a fracas in the Chili Ranch, 729½ 11th st. se., with its policeman owner, John U. Carroll, who has since retired from the force for physical disability.

Hit-and-Run Auto Kills Sheriff Rd. Pedestrian

Victim Tentatively Identified as W. Va. Resident; Six Hurt As Trolleys Collide

DISTRICT TRAFFIC TOLL
1950 deaths to date.....56
1949 deaths same date.....61
Total 1949 death toll.....71

A pedestrian was killed instantly last night at Sheriff rd. and Division ave. ne. by a hit-and-run motorist.

He was tentatively identified from papers in his pocket as James R. Barksdale, about 25, of Welch, W. Va. Police said he was apparently walking across the road when he was struck by an auto and knocked into the middle of the intersection. The driver did not stop.

Police broadcast a lookout for a late model Oldsmobile or Buick with a side view mirror missing. The mirror was found at the scene.

Six persons were injured in the collision of two streetcars at Massachusetts ave. and G st. nw. at 2 p. m. yesterday.

One of the streetcars, operated by Claude McGlarnery, 23, of 1317 Kenyon st. nw., going west on Massachusetts ave. struck an open switch and hit the second streetcar, going east on Massachusetts ave. and operated by Henry G. Austin, 49, of 9509 Biltmore st., Silver Spring, Md., police said.

Two passengers in McGlarnery's streetcar were injured. Charles F. Kelly, 45, of 807 58th ave. ne., was admitted to Gallinger Hospital with a possible fractured left leg. His condition is not serious. Gertrude Kelly, 45, of the same address, was treated for an injury to her right leg and released.

Girl, 7, on Injured List

The following passengers in Austin's streetcar were injured: Hattie Vaughn, 38, of 1222 Sumner rd. se., treated at Gallinger for injury to right shoulder and released; Mary Lou Campbell, 45, of 1511 E st. se., treated for injury to right shoulder at Gallinger and released; Barbara Wellington, 7, of 320 B st. ne., treated at scene for bruises, and Dennis Colman, 38, of 514 E st. se., treated at scene for bruises.

Four persons were injured in a three-car collision at Riggs rd. and Eastern ave., just over the District line in Maryland, yesterday.

The driver of one of the cars, James W. McAllister, 46, of 5006 37th pl., Hyattsville, Md., was admitted to Casualty Hospital in undetermined condition with rib injuries.

Husband, Son Also Hurt

Mrs. Elizabeth Morders, 34, of 6908 23d pl., Hyattsville, a passenger in the second car, was admitted to Casualty Hospital in undetermined condition, with leg and face injuries.

Her husband, Carl J. Morders, 38, driver of the car, was treated at Leland Memorial Hospital for cuts and released. Their 3-year-old son, Michael, was admitted there in undetermined condition with a fractured nose and face lacerations.

Police said McAllister's car was headed north on Riggs rd. when it swerved into the south lane, sideswiped a car driven by Capt. Herschel C. Frost, 43, of 1901 Amherst rd., Hyattsville, and struck Morders' car, directly behind Frost's car. Frost was not injured.

Six Rescued As 3 Boats Overturn

A brisk wind, which could not deter sailboat enthusiasts, kept two Harbor policemen busy for half an hour yesterday afternoon.

When they had finished, six persons had been pulled, cold and wet, from the Potomac and Anacostia Rivers, three sailboats had been righted and towed to shore.

The first sailboat went over at 1:45 p. m. in the Georgetown Channel of the Potomac just off Hains Point. Pvts. John L. Sanford and Minor W. Hanger, standing by in a Harbor Police boat, were on the scene in a matter of seconds, and rescued the boat's owner, Agnes Stradley, 22, of 921 19th st. nw., and her companion, Alex Sahadi, 24, of 1900 R st. nw.

They had just righted the boat when a second sailboat tipped over several hundred feet away at the mouth of the Anacostia off Hains Point.

Towing boat one behind them, they hurried to the second boat and rescued its owner, Raymond A. Fowler, 28, of 1539 Roosevelt ave., Falls Church, Va., his neighbor, Robert H. Cordani, 27, of 1541 Roosevelt ave., and a third man, John Reiley, 24, of the Anacostia Naval Air Station.

The two policemen delivered the first boat and its occupants to the Columbia Yacht Club and the second one to the Naval Air Station dock. They were returning to the waters off Hains Point, when at 2:15 p. m., a third sailboat went over just off Buzzard's Point. The occupant, Robert Mitchell, 35, of 3800 New Hampshire ave. nw., was hauled on deck and delivered with the sailboat to the Buzzard's Point Boat Club.

Police said about 50 sailboats were on the river participating in races sponsored by several boat clubs.

Anniversary At Georgetown Church Starts

Presbyterians Hear Sermon as Observance Of 170th Year Begins

Established in 1780, the church received its charter from Congress in 1806, signed by Thomas Jefferson.

Yesterday the Rev. Russell C. Stroup, recently installed as pastor, told his congregation about the church, "older than our own Republic," which had outlived the Empire of Catherine of Russia, the power of Prussia, the reign of the House of Bourbon and even the Empire of Britain."

Dr. Stroup said "it has stood the tempering test of time and today stands stronger than ever before."

The present church building at 3115 P st. nw. is the church's fourth, Dr. Stroup said. "It was constructed in 1873 mainly from material taken from the much older building on Bridge st."

Greek Ambassador At Special High Mass

Greek Ambassador Athanase Politis was among those attending a special high mass and prayers yesterday celebrating President Truman's escape from assassins' bullets Wednesday.

Services were at Saints Constantine and Helen Greek Orthodox Church, 6th and Csts. sw.

New Minister Welcomed At Mount Vernon Place

The new minister of Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church, the Rev. Albert P. Shirkey, was officially welcomed by more than 1000 members of his congregation in the church's social hall last night.

The reception was sponsored by the church family, and featured refreshments and the music of the seven-piece church orchestra.

Burmese Bishops Assist At St. John's Service

Bishop John Onug Hla of Mandalay celebrated communion.

Action Is Fast and Furious At Model Railroad Exhibit

Only the nimble-fingered action of six men at control panels in a fourth-floor office at Union Station averted disaster.

The threat was to Crown City, Millville and environs—the miniature community through which the trains of the Metropolitan Society of Model Engineers, Inc., guide their model electric trains.

Happily, the six model railroaders at the control panels managed to confine the rampaging waters of their miniature river before any damage was done to the intricately detailed set-up which includes:

Seventy-five cars and engines operating on a 22-foot-long platform and a 12-foot-long marshalling yard, over 685 feet of track laid out through intricately detailed rural and urban areas. There are 7 miles of wire in the control board panels and intercom system.

It's taken three years to rig up this layout which is complete to replicas of the panorama you'd see from a train window—city factories and hobo shacks, mountain and farm land vistas, bridges, tunnels—and a river, which sometimes overflows.

The men who have fashioned this model railroader's dream world are doctors, lawyers, engineers, grocery store operators, clerks, who have found one common denominator:

"The tensions that well up in you on your regular job flow out through your fingers as you work on these model railroads."

Boy Charged In Stepfather's Knife Death

Slaying Followed Quarrel Between Parents, Police Told

A 15-year-old youth yesterday was charged with murder in the fatal stabbing of his stepfather in Arlington Saturday night.

Stabbed six times in the left side with two butcher knives during a family quarrel, the stepfather, John I. Logue, 51, was pronounced dead on the scene. One of the knives had pierced his heart.

The quarrel took place about 10:30 p. m. in the second-floor apartment of Logue and his wife, Josephine, above a loan shop at 2024 N. Moore st., police said.

The boy, a son of Mrs. Logue by a former marriage, was visiting there and had arrived in Arlington several days ago from Massachusetts, according to police.

Police said Logue had been drinking and was beating Mrs. Logue when the youth came to her defense. One of the knives had a 6-inch blade.

The boy was held without bond for his appearance today in Juvenile Court. Mrs. Logue was charged with being a material witness and released under $1000 bond.

No Kid-ding

Old Goat Leads Police Merry Chase

Apparently Sam Chin, honorable restaurateur and grocer proprietor of 608 H st. nw., had never heard of that ancient proverb:

"If you have no trouble, buy a goat."

Sam Chin bought three. He tied them in his back yard until he could take them to his Virginia farm.

Neighborhood youngsters untied all three. One took his full measure of freedom, prancing off at a frolicsome gait. Sam Chin and his faithful assistant, Richard Chan, plodded in pursuit, and finally in despair.

A few minutes later and a few blocks away, Police Pvts. Joseph E. Donahue and John C. Wigington spotted the errant goat stepping lively down Indiana ave. near 3d st. nw.

They pursued it in a patrol wagon. In the 100 block of D st. nw. they cornered their quarry and escorted him into the Black Maria, and thence to a cell at police headquarters. At last report police were not quite certain as to what an old goat on the town could be booked for.

Bodies of Man And Infant Found in River

The bodies of a middle-aged man and a new-born baby boy were recovered within a few hundred yards of each other in the Anacostia River yesterday.

The man was tentatively identified from papers in a pocket as Adus G. Boyd, 51, of 2201 16th st. se.

His body was noticed floating along the seawall of Fairlawn Park just north of the 11th street bridge about 8:30 a. m. by Frank Weeda, of 1416 Young st. se. Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald said it had been in the water "for some time."

The baby's body was found floating just south of the John Philip Sousa Bridge along the east seawall about three hours later. It had been wrapped in a petticoat.

Dr. MacDonald said there were no noticeable marks of violence on either of the bodies. He said he would withhold certificates of death, however, pending further investigation by police.

4th Victim Of Air Crash Is Identified

They said he was Sergt. Joseph Klusek, 23, of Hartford, Conn. Three other men killed when the plane crashed and burned were Corpl. Richard D. Gieras, 23, and Pfc. Thomas Pantaleo, 17, both of Hartford, and a civilian, Russell C. Williams, 31, of Sandston, Va.

Klusek was identified by Camp Pickett medical officers who traced a laundry mark on the remnants of his charred shirt and checked his medical record.

Williams, an employe of a Richmond, Va., plane charter service, probably was pilot of the craft, which took off from Richmond's Byrd Field Saturday evening, Army authorities said.

They said the three soldiers, all stationed at Camp Pickett, probable rented the craft to take them part of the way to their Hartford homes on their first weekend liberty since their Forty-third National Guard Division Unit was activated in September.

The plane was completely destroyed when it exploded and burst into flames near U. S. 1, 3 miles south of Alexandria, about 8 p. m. Cause of the crash was undetermined.

Three of the men died before they could be taken to Alexandria Hospital and Klusek was burned to death as he sat in the front seat of the light plane. The soldiers' bodies will be sent to Hartford from Fort Belvoir today.

Gruenther to Talk

Lieut. Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, Army deputy chief of staff for plans, will talk on "Some Aspects of Our Security Problems" at a meeting of the English Speaking Union, at 5:30 p. m. Thursday at the Sulgrave Club.

26 4-H Clubbers To Attend Parley From Maryland

Twenty-six young people from 15 Maryland counties will represent the State at the National 4-H Congress in Chicago November 26-December 1.

Allegany County, James C. Smith and Ruth C. Smith of Little Orleans; Baltimore County, David T. Buchman of Cowings Mills; Carroll County, Gary R. Brauning of Finksburg, John H. Arbaugh of New Windsor and Judas L. Messinger of Millers; Cecil County, Maurice O. Brown of North East and Robert Mason of Elkton; Charles County, Mary E. Blackhall of Faulkner; Dorchester County, Charlotte Handley of Cambridge.

Frederick County, Frances Montgomery of Ijamsville and Betty Remsberg of Middletown; Howard County, James Welling of Sykesville, Mary Mullinix of Dayton and Louis Sauter of Ellicott City; Kent County, Billy Sutton of Chestertown; Montgomery County, Douglas Carling of Boyd, James Lauthan of Rockville and Harold Mullinix of Mount Airy; Prince Georges County, Judas Tompkins of Waldorf; Queen Annes County, James Barton of Queen Anne; St. Mary's County, Marianne Candela of Compton; Washington County, Beth Norris of St. James and Nancy McCauley of Hagerstown; Wicomico County, Calvin Humphreys and Carroll Huston of Salisbury.

Arrest Halts Refund Trick; Woman Held

Police this weekend liquidated an enterprise in which, they said, Garfinckel's Department Store was refunding money for jackets stolen from its racks.

The enterpreneur, police said, is Miss Arena Rice, 24, who gave her address as 111 15th st. se. She was a prisoner in the Women's Bureau yesterday, charged with four counts of petty larceny and two of false pretenses.

According to the police version, Miss Rice received refunds for two sports jackets she never bought, asked to have a check sent to her for the third, and went out of business when a store detective met her at the refund window on the fourth try Saturday.

In the two successful transactions, police said, Miss Rice removed the jackets from fourth-floor racks, stuffed them into a shopping bag, brought them downstairs to the refund window, and received a total of $70 in cash.

When the clerk asked for the sales slip each time, the woman said they were gifts and that she never received any sales slip.

Garfinckel's inventory, sales and refund records were failing to jibe. After the second time, the clerk checked the names and addresses given by Miss Rice, police said, and found them fictitious.

Lack of a sales slip proved to be a greater obstacle to the third transaction than the previous ones, and Miss Rice, police said, left a name and address where a check could be sent after the red tape was cut.

By the fourth try Saturday, the clerks had been briefed, and police arrived soon after Miss Rice appeared.

Deferments Requested for 46 Doctors

Deferment of 46 young Washington physicians has been recommended by the District's medical draft advisory committee.

The committee's report, made public Saturday night, also listed 43 others as "available" for military service.

At the same time, the dental subcommittee requested deferment for 25 men whose cases were reviewed.

Frank D. Norton, District deputy chief of the draft, said the committees' recommendations for deferment were overruled in "only three or four cases."

For specialists in private practice, the committee requested deferment for only one and marked 14 available. For doctors in general practice, the committee asked deferment for 3 and made 10 available. And for two men in X-ray training, the committee requested deferment.

Of those serving at Howard University and Freedmen's Hospital, the committee recommended that 23 be deferred, seven made available; Georgetown—two deferment requests, one made available; Mt. Alto Veterans — two deferment, four available; George Washington—one deferment ,three available; Gallinger—five deferment, four available; Providence—three deferment; St. Elizabeths—two deferment, and Garfield and Emergency—one deferment each.

Though classified 1-A, the men have a right to appeal to their local draft boards. The appeal should be in writing and submitted within 10 days after receipt of the classification card. Moreover, some may be reclassified after physical examination.

30 Additional Air Defense Aides Sought

The District Civil Defense program needs about 30 men or women, hale and hearty, who like the open air, have good eyesight and are not afraid of moderate heights.

That's the number Supervisor Harry L. Burbridge, of the aircraft spotter program, decided he still wanted yesterday after a second nine-hour test on the roof of Nalle School, 50th and Bass sts. se.

Approximately 27 volunteer observers spotted almost 400 planes yesterday, Burbridge said.

On Saturday, the first day of the test as set up by the Eastern Air Defense Force, the District's single observation post atop the two-story school tallied 200 planes which they reported to the area filter center at Baltimore.

Burbridge, who was named to set up the post a week ago, reported yesterday that there were still bottlenecks to overcome, chief among them the delay in reporting sighted planes over the unit's single phone.

His spotters, he said, are making progress.

"We saw a lot of strange, new planes," he said, "but managed to identify about 50 percent correctly." Among them, were Air Force craft, sent to test the effectiveness of the program at 6000 volunteer posts set up on the east coast and northern States east of the Rockies.

Two Teen-Agers Charged After Fight With Men

Two teen-age youths were charged with assault with a dangerous weapon after a fight with three older men in the 700 block of 6th st. nw. early yesterday.

The men told police they were insulted by about a dozen boys, and when they answered the challenge were slugged with a belt buckle and a bottle.

The men were identified as Kenneth Hamlet, 28, Greenbelt, Md.; Lonnie Armstrong, 30, 4709 Baltimore blvd., Hyattsville, and Charles B. Ford, 25, 5509 Taylor rd., Riverdale. Hamlet was admitted to Casualty Hospital with a possible skull fracture and internal injuries.

Police Pvt. Paul W. Knight of the First Precinct Station, who arrived near the end of the fight, said he saw one of the youths strike Hamlet in the head with a bottle.

District Bill For Cleaning Runs High

In his annual report released Saturday, Superintendent William Xanten of the District Division of Sanitation listed figures showing how big:

His crews collected, burned or sold more than 3,000,000 cubic yards of trash during the year ended last June 30. If there had been any need for it, this would have been enough to lay a trail a yard wide and high from Maine to Florida. This didn't include 52,000 tons of garbage and more than 40,000 dead animals collected.

Xanten's street cleaners swept up from the gutters 264,975 cubic yards of dirt and trash—enough to fill up the Washington Monument seven times. He commented that efforts to keep the District clean were "seriously hampered by the thoughtless disregard of anti-litter ordinances by the average citizens."

Other sections of the Department of Sanitary Engineering's report, of which Xanten's was one part, showed that:

Washington residents consumed 58 billion gallons of water last year — an average of 161 gallons per person a day—and made 5003 complaints to the Water Department while doing so.

The District's sewer system pumped 63 billion gallons of storm and sanitary sewage—down 7 billions from the previous year presumably because of less rain.

Paintings Show Oldtime Political Life in America

To give voteless District residents an idea of what political campaigning is like, six paintings of American political life will be exhibited at the Corcoran Gallery of Art, starting Tuesday.

The exhibition, continuing until December 17, and sponsored by the Sesquicentennial Commission and the gallery, will include George Caleb Bingham's "Stump Speaking" dated 1854.

A vigorous election-day scene of the first State election in Michigan, captured on canvas by T. O. H. P. Burnham, and an election bribe-passing scene, "American Citizens" by T. W. Wood, will be included in the display.

Park Group Plans Talk on Improving Georgetown Entry

Plans for improving the entrance to Georgetown at 28th and M sts. nw., will be discussed at the regular monthly meeting today of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission.

John Nolen, jr., director of planning, will also discuss the status of an application for funds for redevelopment project planning, Washington Regional Council proposals, and plans for raising the attendance at the Commission's exhibit in the Corcoran Gallery of Art.

'Daybreak', or The Hangman's Revenge

By Richard L. Coe

BEING A MODEL HUSBAND, or so I content myself with imagining, I couldn't quite identify myself, as the movie term has it, with Eric Portman in "Daybreak," the new arrival at the Trans-Lux.

Portman is playing a fellow with a double life. He seems to have been a barber and sets himself up cheerfully on a barge with a wife he met in a bar (this being an English picture, I should have said "pub"). On the side, he's also the public hangman, which means he has to trot about the United Kingdom away from his wife. He never tells her about his tidying-up job, just drifts away on that hazy thing drifting husbands call "business."

Never having been in that business myself, I suppose I've no right to say he should have told his wife about it, but I like to think I would have. This put me in the position of having little patience with the man who insisted on leaving his younger wife open to the prey of whatever marauder decided to make a little time. Since his chief helper in the barge deal is a handsome young Scandinavian, you can easily add up what happens.

How the barber-bargeman-hangman discovers what's been cooking, how it almost looks as though he's been murdered and how he gets his chance at revenging his sullied honor forms the basis of a story by Monckton Hoffe, which Muriel and Sydney Box have written for the screen.

"DAYBREAK," a Pentagon Pictures release, produced by Sidney Box, directed by Compton Bennett; screenplay by Muriel and Sidney Box from a story by Monckton Hoffe. At the Trans-Lux.

THE CAST

Eddie	Eric Portman
Frankie	Ann Todd
Olaf	Maxwell Reed
Bill Shackle	Edward Rigby
Ron	Bill Owen
Doris	Jane Hylton
Mr. Bigley	Eliot Makeham
Mrs. Bigley	Margaret Withers
Superintendent	John Turnbull
Inspector	Maurice Denham
Governor	Milton Rosmer
Waterman	Lyn Evans

There's a good deal of restraint in this study of repressions, but all along I kept thinking that perhaps the French (of whose tongue I catch every tenth word) might have pulled it off in murkey, Jean Gabin style. Not that Portman's performance is weak; it's very intelligently measured. But there is a lack of passion in the sorry tale, the blame for which, by the way, should not be traced to Maxwell Reed, who plays the amorous Northerner.

Ann Todd is the lady in question and she's had far better roles in the past. The subordinate figures are neatly handled, but all told, I'm afraid it's a cloudy "Daybreak."

"TRIO," another English import, but it sounds like a good one, is getting up steam for a benefit opening at the Playhouse on the 14th . . . This will aid the Washington Hospital Committee of the American Theater Wing, now driving for funds to provide entertainment in the veterans hospitals . . . Both the theater and the Somerset Maugham film are being donated for the cause and a distinguished first night audience already is assured; details later on how to get tickets if they're not already fully subscribed.

ONE WAY entertainment in veterans' hospitals, it occured to this reporter while talking of the matter to Gertrude Lawrence and New York's Sam Shaw, might be for bands appearing in local theaters and clubs to devote their normal rehearsal time to the hospitalized vets. . . . This would be entertaining to the men and would cause the bandsmen comparatively little trouble since they have to rehearse their newer arrangements anyway . . . Bcause bands visiting the city are normally well booked before they get here, it's usually been impossible to get the bands out to the hospitals . . . I hope Mr. Shaw will do what he can to promote such a notion at the New York booking end . . . Any ideas, you guys in the hospitals?

AN EXCEPTIONALLY interesting program of British short subjects was shown the other night at the Interior Auditorium, of which two would surely make supporting matter in the small "sure-seaters." . . . One was a documentary angle on the same theme of "The Men," in which a limbless RAF veteran shows how he learned to walk on artificial legs; this is "The Undefeated," with Pilot Armstrong as himself and Leo Genn's voice as narrator. . . . The other was a stirring Technicolored "Trooping the Color" on the King's 1949 official June birthday; the marching and band music would make a fine contrast for "Trio."

CBS reports great tizzy in its Hollywood office for tonight's Lux Radio Theater broadcast by Laurence Olivier and Vivien Leigh in "Rebecca." . . . Seems that all the bigwigs want to watch the broadcast, but there's room for "only" 1054 in the Hollywood studio. . . Hereabouts you could have a full "Rebecca" evening, catching Olivier and Joan Fontaine (a brief visitor the other day, by the way) at the Little, and then scurrying home for WTOP at 9. . . I'll do neither, thank you, Mr. Pfanstiehl, because —

"LEND AN EAR" opens tonight at the Gayety, containing one of my favorite sketches of all time, "The Missing Road Company," wherein we find the dogged "Gladiola Girl" in Paterson, N. J.

TOMORROW'S VISITOR: Suzanne Dalbert, born in France, a Voice of America broadcaster and now a Hollywood screen player, will be paying a visit to town tomorrow, with an appearance on the Warner stage at 9 o'clock. Miss Dalbert has her biggest role to date in "Breakthrough," which will have a gala opening Thursday night at the Warner

Michael Strange, 60, Author And Stage Actress, Dies

BOSTON, Nov. 5 (U.P.).—Author Michael Strange, former wife of the late John Barrymore and mother of Actress Diana Barrymore, died in a Boston hospital today after suffering from leukemia for nearly two years.

The 60-year-old actress, one-time suffragette, prewar isolationist and steadfast Socialist, had been undergoing treatment for the blood disease in Massachusetts General Hospital since October 8.

Leonard Thomas, Miss Strange's son by the first of her three husbands, said funeral services would be held Wednesday at her home in Easton, Conn. Burial will be in Woodlawn Cemetery in New York.

Thomas said Miss Barrymore was flying to Boston from Miami for the funeral. Another son, Robin Thomas, died six years ago.

Born a socialite and reared in New York, fashionable Newport, R. I., and France, Miss Strange had a tempestuous childhood, during which she was expelled from three expensive private schools. After that her parents permitted her to have an informal education in architecture, painting and literature.

Her real name was Blanche Oelrichs, but she later changed it to Michael Strange, to avoid the possibility of embarrassing her family by anything she wrote.

As Blanche Oelrichs, she marched t the head of parades during the campaign for women's suffrage, to the consternation of her parents. As Michael Strange, she wrote poetry and plays, acted on the Broadway stage, campaigned for Socialism and spoke on "America First" programs just before the United States entered World War II.

Movie Canceled As Welles' Blast Stirs German Ire

FRANKFURT, Germany, Nov. 5 (U.P.).—Orson Welles' recent criticism of postwar Germany has made him so unpopular here that 20th Century Fox has canceled the scheduled release of his movie "The Black Rose," company officials said today.

The company became alarmed when Germans stayed away in droves from the recently released film "Prince of Foxes," in which Welles starred, after his statement in a French newspaper interview that real anti-Nazis were as scarce as hens' teeth in Germany.

The Welles interview, published by the French weekly, France Dimanche, was liberally reprinted in the German press.

Welles recounted an alleged nightclub incident in which he claimed he knocked out a tooth of a postwar Nazi who slapped a woman because she objected to his "Hitler salute" and his rendition of the Nazi "Horst Wessel" song.

"They're still the same old Germans," Welles said.

'Twas Old Home Week Abroad

By Marie McNair

IF YOU'RE MISSING any of your Washington friends, chances are you'll find them in Germany.

Mrs. Constantine de Stackelberg, just back from five weeks in Europe, had never a lonely moment. In Weisbaden she stayed with Col. and Mrs. Walter Bryte; lunched in Frankfurt with Mrs. Harold Mosely, whose husband was at the State Department until he was sent to head the Foreign Affairs Division of the department in Frankfurt.

The Milton Turners are there, too—he was formerly on duty at the State Department—and also living in Frankfurt are Gen. and Mrs. Edward H. Alexander—she's the former Gloria Baker—who leased Mrs. Timothy T. Ansberry's house on Wyoming ave., when they were on duty in Washington.

At a dinner party given by Gen. and Mrs. Millard Lewis—he is Fulton Lewis' brother—Garnett Stackelberg met Gen. John Ackerman who was visiting from London, and is returning to the United States for duty at the Pentagon the middle of the month. Mrs. Ackerman and their three children are already here, with a house on the Potomac waiting the general's arrival.

GEN. BURDETTE FITCH, who is in Hiedelberg with the Adjutant General's Office, entertained at dinner for Mrs. Bryte and Mrs. de Stackelberg at the Schloss Hotel, which sits high on a hill looking down on the city lights. Among former Washington residents in the group were Admiral and Mrs. John Wilkes, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Guy B. Denit and Gen. and Mrs. Aaron Bradshaw, who had arrived only that week from the Capital.

One of the most beautiful places in all Germany is American Consul General and Mrs. Samuel Woods'. Munich estate on the Starnburg Lake. Built in 1110, it covers 2000 acres and cost an estimated 15 million dollars to build. The Woods entertain for visiting Americans constantly and at a luncheon there Garnett met Maj. Gen. and Mrs. John E. Dalquist and Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Noland of Washington, who have been traveling in Europe for several months.

Col. Albert L. Cox, jr. and Mrs. de Stackelberg met by chance at the Dorchester in London and Mrs. Cox was expected to arrive from Washington the next day. Cocktails in Paris with the Howard Raileys brought forth the news that the Raileys—she was Sue Rosenberg until her recent marriage—will be in the United States for Christmas and will stop in Washington before going on to Palm Beach.

IN PAULETTE'S PARIS shop, Garnett ran into Senator and Mrs. Owen Brewster, and missed by a few minutes Mrs. Perle Mesta, United States Minister to Luxembourg, and her sister, Mrs. George Tyson, who had just walked out with more than two dozen of Paulette's chic chapeaux.

Garnett learned that the George Abells, now in Paris, were expecting Mrs. Arthur Middleton Hill to arrive to be their guest

Arriving in Washington Wednesday after five weeks away, Garnett found her young son, Sandy, a year older, helped him celebrate his birthday on Thursday with a party for his young friends.

ALUMNAE OF MOUNT VERNON SEMINARY, here from the 48 States for the seventy-fifth anniversary of the founding of the school, wound up a weekend of festivities at a tea yesterday at former Ambassador and Mrs. Joseph Davies estate, Tregaron, on Klingle rd.

Mrs. Davies is a graduate of Miss Somers' school, as it was known then, and is now a trustee of Mount Vernon. Furthermore, her daughters and granddaughters are graduates of the school.

The Toybox

Quite a Hint Of Santa Seen In the Stores

By Alleis C. Wilson

WASHINGTON'S TOY stores and children's departments are undergoing a subtle change these days. There is a hint—quite a hint—that Santa time is coming soon. It will be less than a month before the gentleman from the North Pole arrives to greet young toy department customers and the advance preparations are being made. For early shoppers, this means that toy selections can be made carefully now before the crush of Christmas shopping begins.

The added time and thought you give to your shopping now will be more than repaid by the knowledge that you have found just the right toys for the youngsters on your list.

The struggle to learn to tell time can be quite an ordeal both for impatient children and their parents. To make the task easier, an educational puzzle has been devised. It is shaped like the face of a clock and made up of 12 jigsaw pieces numbered as the hours. They will fit only in their proper places around the dial. The clock has movable hands to delight the child who discovers he can make the clock point to any time at all. (Play Center, Inc.—$12).

PUZZLES FOR OLDER children have been hard to find. Those on the market in previous years usually were either very simple ones for pre-school children or complicated jigsaw puzzles for adults. But now a wide variety of beautifully-colored bird and animal jigsaws are available. They have from 50 to 75 pieces and provide a reasonable challenge to a school-age child. (Play Center, Inc.—$1.75).

Among the educational toys for small children is a three-dimension fruit puzzle. A heavy wooden base holds a pear, an apple, and an orange. The wooden fruits are cut into several sections. Taking them apart and putting them back together will keep a child busy while learning to fit the pieces into the proper shape. (F. A. O. Schwarz—$2.)

Two new additions to the large family of stuffed animals are Jaq and Gus, the engaging mice from Walt Disney's "Cinderella." They stand about 10 inches high and are well-rounded characters in grey plush with cunning felt jackets and caps. (F. A. O. Schwarz—$4.50 and $4.95). A matching Cinderella doll costs $6.95.

STILL IN THE ANIMAL kingdom, a box of miniature farm animals would please most city children. These boxes come in various sizes and prices, depending on how large a farm you wish to stock. The farmer and his wife are about 3 inches tall and the animals are scaled down accordingly. (Madison Gift Box—$1.98).

The young Hopalong Cassidy or Gene Autry in your family will be interested in a cowboy sidewalk bicycle. The bike looks about a much like a cowboy's steed as a wheel toy can look. It comes complete with saddle bags, a pouch, leather thongs and a leather case with a toy rifle. The bike has a 14-inch wheel and two side wheels on the rear to help the young cowboy from being thrown by his "horse." As the child masters the two-wheeler balance problem, the extra wheels can be removed. (Woodward & Lothrop—$29.95.)

MRS. LEWIS R. JUSTICE is the former Miss Eunice Edmondson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas G. Edmondson of Arlington, Va. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Justice of Childersburg, Ala. The wedding took place October 28 in the Central Methodist Church, in Arlington, the Rev. J. L. Kibler, sr., officiating. After a wedding trip to Niagara Falls, the newlyweds will make their home in Sylacauga, Ala.

Harris & Ewing

MRS. THOMAS DALE FLETCHER was Miss Nancy Carol Kirby before her marriage October 29 at the Middleburg (Va.) Baptist Church. They is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Welthie Kirby of Upperville, Va., and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Walter Fletcher of Middleburg. The newlyweds will reside in Washington on return from their honeymoon in New York City

Harris & Ewing

MRS. JOSEPH ORME EVANS, the former Miss Barbara Jean Magathan, was married at 12 noon, October 28, in the Chevy Chase Presbyterian Church. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Clifton Magathan of Washington, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. E. M. Evans of Normal, Ill. The newlyweds will make their home in Los Angeles, Calif. The bride attended Northwestern University and the University of Southern California. Mr. Evans attended the University of Chicago, the University of Illinois and Harvard University

Tobé Says...

Tunic Silhouette Gets Paris, New York Praise

The tunic silhouette gets a big hand from Paris and New York too. That includes the tunic coat (a new in new short coats)—the tunic suit—the tunic dress from daytime to evening. Most tunics are quite full and about finger-tip length but many are slim and asymmetric—some are shorter too. I believe the tunic dress will become very popular this fall and winter.

It's logical fashion-wise too. Tunics are always in fashion when a change in silhouette occurs—a bridge from the full to slim as now, or vice versa.

Nice Thing About Venetian Blinds Is Absence of Rules On How to Close 'Em Up

DEAR ANNE:

Would you tell me, please, if there is a right and wrong way to close Venetian blinds? Sounds silly, but this has been quite a discussion in our house. What's your opinion?

J. H., Arlington, Va.

One of the nice things about Venetian blinds is that you can close them any way you please! However, it's possibly more common to have the top edge of the slat turned upward on the inside. The sun is less likely to beam in and people are less likely to see in when blinds are half closed (unless you live on top of the hill!)

DEAR ANNE:

I have a walnut side board (or buffet) and would like to refinish it to go with my chrome and black dinette set. Will you please tell me just how this can be done?

Beryle Ferguson, Goldsboro, N. C.

If the walnut surface is in fairly good condition, it won't be necessary to take off the old finish before applying a new black one. Just sand it lightly, then wipe off the dust resulting with a cloth moistened with turpentine.

Next, apply a coat of black enamel paint. Let dry 48 hours, then apply another coat. Use either high gloss or semi-gloss, depending on whether you want a very shiny surface or not. You could paint some motifs on the black buffet with aluminum paint but, personally, I believe it would be more attractive just all black. You can't duplicate the shine of the chromium with paint anyway. Of course you could attach some motifs or decorative strips cut from thin metal but this would be rather complicated.

DEAR ANNE:

I have an elderly friend in a small town who would like to earn money at home. I thought of the possibility of repairing women's hosiery. But on inquiring at the department stores, find they no longer carry needles for this work. Do you have in your files the name of a store which might handle the necessary materials?

MRS. M. L. Payne, Arlington, Va.

A big 5 and 10c store between 12th and 13th sts. nw., in downtown Washington, sells these needles for 25 cents apiece. Inquire at counter 10 on the F street side of the store.

DEAR ANNE:

We bought a bed about a year and a half ago, with springs that squeak terrifically. We went back to the store and they gave us braces to insert on the four sides, but they did not help. Could you advise us what to do?

Mrs. T. J. R., Washington.

This new bed's noisy ways are probably due to the construction, so they will be difficult to silence. You might try slipping a bit of cotton beneath the spring at the points where it attaches to the frame. These buffers may have a somewhat quieting effect.

DEAR ANNE:

In our new house, the upper half of the front door consists of nine glass squares. We need the light it will afford because the windows of the room are on the north. However, we would like to be able to cover the glass at night for privacy. Our furnishings are rather formal and I plan to use swag-type draperies at the windows. Can you suggest a door treatment that will not be too casual and will also fulfill the above purposes?

J. H., Washington.

White glass curtains, shirred over the windows on rods at top and bottom, would be appropriate and give a certain amount of privacy. Another idea would be a Venetian blind. These can be installed with hooks to hold them firm at the bottom when rolled down. A bamboo blind, painted to match the wall, would be a possibility if it doesn't look too informal for the rest of the furnishings.

DEAR ANNE:

We bought our young boys bunk beds and would like to use net, such as is used in Pullman cars, instead of the sideboards. Can you tell me where these can be purchased?

Mrs. F. W. Gravitt, Falls Church, Va.

Experiment Betty

You'll Grow Into Them, Never Fear!

BETTY FINDS FULLNESS NECESSARY

By Ann Lawrence

WHEN BETTY FIRST LOOKED at maternity clothes, they seemed much too large. She wanted to take them in around the waist. The extra skirt material annoyed her, made her seem larger than she really was.

But this extra fullness is necessary, as she found out.

Because the waists seemed too long in front, she had a hand tuck taken. Within one month, she had pulled it out.

The dividing line between plumpness and pregnancy is a sharp one. It comes at a different stage with each woman, but the last three months are no time for makeshifts—for the larger-size dress you bought just because you could get into it. During the last stages of pregnancy, you are grateful for the fullness you scorned earlier.

REMEMBER TOO, THAT EACH woman assumes a different shape and has a different problem. What looks well on Betty may not look well on you. It's a matter of line and balance, of the individual figure.

Color, however, is an important item to all women, perhaps psychologically more so than in any other way. Wear only the colors that raise your spirits and are most becoming to you. Beware the black with the neat, trim print, the plain dark dresses and dull prints that will only depress you. On the other hand, you might adore bright red, but find that it now makes you look like a mountain. Choose it for a color accent—a handbag, a hat. Or choose a small print in which red is a dominant color.

Always buy clothes that are easy to wear. The dress or hat that requires you to be looking your best is not for you just now.

And do be sure to have at least one really glamorous negligee. This will be a good time to add it to your wardrobe.

DO NOT FORGET, BETTY WAS warned, that after the baby is born, you may have lost only half the weight you have gained. Many women return to their normal weight immediately, but this is not always true. The majority find that it takes about three months or more,

Later on, you will meet Betty again—after the baby is born. Then, she will start an experiment to regain her figure in the shortest possible time, to re-shape her beauty program to include the care of the heir apparent.

Ukrainians Cook Special Meal In Celebration of Anniversary

You can't just pop studebetz, kapusta or kielbasa into the oven and expect it to taste like anything.

It's an art passed down from generation to generation.

Such meals are usually prepared in this country only on Christmas, New Year's, Easter or other festive occasion.

Yesterday, for many members of the Washington Ukrainian colony, was one of those special events. It was the anniversary of the first Ukrainian Orthodox mass celebrated in the Nation's Capital.

More than 100 members of St. Andes' Ukrainian Orthodox Parish gathered to observe the occasion in a manner they had been accustomed to back in their native towns.

Few of the estimated 500 Ukrainians here were born in the District. Many were displaced persons, but most migrated here as Federal employes from other parts of the country.

A year ago six couples got together and decided to have church services in their own rite. Mass is now celebrated regularly each Sunday at 11 a.m. in the Bethlehem Chapel of the Washington Cathedral.

The celebration yesterday was a happy, family-type occasion. The chief dishes were prepared in the homes and brought to the dining room of Ascension and Saint Agnes Church. Children—a few in native costumes—were just as hungry as their more solemn parents.

There was the shivery studenetz, jelled, suspended pork shanks; the elongated kielbasa, spiced, smoke sausage; the sour kapusta, pickled cabbage; and the doughy pierogi, potato and cheese dumplings.

The parish's 65-year-old pastor, the Rev. Wasil Warwariw, was a general in the Ukranian army which fought for independence against the Bolsheviks in World War I. He was among 40 DP's attending. Others included Prof. Alexander Powstenko, a famous Ukrainian architect, and the priest's son, Constantine Warwariw, a journalist.

The six couples, all Washington residents, who have seen their efforts flower are: Mr. and Mrs. Egor G. Shlopak, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Skotzko, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Carpin, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Szwec, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene T. Kashuba and Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Mandrich.

Arlington Group To Hold Choral Auditions Tonight

Auditions for the junior high chorus will be held by the Arlington Council of Girl Scouts tonight at 7 in the Clarendon Presbyterian Church, 1314 N. Irving st., Arlington.

Three girls will be selected from each junior high troop to sing in the new county-wide chorus. Director will be Mrs. Edward H. Kendall.

The 40-voice chorus will entertain shutins and county organizations, Mrs. A. M. Blakeney, program chairman of the council announced.

Mass at Maryland U. To Honor War Dead

A solemn high mass will be sung next Sunday at 11 a. m. in Ritchie Coliseum at the University of Maryland in commemoration of those who gave their lives in service to their country.

The public ceremony is the ninth annual military memorial sponsored by Prince Georges Council No. 2809, Knights of Columbus. The most Rev. Patrick J. McCormick, rector of Catholic University, will preside and the sermon will be delivered by the Very Rev. John S. Spence, director of education for the Washington Archdiocese.

Commercial Film Firms Hit by FTC On Time Contracts

The Federal Trade Commission Saturday ordered four companies producing and distributing advertising and commercial films to stop signing long-time exclusive-screening contracts with motion picture theaters.

It issued cease-and-desist orders against Reid H. Ray Film Industries, Inc., St. Paul, Minn; Alexander Film Co., Colorado Springs, Colo.; United Film Service, Inc., Kansas City, Mo., and Mption Picture Advertising Service Co. Inc., New Orleans.

They were ordered not to sign exclusive contracts if the agreements run for more than a year. Each of the companies sells, leases, or otherwise furnishes commercial films to advertisers and contracts with theaters for screen space.

A. V. Cushman, Dean of Patent Lawyers, Dies

Mr. Cushman was a nationally known member of the patent bar, having practiced in the District for almost 60 years.

He was graduated from Amherst College and George Washington University Law School. Upon his admission to the D. C. bar in 1892, he devoted a great portion of his time to the specialty of patent law, and handled many important patent cases in Federal courts.

He was the senior partner in the law firm of Cushman, Darby & Cushman, which he founded early in this century. He had continued in active practice of the law as the head of this firm up until his illness, some two months ago.

He was a member of the Chevy Chase and Cosmos Clubs, the American Bar Association, the Bar Association of the District of Columbia, the American Patent Law Association, and the Phi Delta Phi legal fraternity. He was also a member of the Sons of the American Revolution, and Society of Mayflower Descendants.

RCA Refuses to Give Color TV Data to CBS Now

NEW YORK, Nov. 5 (AP).—Radio Corporation of America today refused a Government request to hand over its color television tube to the Columbia Broadcasting System until the tri-color tube is "generally available" for sale.

RCA President Frank M. Folsom made public a leter he wrote the Federal Communications Commission in reply to an FCC request that CBS be supplied with technical information gleaned by RCA research.

Until RCA has completed its research work, Folsom advised the FCC, it will not be able to make models of its tri-color picture tubes for television available to others.

"As soon as we can produce tri-color tubes that can form the basis for commercial design and factory production," Folsom said, "we will make such tubes generally available."

By "generally available," an RCA spokesman said, Folsom meant "ready for sale."

"Then," the spokesman said, "CBS can buy them like anyone else."

RCA and other manufacturers have been contesting an FCC decision approving the CBS color television system and rejecting theirs.

The FCC asked RCA to give its findings to CBS, in "the public's interest."

Folsom said the request "amounts to a request that our stockholders bear the heavy cost of color television research and transfer the benefits to a private interest."

The request, Folsom said, "cannot be regarded as in the public interest, or in accordance with the well-established American principles of free competition and fair play.

"If this sort of thing goes on in America," Folsom wrote the FCC, "the Phillies certainly missed a bet in the last World Series. They should have asked the Yanks for Joe DiMaggio."

The RCA color system is based on the use of a tube capable of reproducing three colors.

The CBS system, which has been approved for use this month, operates by use of a revolving disc which also produces three colors.

Environment-Work Relation To Be Discussed This Week

A series of five lecture-discussions on the relation of physical environment to work will be held at the Library of Congress this week, under sponsorship of Luther H. Evans, Librarian of Congress, and David Lynn, Architect of the Capitol.

The series will cover noise, lighting, ventilation, functional color and safety as environmental influences on work.

The lectures were originally planned for architects and engineers concerned with planning future improvements for Capitol Hill offices. The sponsors later later decided to invite broader audiences representing the Federal Government, labor organizations, the business community, scientific, professional and other groups.

The lectures will be held at the Coolidge Auditorium of the Library of Congress, today through Friday, at 10:30 a. m. The Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday programs will be repeated at 2:30 p. m.

Today, Willard Brown, manager of the engineering division department, General Electric Co., will discuss illuminating; Tuesday; S. W. Quisenberry of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., color; Wednesday, R. Allen Wilson of the Celotex Corp., noise; Thursday, Charles S. Leopold, head of a Philadelphia engineering firm, air conditioning, and Friday, Edward B. Lamdry, safety director, United States Postoffice Department, accident prevention.

Actors Voted Honors

NEW YORK, Nov. 5 (AP).—Gloria Swanson and William Holden have been chosen film actress and actor of the year by American film critics, the motion picture industry newspaper Film Daily said today. They were selected for their work in "Sunset Boulevard."

Other People's Brands

Meck Hits Top Ten Making Video Sets

By Wayne Oliver

NEW YORK (AP).—John Meck has become one of the top 10 television manufacturers by making sets bearing other folks' brands.

Tens of thousands of television fans whose sets bear the label of some other company, or the store where they were bought, have sets made by Meck.

The 42-year-old manufacturer by no means confines himself to making private brand sets, though, and turns out tens of thousands bearing the names of the two companies he heads—John Meck Industries of Plymouth, Ind., and Scott Radio Laboratories, Inc., of Chicago. An increasing proportion of his total output is going with either the Meck or the Scott label.

But making sets to be sold under other people's labels constituted a major portion of Meck's business on his climb from obscurity to a place among the leaders in the new industry. And that made his emergence as a vivid magnate seem sudden to the public and to many in the industry.

MECK ACTUALLY got into the business back in 1939 in his native Chicago with $900 he and his wife had saved up. He opened a plant on the north side to make small phonographs and sound systems.

In 1941, Meck and his wife moved to Plymouth, Ind., because they thought it might be better suited for their electronics business. (Today, one out of every eight persons in Plymouth works at the Meck plant.)

They had hardly settled in the Plymouth factory when war came and everything was turned over to war production.

When it was over, Meck concentrated on a $19.95 radio which for months was the lowest priced set on the market. Later, sensing that the war-accumulated backlog of demand for radios would soon be filled, Meck started making plans for television.

HE DECIDED the real market in television would be among middle and low income groups, and sets should be made to sell at as low a price as possible. To do that, he figured the design had to be simple, and operating and administrative costs had to be held down.

"We aim to keep a $20 bill under the price of our competitors," explains Meck whose line starts with a 14-inch set at $169. For a while he had a 10-inch model that sold for a few cents under $100, but he says public demand for that small size dropped off. Besides, manufacturers practically quit making the tubes in favor of larger sizes.

Last April, Meck bought controlling interest in Scott Radio Laboratories, which long had been famous for making high quality radios and phonographs but had been losing money on television. In the first quarterly report after Meck took over, it showed a profit.

Meck thought the explanation was very simple: "Scott couldn't live alone because it couldn't affort the tooling, engineering and marketing expense it needed on a small volume of quality sets."

By giving Scott the advantage of the over-all Meck organization and adding a lower priced line. Meck showed a profit for the company, in which he holds about one-third interest.

THE STOCKY, bespectaled television magnate says he could have cheaper sets and bigger pictures if everybody could agree on a standard size—say a 21-inch tube. He predicts the 20 to 21-inch tube will be the most popular size in a few months.

The DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

All-Day Parkers Made Of Sterner Stuff Than Our Bill

If a visitor from another planet were to descend on Washington around 5:30 any workday morning, he'd probably be more baffled than somewhat.

Around the Ellipse — and later along the Mall—he'd see auto after auto pull up and park. And he'd no doubt wonder what on earth makes these Earthlings roll out of the hay at such an unearthly hour.

He'd be further confused by the fact that, as each car comes to a stop, headlights and motor are turned off—but nobody seems to emerge from the autos. Instead, the drivers curl up and go to sleep.

Now that the weather has turned cold again, most of them bring blankets. Wrapped in their togas, they snooze peacefully until the sun is up and the city is swarming with traffic.

Then they rouse themselves again, and set forth on foot for their various places of employment.

They've gotten a free all-day parking space. And, in Washington, that's no mean accomplishment.

By 6:15 a. m., every available space has been taken. The competition is so keen that the regulars must leave home in the middle of the night to get one of the coveted places.

I must say I admire their enterprise. But I have no stomach for trying to match it.

I work on a morning paper, and am usually going to bed at about the time these fellows are getting up.

Call me a night-owl if you like; in fact, call me anything but early in the morning. I'll pay my parking fee with a smile, and do my sleeping in bed.

APPROPRIATE?

The P-TA at Sousa Junior High School, the Boys' Club of Washington, and the Southeast Council of Citizens' Associations are jointly sponsoring the ninth annual (free) John Philip Sousa Memorial Concert this evening.

The time is 8 p. m. and the place is the John Philip Sousa Junior High School, on Ely pl. se. (off Minnesota). And they couldn't have picked two more appropriate guests of honor.

They are Jane Priscilla Sousa and Mrs. Helen Sousa Abert — daughters of John Philip. They're coming to Washington especially for this occasion.

GIVE-AWAYS

"Very sweet, housebroken black kitten, 10 weeks old." (Trinidad 6433.)

BUCKEYE OUTLOOK

The best political forecaster I've ever encountered in my years as a reporter is Vice-Mayor Edward N. Waldvogel of Cincinnati. He's uncanny, and when I used to write and broadcast "think pieces" on national affairs, his guidance was invaluable.

There's so much interest in the Taft-Ferguson race in my home State this year that I wired Eddie yesterday for his prediction. He wired back:

"Taft will beat Ferguson, but not as decisively as some people think. I guess the margin at about 30,000."

Governor Lausche is rated a shoo-in for reelection. Cincinnatians are expected to return Congressmen Wagner and Elston to the House.

MR. TRUMAN'S TRIBUTE

Washington reporters who have at times been assigned to cover stories at the White House can well understand the emotions which moved President Truman to pay tribute to the heroism of Pvt. Leslie Coffelt, who was killed in the shooting at Blair House.

The weary hours of waiting for news developments at the Executive Mansion give correspondents a chance to know and appreciate the grand guys who make up the White House police detail. They're truly a picked group.

To qualify, every man must first serve an apprenticeship with the Metropolitan Police. And most have also seen military service.

What's more, every candidate must prove his worth on the pistol range with a rating of "marskman" or better. That's a score of 210 out of a possible 300.

Take a look at their uniforms and you'll see that most of them are either "sharpshooters" (240) or "experts" (270).

Inspector H. W. Francis, for example, used to rate as a "master." That's even higher than "expert" and may be freely translated as meaning: "It ain't healthy to monkey with me, bub."

If you think it's easy to hit a moving target with a pistol, try it sometimes. Those two gunmen were riddled before they got inside for one reason only: To hold their jobs, White House cops must qualify on the pistol range every single month.

Twice a year, they've got to pass muster on the Thompson submachinegun course. Also twice a year, they prove their ability with sawed off shotguns.

And at periodic intervals, their pistol team takes on the best in the country—and usually comes out on top.

If there's one word to describe these Presidential guardians, it's "preparedness." A little-known fact about the Blair House incident is that it was the first time in history that the White House Police fired a shot in anger. But when the chips were down, they had what it took.

Story of Hanley Letter Told

By Drew Pearson

When this hot and hectic election campaign is over, the weirdest story undoubtedly will be that of how Gov. Thomas E. Dewey bulldozed Lieut. Gov. Joe Hanley out of the New York gubernatorial race and his efforts to destroy the Hanley letter which followed.

Hanley

Here are inside facts regarding this amazing story not hitherto published.

The story began, of course, in late August, when the polls showed Truman's political popularity at its lowest ebb and when Korean defeats were at their worst. At this time Winthrop Aldrich, head of the Chase National Bank, conferred in Bar Harbor, Me., with his brother-in-law, John D. Rockefeller, and as a result, Aldrich staged a luncheon of GOP bigwigs in his office, August 28, at which he laid down an ultimatum that Hanley must withdraw from the race and Dewey must be the gubernatorial candidate.

Otherwise, Aldrich bluntly warned, no campaign funds would be forthcoming. Since Aldrich has been the biggest single money-raiser for Dewey, this warning meant something.

What Dewey's banking friends figured was that, with Truman popularity down and the Korean war going badly, the long-awaited opportunity to put their man in the White House was just around the corner. But there was one big complication. Since Dewey wanted to be drafted, he had to get Hanley—upon whom he had placed his blessing—to withdraw gracefully from the race.

Hanley's Mental Mauling

To that end, Hanley was summoned to Dewey's apartment in New York, September 1, where Dewey, Congressmen William Pfeiffer of Kenmore and Dean Taylor of Troy put the heat on him. The 74-year-old Hanley, however, had long looked forward to the honor of being Governor, and did not withdraw gracefully. In fact, it was not until 2 a. m. that he finally gave in; then only after Dewey promised a $15,000 salary with the Throughway Commission and a $15,000 vice presidency with one of the Rockefeller oil companies.

By this time Hanley was so exhausted he had lost the sight of his one good eye, and, when flown back to Albany in the morning, his eyes were bandaged and the tears streamed out from under the bandages. His daughter, Mrs. Josephine Wilcox, welcoming her father, broke down.

"Why didn't they shoot him instead of doing this," she sobbed.

Next week the Republican State convention met in Saratoga to nominate, and on Tuesday, September 5, Jim Leary, close friend of and personal attorney for Hanley, tried to find Congressman Kingsland Macy. Macy, meeting with the Suffolk County delegation, could not be reached until later in the evening at the convention hall.

There Leary pulled him aside and under candlelight—the electricity having gone off—showed him a carbon copy of the now famous Hanley letter, telling of the Dewey pledge to take care of Hanley's debts and future financial welfare if he withdrew from the race.

"Good God, what's this?" exclaimed Macy.

Apparently Leary had encouraged Hanley to write the letter, and had kept a copy. Next morning Macy received the original of the letter by messenger and was so fearful its contents might leak that he sent his secretary all the way to Long Island to have it photostated. She stood by while 12 photostats were made.

Macy then transmitted one copy each to Frank Gannett of the Gannett newspapers and Whitelaw Reid of the New York Herald Tribune. Reid, who was at Paul Smiths, N. Y., then telephoned Dewey at Saratoga and gave his assistant, Paul Lockwood, a summary of the letter. This was with the idea that Dewey, knowing of the Hanley letter in advance, might want to reconsider his plan to run for Governor.

Dewey, however, remained outwardly unperturbed. But that night, around midnight, he sent word that he wanted to see Kingsland Macy about "the Hanley letter."

"I understand Joe Hanley has written you a letter," Dewey told Macy, "and I want you to destroy it."

Finally Macy said: "Someone else has a copy of the letter over whom I have no control—Jim Leary."

"Leary!" exclaimed Dewey. "He's an attorney for the racetrack interests. That's terrible, terrible, terrible!"

At this news the Governor appeared almost on the verge of a collapse. The meeting ended at 3 a. m.
